Today

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Europe reports that the revolt in Spain, as anticipated, has become extremely dangerous. A president is named, to take the place of the King, and rebels against the government include Spanish army flying machines.

THE REMARKABLE King of Spain takes all this coolly, not disturbed, apparently, by the fact that already, eight separate attempts have been made to assassinate him. He says he will run for president, if his people really want a republic.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS in captured cities have massacred entire populations, or as many as could not hide or run away. Tens of thousands are supposed to have been cut down in cold blood.

ALEXANDER THE GREAT, comparatively humane for his period, put to death all the inhabitants of one city when their resistance annoyed him.

William the Conqueror, whose mother was the daughter of a humble tanner, was irritated when a besieged city, to mock his birth, hung hides of cattle on the city wall to remind him of his grandfather's business. Having captured the town he had the principal citizens slain, and hung their hides on the wall.

They object to the fact that under that bill President Hoover could direct the spending as he saw it. Next to the large amount that was the best feature of the bill. Somebody must have charge of the spending.

Apparently our lawmakers will continue fighting for the pleasure of throwing the life preserver to the drowning unemployed.

THE GREAT Einstein is on his way to the Pacific Coast, going, most wisely, through the Panama Canal. He will see things there that will make matter, space and time seem temporarily real. Of course, he can prove that there is nothing there except deceptive aggregations of electrons and protons, negatively and positively charged, the electrons going around the protons trillions of times in a second.

When you go to the Pacific Coast, don't forget to see the Panama Canal, going or coming.

THERE ARE cheerful spots in the news. The Chevrolet Automobile Company, adding a night shift to its working force, is now carrying 30,000 men on the payroll, and expects to increase that number.

MR. CUTTER, president of the United Fruit Company, says that we did a business last year with Latin-America of more than two thousand million dollars, whereas we ought to be doing a business of ten thousand million dollars.

IN THE Caribbean countries, says Mr. Cutter, we reach fewer than 20 per cent of the possible customers.

American business men, with the Department of Commerce leading, should look into that ten billion dollar possibility. We need the business.

FEAR, IN THE mind of man, works strangely. One suicide, foiled by a policeman yesterday, shows that some of us no longer take seriously the theory that a divine ruler is always watching us.

Joseph Vallera, climbed a telegraph pole, carrying a rope, and was fastening a noose around his neck, when Policeman Bernard White saw him. Vallera knew that the supreme power forbids suicide. But that didn't deter him.

But when Policeman White said "Come down or I will lock you up," Mr. Vallera humbly dropped his rope, climbed down the telegraph pole and submitted.

The man could have hanged himself. The policeman could not have prevented it.

THE DEATH of a murderer with many years in prison ahead of him in Sing Sing prison is made more interesting by the fact that he was an editor. You rarely read of editors committing murder. The usual thing has been for somebody to shoot the editor.

The dead editor murdered his wife, and by way of anti-climax his body goes to Washington to be buried beside her. If they arise at the same moment in obedience to Gabriel's trumpet, "in the flesh" to meet their maker, what will the wife say to the husband who killed her and then insisted on being buried by her side?

Science says the world will not end for at least a million million years. Perhaps she will have forgotten all about it by that time.

MENTION OF the Angel Gabriel recalls the curious fact that Charles Wesley Hill, a Negro who took the part of the Angel Gabriel in a play "The Green Pastures," killed by a taxicab last Wednesday, was buried yesterday. Two thousand Negroes attended his funeral and sang "I've Heard of a City

KING READY TO FLEE MADRID

Associated Press.

Famine threatened in a dozen Spanish cities today under a general strike which appeared to be spreading despite the proclamation of martial law throughout the country.

There were serious riots at Santander, and those who could were fleeing across the frontier into France.

Paris dispatches to London asserted the insurgents were gaining the upper hand and that King Alfonso might leave Madrid today.

Seventy-five thousand troops were mobilized through the important centers, but at Madrid Premier Berenguer informed the King that yesterday's revolution had been suppressed and that the government was in control at all points, backed by the support of the people.

Meanwhile, at Lisbon, Ramon Franco, the hot headed young aviator who led yesterday's revolt of the aviators, was interned by the Portuguese authorities. It was not known whether the Spanish government would demand his extradition and that of his associates.

MADRID, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Through the heavy-handed censorship which clutched all Spain there seeped today reports which indicated that the revolutionary movement of the past week had developed into a general strike, threatening food shortage in many of the kingdom's principal cities.

Martial law was in force from one end of the country to the other. Seventy-five thousand troops were reported to have been mobilized, and the leaders of yes-

'Reds' Toss Eggs At Ritzy Club But Omit Toast

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

They threw eggs at the Union League. But forgot the toast.

The Union League is a very expensive place to riot outside of.

Dues are very high.

Membership is exclusive. And only the waiters are supposed to serve eggs.

Now the French government will declare war against the Union League Club.

The Union League's membership consists of two floor lamps to every member.

We cannot believe a Communist when he yells he is hungry. And

POINCARE SINKS AS CRISIS NEARS

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Hope for the recovery of Raymond Poincare, France's war-time president, waned today as partial paralysis deadened his right side, and uremia, which caused the death of his war-time colleagues, Georges Clemenceau and Marshal Ferdinand Foch, threatened to spread through his system.

While attending physicians declined to reveal officially the exact nature of his illness, it was reported on reliable authority that Poincare was suffering from the pressure of a small vein which was beginning to break circulatory contact with the brain, thus producing paralysis.

Fate of Franco and Aides Uncertain in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Portuguese government today had on its hands 12 Spanish army officers, among them the trans-Atlantic aviator Maj. Ramon Franco, who were just as welcome as proverbial white elephants.

Fleeing Spain in four airplanes yesterday after collapse of their attempt to overthrow the monarchy and establish a republic, all headed for Lisbon and came down in various places nearby. After a temporary welcome by the Portuguese air force the government had them rounded up and brought to a place of interment at Mafra, near here.

International custom is for a nation to guarantee political asylum, but Spain and Portugal always have had a sort of working agreement whereby each government aided the other in suppression of its internal difficulties, and a request for extradition of the 12 men may be hard to deny.

Maj. Franco told an interviewer today that he and his compatriots had failed yesterday in their attempt to overthrow the Spanish monarchy and establish a republic because the artillery corps, after pledging adhesion to the movement, backed out at the last minute. He said:

"When the artillery opened fire against us there was only one alternative — surrender. Nevertheless nothing can arrest the republican movement which will soon swamp Spain. In one month a republic will be proclaimed."

BUS DRIVER ACCUSED OF MURDER

Charged with murder in connection with the deaths of two Pittsburgh business men, as the result of a fatal auto crash in Ambridge Sunday, Walter J. Doughty, 35, of 1934 Buena Vista street, North Side, today was being held without bail in the Beaver County Jail, Beaver.

Doughty, a driver for the Colonial Stage Lines, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor at a hearing last night before Justice of the Peace J. V. Lewis, of Ambridge, and was held in $1,000 bail for court on that charge.

"DIDN'T KNOW OF DEATHS"

When the justice read the part of the information charging Doughty with the murder of George Shriber, of 5448 Stanton avenue, the prisoner replied listlessly:

"I won't plead guilty to that because to tell the truth I don't know anything about it."

As he concluded reading the information charging the driver with the murder of Max Dernis, of 19 Davenport street, busines.

Westinghouse Gets Radio Test Permit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Federal Radio Commission today granted authority to W8XAR, of the Westinghouse company, auxiliary of KDKA, to experiment with powers ranging from 50,000 to 400,000 watts on KDKA's wave length of 980 kilocycles. The tests are to be conducted between 1 a. m. and 6 a. m.

KDKA's super power station at Saxonburg, Pa.—the most powerful in the world—will not be used in its full capacity of 400,000 watts until sometime after the first of the year, Percy Boyd, publicity director, said today. For some time KDKA has been using the Saxonburg plant on 50,000 watts for transmission of its regular evening programs.

Cold Wave Drives Mercury Down to 11

A fast-moving cold wave sweeping in from the West dropped the mercury to 11 at the weather bureau at 1 and 2 a. m. today. It had risen to 16 at 8 a. m. with prospect that the brunt of the cold had passed. Tonight the thermometer likely will be around 15, early reports indicated.

Learn a Lesson From the Sumptuary Situation

MANY YEARS AGO the Hearst papers tried to get the hotels and restaurants and legitimate resorts to favor a light wine and beer policy, and to oppose hard liquors; and the Hearst papers warned the hotels and restaurants and the public generally that unless some such policy was adopted the extreme of prohibition would be inflicted upon them.

This advice was rejected with some resentment on the part of the liberal element of the community, and consequently we are suffering today under prohibition and its attendant evils.

Something must be done to clean up the stage.

It has degenerated to a degree seldom reached, even in the most decadent days of its history.

It is, in part, at least, an offense to the judicious element of the community.

The question of what is to be done is being widely debated among the more thoughtful producers, performers and playwrights.

It is useless to depend on self-regulation. We have the results of self regulation now.

There must be some sort of governmental censorship.

The stage can either have a liberal censorship, largely of its own devising, or it can have an extreme and fanatical censorship of the kind that will surely result if stage conditions continue as at present without any co-operation on the part of stage people to correct them.

The censorship would be better if it were a national censorship instead of a series of state censorships with considerable conflicting ideas and standards.

Nevertheless the censorship, even as it is and imperfect as it is, puts a strong curb upon the irresponsible moving picture producers and prevents the excesses which existed in the moving picture situation before censorship went into effect.

In some of the states the censorship is excellent.

It keeps the pictures clean, but it does not interfere unnecessarily with the legitimate objects of the producers.

If, therefore, the stage has reached a point where it must have judicious censorship or worse, why should not the people of the stage in New York welcome the same kind of liberal censorship which the moving pictures in New York secure?

And why should not the same censorship board enlarged sufficiently to enable it to perform its added duties, censor both the stage and the screen?

The Hearst papers advise the responsible stage producers, performers and playwrights of New York to support some such plan.

YOUNG GUNMEN THREATEN EMPLOYES, FELL ONE; 2 GIRLS COLLAPSE

Three young bandits armed with automatic pistols and sawed-off shotguns held up the Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company, 1312 Beaver avenue, this morning, forced the assistant treasurer to open the vault and escaped with $50,000 in bills.

It was the third bank robbery in Allegheny County in 10 days, and took place while police were still hunting the gang which held up the Perry State Bank, Perrysville avenue, last Saturday, part of the loot of which was recovered yesterday.

Woods Run police recovered the car used in today's robbery in the 1500 block McCullough street, shortly before noon. This was followed by a report that men, believed to be the robbers, had been seen at windows of a house nearby. Police rushed to the scene, but the alarm proved unfounded.

The robbers, one of whom was described by witnesses as a "mere kid," entered the bank with pistols and shotguns ready for action at 9:30 a. m., half an hour after the bank had opened for business.

Woods Run police shortly before noon recovered the bandit car in the 1500 block in McCullough street. The car was taken to the Keystone Garage, Chateau street and West North avenue.

30 IN BANK MENACED

Approaching the various offices and cages, the bandits leveled guns and commanded G. C. Gerwig, 80, president, other officers, and employes and several customers, 15 in all, under threat of death to keep quiet and to move immediately toward the directors' room.

One of the robbers backed J. Dravo Grumken, assistant treasurer, to the vault and compelled him to open it. The robber grabbed many packages of bills and fled with his pals. They overlooked several thousand dollars.

Adam Hoffman, 75, manager of the real estate department of the bank, was slugged by one of the bandits when he tried to escape through a cellar door in order to reach offices of the Superior Fire Insurance Company, on the second floor.

"DON'T SHOOT!"

Hoffman shouted:

"Boys, don't shoot anyone. Take everything you want, but don't shoot."

A moment later, Hoffman slipped to the cellar just as he had contemplated doing for several years in the event of the holdup. He took an elevator to the second floor and telephoned police.

They arrived soon after the bandits fled.

The bandits, according to witnesses, escaped in a stolen Packard sedan, bearing license plates L-454, which had been parked in Beaver avenue near the bank.

Frank Boyd, inspector of detectives, detailed his entire force of 9 to search rooming houses and poolrooms throughout the city in an effort to identify the robbers, of whom good descriptions were obtained.

Boyd is of the opinion that the bandits are from another city and saw a possibility of their being

STOCK MARGIN BAN PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Federal regulation of the New York Stock Exchange with a ban upon all margin trading and an inquiry into bread prices were proposed in the Senate this afternoon by Democratic senators as a means of relieving national unemployment.

Senator Heflin (Dem.), of Alabama, introduced a bill outlawing margin trading, limiting interest on "call money" loans to 8 per cent and placing the New York Stock Exchange under government regulation. Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, decrying the high cost of bread when wheat prices have declined, introduced a resolution proposing an inquiry

SENATE AND HOUSE UNABLE TO AGREE ON RELIEF BILL

DEADLOCKED ON FUND CONTROL

Disagreement of Conferees Will Be Reported to Both Chambers of Congress

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Senate and House conferees on the $116,000,000 emergency unemployment public works construction bill failed to agree today on some of the Senate amendments, one of which would limit President Hoover's authority to allocate the money to the various projects, and will report disagreement to their respective houses.

The Senate conferees insisted on retaining the Robinson amendment, which strikes out the House provision giving the President control of the money, the Couzens amendment providing for employment of local labor on all the projects, and the Senate amendment allocating $1,600,000 for the repair of roads in flood areas in Alabama and Georgia.

PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

The Senate conferees accepted the compromise agreed to informally Saturday by lopping off $2,000,000 from $5,000,000 provided in the bill for maintenance of public roads on unreserved public lands.

Despite the fervid appeal yesterday of Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader, for support of the President, the Senate indicated an intention to thoroughly investigate the unemployment situation to determine if Mr. Hoover's remedies will provide adequate relief.

DROUGHT RELIEF DELAY

Meanwhile the Senate's $60,000,000 drought relief bill faced further delay in the House today as the agriculture committee decided to reopen the whole subject and call Secretary of Agriculture Hyde as a witness.

The decision followed action of the House yesterday in defeating the move of Republican leaders to pass a $30,000,000 drought relief bill under suspension of rules.

The Johnson immigration suspension bill which reduces the present quota law 50 per cent for two years and suspends immigration entirely from some countries, was reported out of the House immigration committee as a means of preventing further unemployment.

Representative Johnson, (Rep.) of Washington, committee chairman, said he would attempt to obtain early action in the House.

to determine why bread prices have failed to follow wheat prices.

Heflin assailed the New York Stock Exchange and charged that speculation there had caused "serious injury to the business of labor, the American farmer, merchant, banker, manufacturer and the railroads." He said he had no intention to halt legitimate trading in stocks, but only to outlaw gambling and evil speculation.

Heflin declared the stock exchange could be regulated by the federal government because most of its transactions were of an "interstate character" with stocks bought and sold in every state of the union. If it is "purely a state institution," he demanded that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, immediately take steps to halt its gambling and speculative activities.

Loot Indiana Bank, Shoot One Pursuer

DANA, Ind., Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Five bandits who robbed the Citizens State Bank at Clinton, Ind., of $7,000, shot and seriously wounded Joe Walker, 35, former deputy sheriff of Vermillion County and a member of the posse that closed in on the desperadoes near here today, an hour after the robbery.

The bandits escaped by kidnaping F. W. Gilbert, a Dana (Ind.) cattle buyer, and forcing him to drive them in his cattle truck, after they abandoned their car.

Writers in Russia Fight To Get Laborers' Status

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(Universal.)—Russian authors are trying to get into the class of the "black workers"—the manual laborers who are given first choice as to rations, clothes and so forth, says Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, who has just returned from Russia, where he went in search of literary material. He continued:

"The writers claim that they also work with their hands since they use typewriters—but so far they haven't got away with it."

Russian authors are organized into unions, says Mr. Long, their works being published by the state and censored by unskilled workers, yet several of them have created plays and novels comparable to the work of Chekov and Tolstoi.

Mr. Long has brought back with him three important novels by Russian writers, "The Volga Flows Into the Caspian Sea," by Boris Pilnyak; "The Great Schemer," by Ilya Ilf and Eugene Petro, and an untitled manuscript by Valentine Kataev. Mr. Long considers Pilnyak the most important author in Russia today. He ranks Kataev next. He said:

"I went to Russia especially to get material for publication. I felt a lot of important literature was coming out there now and I wanted to see it. Then, too, I believed there was a reawakening of America's interest in the Soviet. Russia will have a tremendous influence on this country within the next 10 years, even if they do only one-half of the industrial and agricultural development which they plan."

BLOCKED?

CAR RECOVERED

Mr. Gerwig said a preliminary check showed the bandits had obtained about $50,000. The entire loss is covered by insurance, he asserted. Several thousand dollars more than usual was carried, he explained, to accommodate patrons who wished to exchange old bills for new to be used as Christmas presents.

Gerwig, his secretary, Miss Alberta Wittman, and Grumken were forced into a lavatory adjoining the cash vault at the rear of the banking quarters as the bandits entered. One of the robbers shouted:

Left alone for a few minutes, Mr. Gerwig suggested that they try to escape through a window into Pennsylvania avenue.

"Get away from that window or I'll blow your brains out. I know your game."

Threatening Grumken, he forced him out of the room and into the vault, where the robbers were balked by a safe which contained nearly all of the bank's currency.

One bandit demanded:

"Do you know the combination of that safe?"

"No."

Another stuck a gun into the pit of his stomach and forced him against the wall. He yelled:

"You open that safe or we'll kill you."

Grumken opened the safe, using a key which he had in his pocket, and the men scooped the currency into black bags.

DESCRIBES HOLDUP

Hoffman, who, with astonishing coolness, eluded the bandits to give the alarm thus described the holdup:

"I was seated in my office in the banking room when the bandits entered. I attempted to leave the room by way of the cellar door, thinking to reach the office of the Superior Fire Insurance Company on the second floor and give the alarm.

"One of the robbers saw me and rushed over. He struck me on the hand with a sawed-off shotgun and slugged me with his fist."

"I saw the guns and shouted to them not to shoot, but to take anything they wanted.

"Then I started back to the directors' room with the others at the point of guns. On the way I saw my chance and quickly opened the door to the cellar, then went up the elevator to the insurance company offices and summoned police."

TELLER EXPLAINS

Grumken described the holdup:

"The first thing I knew, a young fellow pushed a revolver through the bars of my cage and someone else shouted 'Hands up, everybody, and keep quiet.' The man in front of me jumped over the railing beside my cage and came around to the back of it. He ordered me and all the other employes into the back of the bank, near the vault.

"In the confusion, I tried to raise the window with the idea of spreading the alarm. The window faces on Pennsylvania avenue. One of the men, with a sawed-off shotgun, said: 'Close that window, or I'll blow your head off.' Then he forced me to open the vault and he grabbed up bundles of money and bills, totaling more than $50,000. The bandits overlooked several thousand in plain sight."

Kenneth Behannon, 944 West North avenue, said:

"I had just parked my car at the corner of Beaver avenue and Pennsylvania avenue — where the bank is located—when a small man with glasses ran out of the bank and got into a Packard sedan right in front of me.

"Immediately after, two other men ran down the steps, one hiding a sawed-off shotgun under his overcoat and both carrying money bags which appeared to be full. I just realized that it must have been a holdup when the brown sedan got started and speeded up Pennsylvania avenue towards Irwin avenue."

GIRL FAINTS

Miss Wittman

"Did you call the police?"

She answered "No."

"Well, if I thought you did I'd blow your brains out."

The girl collapsed and at her home, 956 Stanford road, she was in a highly nervous condition due to the ordeal. Describing the holdup to her mother, Mrs. Theresa Wittman, the girl sobbed:

"Mother, oh, mother, he held a gun to my head and I cried out, 'Don't hit me, don't shoot me, I did not do anything.'

"The bandit said, 'Are you sure you didn't call the police?'

"I said, 'No, no, no, I didn't. Please don't shoot me.' I just can't remember any more."

Miss Hoffman

Another clerk, beside her, Miss Mabel Hoffman, 3470 Shadeland avenue, was shaken by the ordeal. Both were taken home after the men escaped.

M. B. Murphy, of 1612 Beaver avenue, had just entered the bank to transact business when he encountered one of the robbers. He said:

"Just as soon as I got inside a man, hardly more than a kid, stuck a revolver in my back and told me 'Stand still or I'll blow your head off'."

STOLEN AUTO

The Packard used by the robbers in fleeing was stolen from Mrs. H. L. Landon, 4205 Bigelow boulevard, yesterday morning, police reported. Mrs. Landon said the car was of a distinctive gray-brown color, almost a tan. It had disc wheels and a black tire cover on each side of the engine. A trunk rack on the back and the initials "M. E. L." were on the side.

The car, nearly three years old, was a six-cylinder machine, but in excellent condition, Mrs. Landon said.

A detailed description of the car was flashed over the teletype by county detectives.

REWARD FOR 2 IN BANK LOOT

Officers of the Perry State Bank, 3908 Perrysville avenue today said they had suggested to the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company that a reward be paid to Mrs. J. L. Beezer in whose rooming house, 532 Tripoli street, $1,560 of the $5,080 taken from the bank in a holdup Saturday was recovered, as well as to M. L. Glover, a neighbor, who had assisted in finding the silver in a wardrobe. The insurance company took up the matter with its New York office, it was learned.

The two notified police immediately upon finding the money along with pistols and cartridge belts. Four men who had rented two rooms in Mrs. Beezer's place two weeks ago, left Saturday after the Perry Bank robbery, saying they would be back next Saturday.

PROBE MELLON TAX REFUNDS, GARNER ASKS

Democratic House Leader Charges Inquiry Would Expose Irregularities

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon and Eugene Meyer, whose nomination as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board is before the Senate, were under attack today in the House.

Representative Garner, the Democratic leader, said he would prove irregularities in tax refunds through the Treasury, if the House authorized an inquiry. He joined with Chairman McFadden, of the House Banking Committee, in opposition to Senate confirmation of Meyer.

SCORES POLICY

After McFadden said confirmation would put the Federal Reserve System in international finance, Garner said the charges were an indictment of the administration and of the Federal Reserve Board under Mellon.

The Texan charged that Secretary Mellon had tried to mislead the public on the amount of tax refunds.

He said that after Mellon took his post, tax refunds, abatements and credits rapidly increased until 1926 when Congress passed a law compelling the Secretary to report to a joint committee of Congress on all refunds in excess of $75,000.

REFUNDS DROPPED

Then, he declared, the refunds dropped 50 per cent. Garner asked:

"What was the reason for the 50 per cent decrease? It was Congress."

Rep. Golder (Rep.), Pennsylvania, interrupted to ask if any of these refunds were made illegally. Garner replied:

"Yes, sir, I think so, and if you will give me the opportunity to investigate the treasury I'll show you irregularities."

Garner said that since Mellon had been secretary the revenue had amounted to $19,000,000,000, and $3,000,000,000 had been made unavailable through tax refunds, abatements and credits.

IRENE, DAGUE GET RESPITES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Gov. Fisher yesterday issued respites staying the execution of Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, under sentence of death for the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul, of the state highway patrol.

The execution, recently set for the week of January 12, 1931, was postponed until the week of February 23. The governor took this action to permit application for commutation of sentence at the February meeting of the State Board of Pardons.

The couple were convicted of slaying the highway officer near New Castle in December, 1929, with the death sentence recommended.

The application to be presented to the pardon board represents the final move in the effort to save the lives of the convicted pair.

associate of Shriber. Lewis asked Doughty if he pleaded guilty or not guilty to the charge, to which the driver replied:

"I don't remember any of that."

Doughty pleaded not guilty to both murder charges.

COMPANION HELD

In the same jail with Doughty was Peter Malloy, of Barnesboro, Pa., a passenger in the bus which crashed into the Pittsburgher's car. He was charged with transportation and possession of liquor as a result of intoxicating liquor alleged to have been found in his possession when police searched the bus and Malloy's luggage. Malloy was remanded to jail in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Charges against the two men were made by Police Chief John W. Flocker, following a conference with District Attorney J. Blaine McGoun, of Beaver County, late yesterday.

Dr. C. H. McCarter, Beaver County coroner, is expected to hold the inquest into the death of the two men today or tomorrow. Ambridge police said today.

Lewis also held Edward Bernier, 30, of 592 Rosedale street, Pittsburgh, in $1,000 bail for court on the charge of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Ambridge police testified Bernier was arrested at Eighth and Merchant streets, Saturday night.

Stokowski to Study Music of Indians

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, is going to Mexico to study the music of the Indians. He will leave soon after December 22, and expects to spend most of his time near Mexico City.

Called Heaven," Mr. Hill's favorite hymn.

THE COFFIN was decorated with a gigantic golden trumpet made of flowers, bigger than the coffin itself. The dead man was one of the most popular actors in a play in which every night another colored actor said: "Gangway for the Lord Jehovah," while the Angel Gabriel offered to Jehovah in the play "a ten-cent cigar."

The tremendous success of this play tells how much of real reverence the Christian religion has lost in modern times.

ADMIRAL PRATT, chief of naval operations, says it is ridiculous "to hope that the United States Navy will ever equal that of Great Britain without a development of our merchant marine."

We arrange to have only as many warships as the British, carrying out British orders in that respect most humbly. And we forget that Britain has a fleet of gigantic passenger-carrying ships that can be used for transporting troops, munitions, all ready for mounting high-powered guns. Each great merchant ship is a warship in itself.

Finland to Permit More Kick in Beer

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Finnish diet has passed an amended bill to increase the percentage weight of alcohol in beer from 1.6, which is the limit under the present law, to 2.25.

The bill is regarded as the first serious step toward modification or abolition of prohibition in Finland.

Coolidge Deems Lewis' Criticism Unimportant

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 16.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

Presentation of a Nobel prize to Sinclair Lewis has aroused considerable discussion. Whether his books will survive as literature remains to be seen. Certainly he has been a keen, critical and witty reporter of certain phases of our life. Being critical, he has many readers. He has found favor in some foreign quarters because they like to believe our life is as he represents it. Human nature not only abroad but at home tends to caricature everything that is foreign.

Calvin Coolidge

No necessity exists for becoming excited. What is of importance is not what some writer represents us to be, but what we really are. We have survived, and profited by, criticism. We have many kinds of people and many phases of life. No writer can treat them all. Judging by our progress and the position we hold, our average is fairly satisfactory. We do not have to obtrude ourselves into the affairs of other people. The world waits in our ante-room for our advice and assistance. The name Mr. Lewis gives us is unimportant. The records of our deeds will surpass all books.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

WRITER ASKS MARRIAGE REVISION

Faith Baldwin's Divorce Remedy Calls for Wedding And Parting 'With Dignity'

Here is the second interview presented by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on the problem of divorce, under so much discussion at present. In it are given the views of Faith Baldwin, author of the well-known novel, "Alimony."

Daily the Sun-Telegraph will publish the views on the subject as given by outstanding advocates and opponents of liberal divorce.

By FAITH BALDWIN.

Dear lady, you are hereby sentenced to spend the rest of your life with a selfish, thoughtless, ungracious, boorish lout. You happened to marry him when you were young and so was he. He hadn't had time to develop the characteristics by which you know him best. You hadn't developed yourself. You have acquired discernment, finesse, delicacy. It's too bad. But there you are. Stay there.

Miss Baldwin

Imagine being told that if you are a woman! Or make it the other way around, if you wish. Men are up against it just as hard.

It's the law.

Drat such a law! Is that going to make the man or the woman spend the rest of their lives in misery? Not if they are worth worrying about at all.

CHILDREN'S SIDE

Well, if you would think about them a little you would probably part years before you finally do. That is, you would, if you were any good at all.

Poor little children—that's right. They are poor little children when they have to live in a house occupied by a male and a female who have no business to be within thousands of miles of each other. And who are not any closer than that mentally.

THOUGHTS ARE WEAPONS

Of course, well bred men and women don't throw dishes at each other. They are not so refined. They toss thoughts that kill back and forth over the heads and across the faces of those poor little children.

And because they are not spoken thoughts do you imagine for one minute the children don't hear them? Ridiculous! They hear everything and see everything that you have in your mind.

Do you suppose a child can't sense the tension that exists in a home torn by distrust, deceit jealousy, incompatibility—anyone of the thousand things that obtrude themselves between mismated men and women?

REJECTS CHESTERTON VIEW

My friend, Gilbert K. Chesterton, with whom I debated, says:

"Ah, but the things you say happen, can't happen in a good Catholic home."

All right. But we are not all Catholics. And if we were, we are not all good.

Let us hurry and acquire just a bit of common sense about this question of divorce. Let us put a stop to all the abuses that are cloaked by a bad law. Give us a discerning, understanding divorce law that contemplates the fact that two persons can be far unhappier who are mismated mentally than for any other cause.

REMEDY IN CONTRACT

Let us go back of the question of divorce. What about marriage? Isn't the trouble right there? Hasn't the church and maybe the state read into the simple contract of marriage conditions, tenets and interpretations which unduly influence the persons making such a contract?

Would it not be possible to revise the contract of marriage so that it becomes an agreement in which two persons may enter and leave with dignity?

Broaden the divorce law until it encompasses the needs for which it is invoked. Examine into that original contract a little more closely. I am not all sure but what the original agreement might easily be revised to make all divorce laws obsolete.

I would like to see a committee of intelligent men and women undertake the revision of that marriage contract. That will solve, I think, the divorce question.

See tomorrow's issue of this newspaper for the next interview in this unusual series. It presents the views of the Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Broadway Temple Methodist Episcopal Church.

Ricci Boys, Violinists, Restored to Parents

COURT ORDER ENDS 2-YEAR BATTLE

Everybody Happy in N. Y. Home as All 7 Children Cluster Around Parents

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Pietro Ricci, of San Francisco, had his brood of seven around him today and he was happy. It was cold out on Riverside Drive, but five floors up, looking out over the Hudson, it was warm—warm with the odor of good things Rosa Ricci was cooking in the kitchen for her two little boys, whom a Supreme Court justice had sent back to them again; warm with the love she and Papa Ricci were lavishing on all seven.

The Riccis have a cook and a maid, furnished, as is their 12-room apartment, by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bartlett, of Chicago, but only the mother's hands prepared the food for her children.

SEPARATED TWO YEARS

It was the first day in two years that the Riccis had been all together under sanction of the courts. Two years ago Ruggiero and Giorgio, 10 and 9, had gone to live with Beth Lackey and learn to be great musicians. She had papers of guardianship, but Papa Ricci insists he didn't sign them.

"Do you think I would sign away my boys?" Not for one minute. They stay with me from now on. We have plenty for all.

For nine months he has been fighting to regain the custody of the two youngsters. He has five others, but none was so happy as he when the two boys ran away from Miss Lackey's home the other night and timidly pushed the bell on their parents' apartment door. And as the boys decided so did Justice Valente.

GLAD TO BE HOME

Somebody asked Ruggiero, whose violin playing has been hailed by New York critics as of the first order:

"Glad to be home, Roger?"
"I'll say so!"

Roger knows his concertos, but also his American slang.

"You ought to see the baby. He's 6 months old. Oh! Wait, I want to see—"

He is back in a moment, his arm curled around a shining, fragile violin. He explains:

"It's a Strad. Isn't it beautiful?"

"Well, I must practice some more. Goodby. Have a nice Christmas."

And he ran for his back bedroom. In his wake went the adoring Giorgio, a year and a half younger.

The Riccis probably will go to Chicago for Christmas to the home of the Barletts, who were underwriting the boy's musical education and now have taken over financial responsibility for the whole family; then to New Mexico, Arizona or Florida for the winter, then to Europe for a year or two of study.

TAKES STAND TO DENY KILLING

Learned During Honeymoon That Wife Drank, Could Not Break Habit, He Says

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Maj. Charles A. Shepard testified today in his trial for the alleged poison murder of his wife that Mrs. Shepard was a victim of alcoholism and narcotics, was morose and had expressed fears of becoming insane.

In taking the witness stand in his own defense, the Army medical officer, who is charged with having poisoned his wife so he would be free to wed Miss Grace Brandon, young San Antonio stenographer, related a story of futile efforts to break his wife of the liquor habit, which, he said, had marred their married life.

His was the first mention in the trial of narcotics.

Shepard testified that he discovered a few months before Mrs. Shepard's death at Fort Riley, Kan., in June, 1929, that she was using narcotics.

Tears came to the eyes of the defendant as he related he discovered his wife was a drinker on their honeymoon after their marriage in Los Angeles in 1916.

CALM ON STAND

Maj. Shepard appeared calm on the stand and answered questions in a clear tone.

He testified that Mrs. Shepard's mother became "violently insane" and said his wife had expressed fear that "she was going to be like her mother." These fits of despondency occurred, he said, at times when she was drinking.

At the time of their marriage, Mrs. Shepard was a nurse in a Los Angeles sanitarium, with which Shepard was connected.

Shepard said they drove to San Diego on the honeymoon and there he smelled liquor on his bride's breath.

LEAVES LOS ANGELES

On their return to Los Angeles, he said, he sold his interest in the sanitarium and went to Needles, California, where he operated a tuberculosis sanitarium until he entered the Army in 1917. He continued:

"She was drinking at times, but at times would go for a week without taking liquor."

"I scolded her, but she said she could not help it."

Shepard told of serving in the Philippines and of efforts to prevent his wife from drinking in the islands, adding:

"Several times she was under the influence of liquor, and she would break social engagements and remain in bed. She refused to go to a hospital."

The major said he wrote Curtis McCoskey, brother of Mrs. Shepard, that "her drinking was undermining her health," and that following drinking sprees "she was afraid she was going to be like her mother."

Record 'Dope' Cargo Seized in New York

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Huge quantities of narcotics, termed at the Treasury the largest seizure every made in the United States, have been taken on the steamer Alesia in New York Harbor. Customs agents reported 1,090 pounds, and said the market value ran above $1,000,000.

Importers of the contraband were not captured. The narcotics were shipped from Turkey in cases of furs that originated in Constantinople.

Chapin Buried Near Wife Whom He Shot

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Charles E. Chapin, former newspaperman, who died Saturday night in Sing Sing prison, was buried here today in Glenwood cemetery beside his wife, whom he shot 12 years ago.

No service preceded the interment and Chapin was buried in an inexpensive wooden casket which had remained sealed since it left Ossining, N. Y., all as Chapin had requested.

PRIEST TO AID FIGHT ON P.S.C.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Volunteering to support Charles A. Russell, solicitor of the Federal Power Commission, in his recent criticism of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, Monsignor J. J. Curran, president of the Municipal Water Ownership League of Wyoming Valley, yesterday sent telegrams to Mr. Russell and to Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior.

In his telegram to Mr. Russell, Msgr. Curran said that he understands Mr. Russell is being asked for facts pertinent to his criticism of the commission and then adds:

"We shall be very glad to give you all facts in our possession bearing on the unfair and incompetent decision of this commission in the Scranton-Spring Brook water rate case."

An order was handed down last week directing a reduction in that company's temporary schedule of increased rates, a reduction which has failed to satisfy the consumers as represented by the Municipal Water Ownership League.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The many reports of jobs being offered former Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, give him a "pain in the neck." He said so himself at the White House after a social call on President Hoover, remarking:

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—One of the most thrilling memories that Galli Curci has of her latest European trip is some amazing music she heard in Ireland, a band of 50 stalwarts all playing accordions during a parade of soldiers. She said:

"In ensemble it is quite wonderful to hear."

DELAY ACTION ON TOWN HALL

The much-heralded action on the Town Hall has failed to materialize, but the matter probably will be taken up this week, according to County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

Prior to the meeting yesterday afternoon, at which the hearings were started on the 1931 budget, Armstrong said:

"I am ready to sit down with the other commissioners, probably this week, to take action to dispose of the Town Hall matter."

Commissioner E. V. Babcock said:

"I am ready to vote."

But neither said when.

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern said:

"I really have voted on the Town Hall. I am for either a downtown or North Side location if a town hall can be built in either place for $6,000,000. There isn't a reason in the world for any further delay, except it looks as if the original Town Hall boosters have run out on Commissioner Armstrong and left him high and dry with something that he does not want to decide."

Weather Conditions.

The northwestern high moved rapidly southeastward during yesterday and last night. It is now centered over the Upper Ohio Valley states and covers practically all of the eastern half of the country. It caused a decided drop in temperature everywhere from the Central plains to the Atlantic Coast, except over the east Gulf states, where a Gulf disturbance is producing cloudy and rainy weather.

A low pressure area, centered over Northern Saskatchewan and extending southward over the Northern Rocky Mountain states is producing mild weather over the Northwest country. Precipitation was light and was limited to rain over the Gulf states and snow flurries over the northern states.

MELLON FROWNS ON VET PLAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon is opposed to the proposal of Representative Fish (Rep.), of New York, that the government pay World War veterans 25 per cent of the cash value of their adjusted compensation certificates as an unemployment relief measure.

Fish had made public a letter from Mellon, which said:

"It is a mistake to assume that the reserve of approximately $750,000,000 is available for distribution along the lines suggested."

The Secretary added that the balance would have to be provided either by borrowing or increased taxes.

Fish remarked he saw no reason "why the $750,000,000 set aside as reserve for the adjusted service certificates could not well be used immediately to pay 25 per cent of the face value of the adjusted service certificates." He said:

"It appears to me the government is using the reserve to make money on interest at the expense of the veterans, who will probably never need financial assistance more than they do in this emergency."

COUNTY OFFERS CITY'S POLICE AUTO AID

New Budget Cuts Coroner, District Attorney and Jail Requests for Year

The County Commissioners took time out in their budget-paring work today to give District Attorney Andrew T. Park permission to offer the city of Pittsburgh use of county detective automobiles in time of emergency.

The interruption did not interfere with cutting an additional $14,197.50 from the budgets of nine departments up to 2 p. m. today.

With the permission of the commissioners, Park sent a letter to Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of city police, offering to have county chauffeurs and the city detectives, recognizing the "woeful lack of motor facilities" in the city bureau.

Park explained to the commissioners that he was not turning the county vehicles over to the city. The offer was only for occasional use, he said, when city facilities fell short.

The biggest sufferers from today's budget cuts were the coroner and the District Attorney, who were denied new autos, estimated cost of which were, respectively, $3,500 and $3,097.50.

The County Controller lost $1,000 in the shuffle; Warden John McNeill's jail lost $3,100; the Sheriff lost $2,600.

Other cuts included $50 from the County Commissioner's budget, $5000 from the clerk of courts, $9000 from the Court of Quarter Sessions, and $50 from the jury commissioners. More reductions are expected.

CITY DEPOSIT BANK NAMED

The Pennsylvania Trust Company, with a bid of 3.85 per cent interest, led the list of banks seeking city deposits. By having the highest bid, the bank will be the clearing house for all city funds next year.

The bids were received yesterday by City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley. Each bank, under a new ruling, must deposit bonds sufficient to cover all city deposits.

The next three winning designation as active depositories were the Dollar Savings and Trust Company, 3.29 per cent; the Second National of Allegheny, 3.28, and the Colonial Trust Company, 3.20. The last named is the present city "clearing house."

There were 11 bidders, as follows:

Freehold Bank, 3.18 per cent; Colonial Trust Company, 3.20 per cent; Commonwealth Trust Company, 2.00 per cent; Dollar Savings and Trust Company, 3.29 per cent; Second National of Allegheny, 3.28 per cent; Mellon National Bank, 2.00 per cent; Monongahela National Bank, 2.6265 per cent; Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, 2.75 per cent; Pennsylvania Trust Company, 3.85 per cent; Union Savings Bank, 2.00 per cent, and Union Trust Company, 2.00 per cent.

RADIO PUZZLES BUDGET BOARD

With a city-county radio broadcasting station as one of its chief problems, Council today will continue its study of the 1931 budget which will be cut to fit a levy reduced to 25½ mills on land and half of that rate on buildings.

In the budget $18,000 has been set up for the radio defense against the criminal world. Successful in other cities, the plan is being held up here for two reasons—because Councilman Robert Garland and other members think the amount insufficient, and because of the general belief that city and county should co-operate.

The passing of the horse, forecast when the Department of Public Safety forbid horse-drawn vehicles on the boulevards, again came to the front at yesterday's budget session when a report was asked on the advisability of supplanting all city horses with trucks. The budget discussion will be continued this afternoon.

Clara Eames Wills Daughter $100,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—The will of Clara Eames, actress, naming her 5-year-old daughter sole heir to her estate of about $100,000, was on file for probate today. The estate is to be held in trust until the daughter, Clare Jeannes Eames Howard, becomes 21, when she will get the principal. Sidney Howard, prize playwright, obtained a divorce from the actress on the ground of desertion and received custody of the daughter.

Doll Lady Urges Haste As Time Grows Short

DEAR LITTLE GIRLS:

Just think of it—you can count the number of days before Christmas on your own little fingers and you won't have a finger to spare. So you can see how important it is that you send in my coupon today if you want to know how to get one of my wonder "Tickletoes" dolls before the holidays.

I am mighty glad to know that I have a big supply of these dollies on hand and each and every one of them is anxiously awaiting for some little girl to take her home for a playmate. Strange to say, they all want to get away from me before Christmas.

I guess they don't want to miss any of the Christmas parties the little Pittsburgh girls are going to have and they probably will want to get acquainted with the other little dollies my little girl friends may get from Santa Claus. If there are, however, little girls who may not get any other doll for Christmas I am sure that my "Tickletoes" is big enough, pretty enough, and cute enough to make any little girl mighty happy for a long, long time.

I know that you'll love my "Tickletoes"—she plays with her toes, sucks her thumb and claps her hands while you adorn her dress with cute ribbon bands. Her eyes sparkle, her cheeks are pink and she has a roguish, adorable wink. You can scrub her hands and scrub her knees—yes, "Tickletoes" is very easy to please. Tuck her in bed and she'll close her eyes, but roll her over and she really cries.

I know that she 's a dolly that you'll really adore; more beautiful than any you ever saw before. Now don't wait until it's too late if you want "Tickletoes" for your playmate.

Bear in mind that Christmas will be here next week. If you'll write to me today I'll send a letter right back to you telling how you can get "Tickletoes" before the holidays. Goodbye 'til tomorrow.

FAIRMONT BANK CLOSES DOORS

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Union National Bank of Fairmont closed its doors shortly before noon today. Inability to liquidate assets rapidly enough to meet demands for withdrawal was given as the cause for the closing.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Eight North Carolina banks, four in the western part of the state and four in Gaston County either failed to open or closed their doors today.

Directors of the institutions in each case explained the action was taken as a precautionary measure for the protection of depositors. "Heavy withdrawals" generally was given as the reason.

The Gaston banks are First National Bank, the largest of the eight, the Gaston Loan and Trust Company, The Bank of Dallas and the Peoples Bank of West Gastonia. The others were Bank of Franklin, in Macon county; Bank of Swannanoa; Bank of Clyde and Bank of Fletcher, in Henderson County.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Columbia Trust Company of this city was placed in the hands of the state banking department today. Frank B. Cook, president of the institution, said the board of directors requested the closing "to protect all depositors."

Bar Submits List For Voting on Judge

The Allegheny Bar Association today announced attorneys to be voted on in recommending a successor to Judge James B. Drew, who has been elected to the Superior Court. They are: R. C. Davis, Harry H. Negley, W. M. McJunkin, William G. Heiner, John T. Duff, Jr., H. Stuart Dunn, A. P. Lindsey, Raymond D. Evans and W. W. Stoner. The three receiving the highest votes will be submitted to Gov. John S. 3 HELD IN DICE GAME SHOOTING

Robert Cotts, 47, of Bergman street, arrested in connection with the shooting of Tom Silverblatt, of Beacon street, Sunday night on the street fronting 525 Wylie avenue, was held for further investigation this morning in Central Police Court by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

Cotts denies the shooting. Gus Matsuks, known as "Gus the Greek," told police both men agreed to settle with their fists an argument over a game of barbout—the Greek dice game.

Gus and James Digiorno, of Viceroy street, who witnessed the fight, heard the report of the gun, but testified they did not know who fired the shot. The witnesses are being held. Meanwhile Silverblatt is in Mercy Hospital with a bullet in his abdomen.

Plan 'Perfect Wife' Course in College

AMES, Ia., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The "Perfect Wife," at least in theory, will be the subject of a course in "Home Relationships," to be taught at Iowa State College next September.

The course, a combination of psychology and sociology, will delve into such subjects as the mother-in-law, the favorite child, spiritual development of individuals within the family and the attitude of parents toward children.

Czecho-Slovakia Trade Shows Loss

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Official figures on Czecho-Slovakia's foreign trade for the first 11 months of 1930 show a surplus of $4,000,000, but the trade had shrunk 20 per cent in value compared with the same period in 1929.

Mussolini Wants No More Yule Cards

ROME, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Mussolini wishes no more Christmas cards for himself. A communique notes his deep appreciation of the many already received but expresses the hope that other well wishers will refrain.

CALL SPANISH ARMY TO HALT REBELLION

terday's revolt of the aviators were informed at Lisbon, but civilian Republicans were rebelling in a series of simultaneous strikes, which indicated that this "peaceful" revolt had been well synchronized.

MILITARY IN CONTROL

From Barcelona came reports that the police had been reinforced by 6,000 civil guards. At San Sebastian the walls were plastered with proclamations abrogating all constitutional rights and the civil authorities had surrendered their powers to the military.

Strikes were in progress at Santander, at Bilbao where Alcala Zamora was proclaimed "President of the Republic" yesterday, and at Saragossa, Lerida, Jaen, Valencia, Cadez, Seville, Huelva and Gijon.

The civil governor at San Sebastian issued a brief proclamation announcing that the army was in control. Fernando Rich, the military governor, posted a long manifesto asserting the enforcement of martial law and the suspension of all constitutional rights. Newspapers were prohibited and street gatherings forbidden. Mounted police trotted through the streets with guns under their arms and guards were posted at all public buildings.

TROOPS QUELL RIOTS

Last night loyal troops with machine guns and tear bombs patrolled Santander, putting down riots which recurred throughout the city. The mob surged back and forth before King Alfonso's summer palace shouting:

"Hurrah for the republic, death to the king."

Most of the rioters were women carrying pistols. They stormed through the city singing the "Marseillaise" and putting up spirited resistance to the police, soldiers and civil guards.

Throughout the kingdom these conditions maintained. Outwardly the populace was quiet, but actually it appeared to be living in the shadow of uncertainty. There were no reports of open rioting but the authorities were on the alert for any emergency.

Nevertheless Premier Berenguer and most of his ministers visited the king this afternoon and informed him that quiet has been restored throughout the country after declaration of marital law.

ALFONSO SET FOR FLIGHT

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—A Paris dispatch to the London Daily Mail today said that official quarters had received information that the Spanish insurgents were gaining the upper hand and that King Alfonso might leave Madrid today.

Gibraltar dispatches stated that the Spanish government had called part of the famous Spanish Foreign Legion out of Morocco to combat the revolutionary movement. One thousand foreign legionnaires were disembarked at Algeciras from the steamer Sagunto last night, entraining immediately for Madrid.

CIVIL GUARDS CALLED

Another detachment is due at Algeciras today, while others, landing simultaneously at Malaga, will join the Sagunto contingent at Bobadilla station and accompany it to Madrid. A hundred Civil Guards at Algeciras also have been sent to Madrid.

Some of the legionnaires refused, they said, to embark for Spain until they were guaranteed double pay. Regular Algeciras troops appeared somewhat disgruntled that the government had called upon the legion, feeling that it was reflecting upon their loyalty.

BILLINGS CUTS MOONEY TIES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Warren K. Billings, convicted of participation in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing, and given a life term in Folsom Prison, declared last night he had "broken" with Thomas J. Mooney, sentenced with him, in their fight to attain liberty.

Billings said he wanted to have something to say about his own case in the future instead of fighting jointly with Mooney, as during the past 14 years. Billings said he believed he may be able to get his case before the United States Supreme Court by applying for a writ of habeas corpus in the California state courts. He claimed he had unearthed a precedent for such a move.

He declared he had had no voice in the affairs of the Mooney-Billings defense committee, formed in San Francisco to carry on the fight for release of the pair. He said he had objected without effect to several proposals Mooney made to the committee.

Santa With Loose Whiskers Fined

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—A detective watched a street corner Santa Claus holding his detached whiskers in his hand. A Santa Claus without whiskers firmly attached, the officer reasoned, must be no Santa Claus at all.

Hence Santa was arrested. Registered as William Martin, he told Judge Helander he had been hired to collect funds for the poor. Fining him $100, the judge said:

"That story is as false as your whiskers."

GONE 18 YEARS, SON RETURNS

Eighteen years later, Mrs. Hyde, now Mrs. Wroniski, heard from the mother superior that her boy had returned to Pittsburgh, was looking for his people. That was yesterday.

After Mrs. Hyde left the institution, "Danny" was placed with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kennedy. As he grew, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rohrbacher became fond of the lad. When the Kennedys and Daniel moved to Youngstown, the Rohrbachers kept in touch with them. But Mrs. Hyde, or Wroniski, had dropped from sight.

Daniel came to town, visited the Rohrbachers, called on St. Paul's. The mother and son were reunited. Daniel will live with his mother, half-sister and stepfather at 1906 Edwards way, South Side, will work and help to support them, he says.

Daniel was born in this country shortly after his mother, a 23-year-old widow, came to the New World to get a new deal.

EXPLAINS TASTE IN WATER HERE

A peculiar taste has led city officials to investigate the city water supply.

Scores of complaints have reached the Bureau of Water. A preliminary investigation has proved the purity of the supply, according to James H. Kennon managing engineer of the bureau.

A report is being prepared. The condition, according to Kennon, is temporary and due to causes beyond control of the city.

Deposits of vegetable matter in the headwaters of the Allegheny River cause the peculiar taste, according to Kennon.

The Pennsylvania Water Company, which supplies a number of larger boroughs, yesterday notified its patrons that a peculiar taste that could be noticed in its water was due to a similar condition.

If the Communists are going in for club life we will give them a list of nice clubs which have thrown the writer out.

We can understand the riot if the Communists were sore at the house committee of the club.

That's natural in every club. Even the members feel that way about it.

Everything is as lovely as syrup on waffles since Alice spoke to Dolly.

They met at the last White House reception. Mrs. Longworth said, "Hello, Dolly."

That's diplomacy. An ordinary person would have recited Ben Hur, the Declaration of Independence, the Dying Gladiator and had her eyebrows burned off by flashlight powders.

Alice hasn't spoken to Dolly since Dolly got her right seat at the dinner table.

So it means something to disarmament and future budgets when Dolly and Alice exchanged a couple of dainty "hellos."

Then the two girls shook hands and broke clean. Round even.

You might have wondered what important people say to each other when they're there. We already know what they say about each other when they're not there.

Well, that's all they said. Hello. All the famous speeches and sayings of history are merely spend.

Mark Twain said that reporter was something you think of the next day.

Which is correct. So you cann expect the telephonic greeting between Alice and Dolly to build up into something important as time skitters around the town clock.

Even now, Alice is probably saying, "Well, I meets her and I gives her a stare that wouldda nickleplated an iceberg. Then I says screamm, screamm, and she was like the Prince of Wales. She didn't know whether she was on foot or horseback. And when I asked her how many chins they were wearing this season she faded like an old exhausted sunset."

And Dolly, after giving the matter due thought is undoubtedly stretching that hello into a long distance call. "She looks at me like an old Colonial tea kettle and I gave her a smile that would have stopped a 20-mule team on a dime. Silver swishes around like a cow's tail in fly-time. But I out-swished her. I don't fall for that handshake that she gives me. Nobody can hand me that middle-aged oyster and claim it's a hearty old American grip."

Everybody knows that one word leads to another. And by the time that the hello girls are through adding to their greeting you are going to have a conversation that will fill Carnegie Library and hang up a new highwater mark for oratorial floods.

Warren to Continue Belgian 'Fury' Fight

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Whitney Warren, American architect, will continue his fight to have the "fury" inscription placed on the facade of the library of Louvain University, he said today. The Brussels Courts of Appeals yesterday ruled against placing the inscription, which read, "Destroyed by Teutonic Fury" and referring to the distruction of the original building in the World War.

HORVATH TAKES STAND TODAY

Michael Horvath, 49, former East Pittsburgh policeman, made blind when he shot himself after he is allowed to have shot and killed his wife, Marie, was expected to take the witness stand in his own defense late today in Criminal Court, where he was on trial charged with murder before Visiting Judge James A. McLaughry, of Mercer County.

Dr. J. C. Newhouse testified to finding the wife dead and Horvath badly wounded. He sent the man to the Braddock General Hospital, where he recovered.

Joseph Campbell, a neighbor, said he heard Mrs. Horvath cry for help and ran in. She was sitting in a chair, bleeding from a wound in the temple, and Horvath was lying on the floor unconscious, with one eye shot out.

A statement made by Horvath to county detectives after the affair, was read to the jury. In it Horvath said his wife upbraided him for being lazy and not going back to work after a sickness, and said he shot her because of her scolding.

DEMAND WIDER TAX PAYMENTS

Personal property taxes, which only come up either at budget time or during an election, had their day in court before the County Commissioners yesterday when George J. Schad, chairman of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, presented his budget.

Collection of this tax is a discretionary matter with the subordinate assessors, according to Schad, who judge by a person's occupation whether he should have a personal property tax blank.

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern deplored this discretionary power and said that in his opinion every person assessed should be given a blank.

Schad explained it is a very difficult matter to collect this tax and that although each year collections are increasing numerous people who should, do not make a return. If some method could be developed for collection, Schad said it would be easy to reduce county taxes by several mills.

Commissioner Armstrong said he agrees with McGovern.

COUNCIL ASKED TO PROBE CASE

O. R. Goehring, a salesman, of 426 Taylor avenue, has asked City Council to investigate his alleged illegal arrest and detention in North Side Police Station, November 1, where he was taken at the request of Alderman George Anderson after, it was said, information of assault and battery was preferred against him by Leo McGuire, former policeman, and a tenant in his apartment.

The arrest, he charges, grew out of a series of clashes between him and McGuire, starting when the latter was ejected from the apartment, where he had lived several months. Goehring's first complaint against his arrest, when, he said, he was refused bail, was aired before the police trial board, and a desk sergeant and the patrolman who arrested him were fined.

STRIKE GUARDS SHOOT DRIVER

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—A motorist who National Guardsmen said refused to obey their command to halt was fired on and wounded early today as the troops watched for cars bearing dynamite into the textile strike area around Schoolfield.

Guard officers said they found 60 gallons of whisky in the automobile.

The occupant, Lockwood Pickett, of Forrest Hills, N. C., was said to be dangerously wounded near the spine, paralysis of the legs resulting. He was brought to a hospital here for an operation.

The driver swerved his machine when the order to halt was called out by a patrol shot across the road, said Maj. E. W. Opie, of the guard headquarters staff.

The wounding of Pickett by the troops followed a series of bombings around Schoolfield during the week-end.

Steel Tanker Loses Propeller in Storm

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The steel tanker Papoose, of Houston, Tex., arrived without a propeller, after a stormy 240-mile journey at the end of a tow-rope. The vessel, carrying 29 men and 9,000 tons of gasoline, lost her propeller Friday night in a blizzard. She called for aid, then wallowed helplessly in high seas until the Coast Guard cutter Champlain reached her.

Admits Slaying Man, Gets 4 to 8 Years

READING, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The trial of Virgil Jeffries, alias Virgil Jefferson, charged with murder, was about to be called when he decided to plead guilty and was sentenced to four to eight years. Jeffries was charged with the death of James Slaughter, who died as the result of a fight at the Maidencreek impounding dam.

ASK NEW FLOOR FOR BRIDGE

A complaint that the Pittsburgh Railways Company has failed to keep the Carroll Avenue Extension Bridge in proper condition for motor traffic was discussed at a joint meeting of committees from the Ross Township Commissioners, Berkeley Council, West View Council and the boards of trade from the same municipalities.

A special committee representing the groups, headed by C. M. Forbes, plans to call on the Pittsburgh Railways Company to place traffic plate on the bridge floor at once, according to Forbes.

STONER CHECK MADE GOOD

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Willard Wood, cashier and credit manager of the Fairmont Hotel, informed police that funds had been telegraphed to the hotel to make good a check written by Winifred Sackville Stoner of New York City, formerly of Pittsburgh.

The check, for $721.68 was returned as worthless and a warrant was issued for Miss Stoner Saturday.

Three Loot Truck Of $15,000 Jewelry

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Three youthful robbers last night stole a small jewelry truck, kidnaped the driver and, after handcuffing him to the steering wheel, transferred 13 cases of gold and silver jewelry to their own car and escaped. David Wise, salesman for a wholesale jewelry house, valued the stolen goods at $15,000.

Prominent Figure In Lake Trade Dies

NEVILLE COKE

Gives More Heat At Less Cost

If you are having trouble with your furnace or if it is not performing as efficiently as it ought to, call us up and our Heating Engineer may be able to suggest a remedy.

Have you tried this better fuel for home heating? Neville Coke is 90% pure carbon or heat energy—sootless, dustless, odorless—reducing to less ash than any other fuel except oil and gas. You will notice the money-saving on ash removal alone . . . added to money saved on cleaning bills and the cost of fuel itself. Three tons of Neville Coke should last as long as five tons of soft coal. Neville Coke will not injure the furnace grate. No new furnace equipment is necessary.

Neville Coke time signals are given every hour throughout the day over KDKA. Listen in at 9 A. M., 12 Noon and 6 P. M.

Your Dealer has Neville Coke or can get it for you. Ask him, or phone ATlantic 2290.

WHITER URGES NEARBY PARKS

Acquisition by the commonwealth of land for parks adjacent to Pittsburgh was urged by E. T. Whiter, chairman of the recreation committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday at a meeting of the committee. He declared that local taxpayers are contributing thousands of dollars yearly to support state owned park reserves that are too far away for them to enjoy.

Whiter made a short talk following the address of J. M. Hoffman, chief of the bureau of parks, State Department of Forests and Waters. He said the state bureau contemplated purchase of land within 50 or 60 miles from Pittsburgh as part of its program for park expansion.

Whiter declared that both Pittsburgh and Philadelphia residents are paying for the upkeep of 1,000,000 acres of park land, most of which are located in Central Pennsylvania. He said the parks are in mountainous sections, off from state highways and lines of communication and virtually inaccessible to the majority of local folks.

PENNSY WOMEN AID FAMILIES

Thirteen hundred and eighteen families were aided by the Women's Aid Society of the central region of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the first 10 months of 1930, according to an announcement by the society.

Expenditures of about $4,000 a month in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Erie, Canton, Buffalo and contiguous territory were made. The society announces total expenditures in 10 months of $39,254.08 among families on its list. The Women's Aid has 54,241 members.

Carewe Sued by Son Of Schumann-Heink

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Edwin Carewe, film director, was sued for $11,000 damages by Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, scenarist-actor and son of the singer. He charged breach of contract.

Schumann-Heink alleged he was engaged by Carewe to appear in the English and German versions of a motion picture at a salary of $500 weekly, but never was called for work. He asked $6,000 due from his contract and $5,000 punitive damages.

Affection Wins In Ballot of Students

GLENVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Answering a Y. M. C. A. questionnaire, students of the Glenville State Normal School have voted 112 to 34 in the affirmative on the question:

Should a boy and a girl not engaged exchange affections?

Just what is meant by the latter term was not brought out by the question blank, but it was understood to include those innumerable of the campus curriculum known as "parkology" and "necklogy."

The students indicated by a vote of 97 to 61 that they consider divorce beneficial to society and by 119 to 35 declared the art of dancing an asset to anyone. They voted 66 to 91 against modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

FETE FOR GAS DISTRIBUTORS

Distributors of gasoline and allied products will be guests of the Independent Gasoline Dealers Association at a smoker in the Ansem Corner, William Penn Hotel, Wednesday evening.

The association is composed of prominent retail distributors of gasoline and allied products in the Pittsburgh district. It is the purpose of the association, according to Arthur V. Snell, executive vice president, to form an independent chain in the Pittsburgh district, to appeal to the public for support of "home gasoline stations."

ADDED BOOTHS SELLING SEALS

Additional booths for the sale of Christmas health seals in the downtown district were opened yesterday. The Junior League is sponsoring the booth placed in the lobby of the Koppers Building. Mrs. Stanley N. Brown and Mrs. Arthur Woelfak are in charge.

Accumulated pennies, along with accumulated dollars, will accomplish much in its effort to control and stamp out tuberculosis, according to the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh. Seals can be purchased in any amount, as low as 1 cent, the price of one seal.

GIRL ACCUSED OF PERJURY

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Miss Elizabeth Kelley, 24, typist who was recently awarded a $40,000 breach of promise verdict from Alexander C. Weizer, son of a wealthy real estate dealer, was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of perjury.

Immediate steps were made for her arrest.

She is charged with having given perjured testimony in her breach of promise suit when she denied knowing Abe Gold, of Cleveland, to whom she was said to have been married. Records were cited disclosing her marriage July 13, 1926, and her divorce from Gold in 1927. The verdict has been set aside.

MAN DIVORCES FOURTH WIFE

Alfred Traber, aged 71, Buena Vista street, advertised for a housekeeper in June last year, married her in August and was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Harry H. Steward from Kate K. Traber, 47, of Middle street.

It was Traber's fourth venture in marriage. He testified Mrs. Traber was all right as a housekeeper, but as a wife, she was rough. He claims that once she hit him in the face with a broom stick and on other occasions would not prepare his meals and finally put him out of the house. They separated last Easter Sunday, when Traber says he took refuge with a neighbor. Traber charged his wife with cruel and barbarous treatment. She did not contest the action. Traber's three other wives died.

Penna. Man's Death Sentence Upheld

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court has upheld the judgment of the Cochise County Superior Court convicting Charles N. Foster, Claysville, Pa., of first degree murder and fixed February 20, 1931, for his execution in the Arizona State Prison.

Foster was convicted of shooting to death Martin Parko, of St. Louis, on February 18, 1929.

THERE are men who never buy Half Hose for themselves. The Christmas stocking supplies their needs—and it's a fact they would be honestly disappointed if they did not receive several pairs. Your Gown Must Have the Correct Evening Foundation

As essential to the success of your new evening gown as your lovely evening slippers—or your sleek-fitting evening slip—is the foundation garment that will mold your figure to the long, graceful lines of your princess or Empire frock—that fits invisibly, without the least trace of a ridge or bulge—that is, at the same time, as light and attractive as a bit of dainty lingerie.

All-Over Lace Corsettes—with soft batiste linings—firm but boneless—have low backs cut almost to the waistline. Styles for average figures. Special, $5.95.

Other Evening Foundations—of imported net, and of black brocade. Special, $5.00.

FEAR DRASTIC CURB ON STAGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(Universal)—"Rigorous and unsympathetic supervision of the New York stage, more destructive to art than the existing padlock bill, is appreciably nearer because of the failure of representatives of the theaters to agree upon any plan for presentation to the New York State Legislature."

That is the assertion in the December issue of Equity, official organ of the Actors' Equity Association in an article called "The Prospects for Censorship." Equity blames the disagreement upon the Dramatists' Guild, whose representatives announced their intention of opposing any sort of censorship. Upon this stand, the magazine comments:

"If they persist in the stand they have taken, the stage in New York is really desperate, as far as evading censorship is concerned.

"Such an insistence upon complete freedom may condemn the whole theater for many years to the shackles of a censorship far heavier and more humiliating than any the stage in this city has ever known."

DRIVER BLAMED IN AUTO DEATH

F. H. Glasser of 201 Western avenue, Aspinwall, was recommended held for the Grand Jury today on a charge of manslaughter at the coroner's inquest into the death of Louis Schilling, 52, of 12 Kittaning road. Schilling was fatally hurt November 30 while riding in Glasser's car.

Witnesses testified that Glasser's auto collided with a State Highway truck on the Freeport road. Ray Roberts, of Aspinwall, driver of the truck, said his machine bore a red light and that he tried to flag Glasser down as he approached the parked truck. Glasser said he could not see the light or the truck.

2 IDENTIFIED IN HOLDUP TRIAL

Harry Manning, 27, of 104 Verkroy street, on trial on two counts of robbery in connection with the $2,100 holdup of a South Hills Trust Company messenger last Spring, was identified in court today as the "lookout man" in the crime by Maurice French, a motorist, whose parked auto was stolen by the robbers after the holdup.

Harry Andrini, alleged drug addict, who is serving 40 to 80 years for his part in the robbery, also was identified as one of the robbers. Andrini was a fugitive at the time of the holdup, having escaped from an arresting sheriff.

French testified Andrini compelled him to drive the holdup pair from the scene of the crime, after they had spotted his machine parked conveniently near.

The bank's messenger, John Stauff, died of shock shortly after the holdup. The jury to try Manning was selected yesterday. Fear that gangsters would approach the jurors in their homes impelled Judge James B. Drew to order them locked up for the night.

Hunters in State Kill 20,000 Bucks

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—While game commission officials have no check as yet, it was estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 bucks were killed during the big game season which ended yesterday.

SCIENCE ENDS STOMACH PAIN!

New Prescription To Banish Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Sourness, Gas and Sleeplessness

Burning acid stomach, pain after eating, belching, gas, sleeplessness, dizziness, and the resulting nervousness, sleeplessness, and colds won't trouble you if you use the new prescription ATLINE.

Mrs. B. C. Hill, of Ogden, Utah, says: "I had trouble for four years with my stomach and had taken baking soda and many medicines but they would give me only momentary relief. I tried the sample of ATLINE which you mailed me and it was so good that I bought a large can and after using half of it, haven't had a pain in my stomach since. ATLINE surely is wonderful."

No other known remedy for acid or nervous Acidity. Contains an effective alkali digestant, Bismuth, which benefits 9 out of 10 cases in a few days. Also a wonderful carminative, five other scientific ingredients overcome burning acid, stop gas, soothe irritated stomach lining. The instantaneous action in clearing up the troubles that commonly lead to stomach distress is more pleasing than you would believe possible.

Atline is safe, harmless and pleasant for adults and children. Used by millions of people. It costs you nothing if it fails for the Atline people say to the druggist, "If any customer is displeased with the results obtained from Atline, give them back their money immediately. We stand behind this product absolutely." Keep Atline in your home always.

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The rabble of the radio show more and more an inclination to rely upon sports writers for their broadcasts of sports events. A few sports writers—Bill Munday, grey mouth Clem McCarthy and Ford Frick, to name four—have been called in the microphones and have not been found wanting. Their success in describing the action before them has not only been welcome to the armchairs, but has impressed those who sit in the seats of the mighty at the studios.

* * *

The broadcasters are to be commended for placing more dependence on expert eyes. If the expert eyes are supplemented by pleasing voices and deliverers an ideal arrangement from the microphonic standpoint has been evolved. Well, almost ideal. There is still room for improvement and that improvement will come when the radio men erase their lamentable practice of standardizing all sports broadcasts, of raising a forbidding finger to any announcer who wishes to be individual, who would impart the color and vividness of the game as he sees them.

Sports Broadcasts Ought to Glow

If there is anything the matter with sports broadcasts at present it is, it seems to me, a tendency of the commentators to sacrifice color and drama and vitality to accuracy—and prosaic accuracy at that. A sports broadcast ought to glow, it ought to be charged with as much vividness and excitement as the contest itself. The broadcasters ought to give the game back to the boys at the microphone.

* * *

The radio rajahs, in deciding upon experiness at the microphone, have followed the noteworthy example of the British Broadcasting Corporation. Whenever a leading sports event is scheduled in England, the B. B. C. summons the foremost authorities in that particular event to describe it to the listeners. Ear-cuppers know they are receiving the comments of an expert, and they are satisfied. At least the B. B. C. when it goes down to the arena, receives but few complaints from its public.

But the B. B. C. stresses accuracy above everything else, and, as a result, much of the glamour of the spectacle is lost. One of the most thrilling of all horse races was the last British "Derby," which was rebroadcast to American shores. None of its excitement was audible on this side, though we were informed excitedly that the horses at the finish were running neck and neck. The announcer, in the broadest of accents, was even heard to remark "I cawn't give you anything exciting."

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

"Put all clear channel stations on 50 kilowatts," recommends Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost to the Federal Radio Commission yesterday, thus bringing to a focal point the battle on high power which has long been forward.

As the result of hearings held the last few months at Washington, Mr. Yost decided it would be wise for the Commission to increase the output of these stations: WJZ, New York; WBZ, Springfield; WHAM, Rochester; WOR, Newark; WJAS, Louisville; WCAU, Philadelphia; WSB, Atlanta; WSM, Nashville; WBT, Charlotte, N. C.; WAPI, Birmingham; KVOO, Tulsa; WMAQ, WBBM, WGN, Chicago; WHO, Des Moines; WOC, Davenport; WCCO, Minneapolis; KPO, Oakland; KOA, Denver; KFO, San Francisco; KSL, Salt Lake City.

* * *

* * *

QUESTION A DAY:

Was Ted Husing ever with National Broadcasting Company?—Ellen V.

Answer—Ted announced for WJZ before it became a part of NBC; that was four years ago.

* * *

When a visitor at NBC recently asked Floyd Gibbons if he ever ate in "those armchair lunch rooms," Floyd replied:

* * *

"Snoop and Fury" are out of work again, while Gerard Delge speaks on "Unemployment" over WCAE at 8:15.

* * *

Auburn Beauchamp's song, "Because of You," is featured on the KDKA salute at 10 o'clock tonight.

* * *

Because he has been good all year, Frank Luther will be allowed to imitate one of Santa's reindeers in Will Donaldson's production of "A Visit from Kris Kringle" over WCAE at 9:30 tonight.

* * *

"BY THE WAY—"

Sigmund Spaeth, the famous music critic, in the city yesterday as the guest of Victor Saudek, asked us if we remembered the night he presented "Jack and Jill" over KDKA. Did we? It was one of our hilarious moments. . . . Sigmund is to do an NBC program in January. . . . The Birdroom concerts over KQV are to be resumed every Wednesday and Friday at 3:30, starting tomorrow. . . . Gregorio Scalzo's Orchestra is to play daily at 12:30 over the same station. . . . The boss has laryngitis, so Joe must deliver his speech tonight, WJAS at 10. . . . The memory of Simon Bolivar, "Great Liberator" of South America, is to be observed over WCAE tomorrow at 3. . . . The Marine Band is to play. Nancy Carroll of the movies, starts a WJZ-KDKA feature on January 16. . . . Brad Browne and Al Llewelyn, former Pittsburgh steelworker, take Colin O'More's place on WJAS at 2:45 tonight. . . . Ted Husing has promised not to sing when he appears at 8 o'clock, WJAS, as guest of Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit. . . . Harry Austin, KDKA's new announcer, has resigned . . . With silken wreaths hung over their shoulders, Kay Kyser's boys present a special program for the Hawaiian Islands tonight at 12:30 over WFAA.

* * *

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Fifty Kiwanians of Homestead are now satisfied customers of Glenn Riggs' Morning Parade. At a banquet in his honor last night they rigged up a microphone specially to see and hear him do his funny laugh.

"Hungarian fiance No. 6."
Overture to "Carmen" . . . Bizet
Hungarian Dance No. 6 . . . Brahms
Meeting Hour from "Last Night" . . . Gruen
Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade" Suite.
Selections from "Fairies Suite" . . . Grieg

KQV—Studio program.

10:00 P. M.

KDKA—Pioneer program to homemakers.
Cass Ward Whitney.
Miss Katherine Fisher, president of the Good Housekeeping Institute, will be guest speaker, while to take invitations of America is "said through the Pittsburgh station.
Preference to singers will be narrator when the musical hours will be under the direction of Astrid Fjelde. Cass Ward Whitney will sing "Last Fiber."

TIES
A SMART WAY OF DISPELLING DOUBT
$1 to $5
Maybe you are in doubt as to what he needs but you don't need to be in doubt as to what would make an acceptable gift—regardless of how many he may possess. It's true we're talking about a tie—but it's gloves and shoes that would get a generous thrill out of a gift of ties like these.

Texas Barbers Aid Jobless Get Work

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 16—(AP.)—Barber shop talk has a practical use, after all.

Each customer in 200 shops here which have membership in the Master Barbers' Association is asked now by the man at his chair:

"How about a job for one of the unemployed?"

In addition, owners of the shops have asked each barber to make a personal canvass in his neighborhood in a further effort to help solve the employment problem.

Pastor's Wife Will Discuss Mormonism

Mrs. Robert B. Steel, wife of the pastor of the Herron Avenue Presbyterian Church and a former resident of Utah, will discuss "Mormonism" at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society, McClure Avenue Presbyterian Church, in the church rooms at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. Cameron B. Reed will lead devotional services.

Class Will Hold White Gift Offering

The annual white gift offering of the Westminster Bible Class, Bellevue Presbyterian Church, will be taken at a meeting tomorrow in the church rooms beginning with a luncheon at 1 p. m.

PLAN YULE JOY FOR ILL VETS

A Christmas program for the 500 disabled veterans in hospitals here is planned by a united committee representing more than 50 relations, welfare and military organizations, according to Louis F. S. Cook, chairman of the committee. Veterans in the United States Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall and the Marine Hospital, Lawrenceville, will receive particular attention, Cook says.

Gifts, entertainment and visits are planned for every disabled and hospitalized veteran. Services of all workers are to be voluntary and unpaid, according to Cook, who is assisted by Mrs. C. L. Borgs, treasurer, in raising funds.

Other officers of the committee include Mrs. B. L. Sucrop, vice chairman, and Miss Gertrude Horne, secretary. The American Legion and auxiliary, the Red Cross, American War Mothers, Salvation Army, Catholic Daughters of America, Mothers of Democracy, Jewish Welfare, Women's Christian Temperance Union and other organizations have joined in the work.

BLAZE CAUSES $75,000 LOSS

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 16.—A fire that caused $75,000 damage to the business district occurred late yesterday at Coshocton, 32 miles south of here. Local fire companies were summoned to help the Coshocton department extinguish the fire which for a time threatened an entire block.

The fire occurred in a two-story building on Main street. The first floor is occupied by store rooms and was badly damaged. The second floor houses the offices of Prosecuting Attorney Daniel P. Binney and Attorney George D. Kline and the office of Justice of the Peace D. W. Bassett.

Catholic Daughters Install Officers

Court Bellevue No. 655, Catholic Daughters of America, has installed these officers for the coming year: Grand regent, Mrs. Loretta Rousseau; vice regent, Mrs. Regina Scannell; prophetess, Miss Louisa Kerr; historian, Miss Marion Klass; lecturer, Mrs. Edna Cox; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Patterson; financial secretary, Miss Evelyn Adams; monitor, Mrs. Margaret Mackey; sentinel, Mrs. Margaret Crowley; organist, Mrs. Romayne Roche. New trustees include Mrs. Irene Scholz, Mrs. Mary Graham and Mrs. Florence Zippler.

Kaiser's Kin Weds Greecian Princess

CRONBERG, Germany, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Prince Christopher of Hesse, nephew of the former German Kaiser, and the Princess Sophie of Greece, daughter of Prince Andrew of Greece, were married yesterday. The bridegroom's brother Philip recently married the Princess Mafalda of Italy.

Mothers' Branch Meets in Church

The Mother's Branch of the Avalon Presbyterian Church will meet at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the church parlors. Mrs. D. E. Fleming will be hostess.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Clara H. Reutlehausen.

Mrs. Clara H. Reutlehausen, 74, of 34 Harwood street, Mt. Washington, who died Saturday, will be buried in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery following funeral services from her home tomorrow afternoon. A daughter of Louis and Clara Peterson, who came to Pittsburgh from Germany in 1849, she was married in 1877 to James Reutlehausen, and lived much of her life in the downtown district. She was a member of the Mt. Washington United Presbyterian Church. She leaves a daughter, Miss Clara; three sons, Edward J., Louis G. and Fred E. Reutlehausen; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Troutman and Mrs. Minnie Bohl; a brother, Alfred A. Peterson, and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Helen S. Truitt.

Mrs. Helen Sophia Truitt, 70, died yesterday in her home in Nadine after a brief illness. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon in the Nadine Gospel Tabernacle. Born in Armstrong County, she had spent the last 20 years in Nadine and Verona. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Hannah M. Rowe, of Sherwood, O.; Mrs. Minnie M. Boyd, Miss Edna J. Truitt, of Nadine, and four sons, E. J., W. T., S. C. and B. R. Truitt, of Nadine; a sister, Mrs. Martha M. Morgan, and two brothers, Charles H. Blanchard, of California, and William E. Blanchard, of Templeton, Pa.

Adolph J. Sulzer.

Adolph J. Sulzer, 72, a retired North Side businessman, died in his home, at 614 Orchard avenue, Bellevue, Sunday. For many years Mr. Sulzer was engaged in the plumbing business on the North Side, associated with a brother in the firm of John R. Sulzer's Sons. He was active in civic affairs in the upper North side district. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Anna Hill Sulzer; three daughters, Mrs. Nelda C. Eberhardt, Mrs. Viola S. Eytel and Mrs. Anna H. Baret; a brother, G. Edward Sulzer, and four grandchildren.

Whitlow Funeral.

Funeral services for Miss Kate Whitlow, a teacher in the American avenue public school, Sheraden, more than 25 years, who died Friday night in her home, 1404 Swanick street, Sheraden, will be held tonight in her home. Burial will be private tomorrow morning in Hollywood cemetery, Sheraden. She leaves four sisters, the Misses Effie Hopwood Whitlow, Louise Guyton Whitlow, and Martha Longmore Whitlow, and Mrs. J. D. Ramsey, and a brother, Phil Sheridan Whitlow, of Rea, Pa.

Byers Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Walburga Byers, 76, who died Saturday in her home, 2649 Brighton road, North Side, were to be held at the home. Mrs. Byers was born in Germany and came here at the age of 19 and lived in the Twenty-seventh Ward ever since. She leaves four daughters, Mrs. J. P. Rowbottom, Mrs. Richard Rowbottom, Mrs. W. G. Taylor and Mrs. C. H. Neddermeyer of the North Side, and a sister, Mrs. George Meyer.

Mrs. Eva M. Buehler.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Mary Buehler, who died Sunday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amelia B. McComb, Perrysville, will be held tomorrow afternoon from her late residence. Interment will follow in St. Paul's Cemetery, North Side. Mrs. Buehler was a member of St. Paul's United Lutheran Church and the Ladies' Aid Society. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. McCombs and Miss Marie E. Buehler.

Morning Health Drink Brings Joy of Life To Men Past 60

Feel Younger and Spryer—Rejuvenating Minerals Do This and 4 Weeks' Test Will Prove It; Inexpensive

Tired out when you go to bed at night—unrefreshed when you get up in the morning—Not so active as you used to be.

What's the answer? Take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning.

This keeps liver, bowels and kidneys functioning as correctly and regularly as Nature intended they should and keeps your blood free from harmful acids and toxins.

Not only does Kruschen bring blissful bowel regularity but its revitalising influence on the internal organs, glands and nerves brings about vigorous and virile health.

An 85-cent bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs 85 cents—Get it at any drug store in the world—A fresh lease on life.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

NEW GUILD PLAY AND TWO COMEDIES OCCUPY PRE-HOLIDAY STAGE

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WHAT IS "In the Meantime," latest drama presented by the Theater Guild at the Nixon Theater? Is it one of those domestic interior anagrams that George Kelly writes for us? Is it a newspaper and murder cartoon strip like "Chicago" of Maurine Watkins? Is it an Ibsenesque searching of souls in torment, presented with the quiet technique of William Gillette? Or is it plain propaganda for the abolition of the death penalty or the restriction of newspaper publicity?

George Seibel

It's a bit of all these—and perhaps as finely acted a fragment of melodrama as we have had since Roland Pertwee's "Interference" several years ago.

Claire and Paul Sifton, newspaper people and social workers, have built the plot, got together a very strikingly assorted family in the middle-class living-room ingeniously designed by our Woodman Thompson, covered all the coincidences with admirable neatness, and then set off the firecrackers.

The architecture is by Hardon, but the atmosphere is by Hiny Lardner, and the moral is by H. L. Mencken.

That moral is that you "buy law like liquor," and that "elections can be very confusing to justice."

To prove that point the audience is thrilled for three acts seething with suspense.

HERE'S THE SIMPLE TALE

Take a look at the ramifications of this simple tale. The foreman of a murder jury returns home after he has by one question brought a murderess to the chair. She is to be executed that same day at midnight. His house is besieged by reporters, who even insinuate themselves as gasmen. His son-in-law is bribed to admit one such who puts a short-wave device into the radio so that the broadcast of the condemned woman's last hour will be heard by the juror who sent her to the chair. This happens while a bridge party—funny as they always are on the stage—is in progress, with the juror's comely daughter as one of the foursome.

Take a look at this daughter. She has a lover who is leaving town, and she thinks he is leaving her. He is a shady personage, with a high-power car and a dangerous gun.

Between acts two and three the daughter shoots and kills her lover.

She comes back at the beginning of act three, confesses to the family what she has done, and the reporter who for two acts has been getting his big story, calls the district attorney to the home to prove again the legal axiom that "a blonde can do no wrong."

The obliging district attorney proves to the girl and her family that the murdered man was killed by gangsters.

"Not guilty!" So say we all.

ACTING THAT'S ART

Do not say that this story is wildly improbable until you have seen it told by actors who are real artists. Frederick Perry as the father who was foreman of the jury gives a most convincingly natural portrayal of a good citizen who "believes in upholding the law." Linda Watkins as the daughter is marvelous in her expression of sub-conscious hysteria and emotional daze. Glenn Anders as the reportorial Judas who turns Galahad could get any city editor to hire him at any salary. Robert Strange as the district attorney could make Macbeth believe Duncan committed suicide. These four people do such acting as we are accustomed to expect in Guild productions.

But all the 23 people in the cast come up to these specifications with hardly any discount. Maude Allan and Fred Sullivan shone especially in minor and incidental parts.

So the long arm of coincidence and the glib tongue of propaganda shall be forgiven. Maybe murders are treated by police and press and public as an endless chain of thrills—"kill 'em, catch 'em, sweat 'em, burn 'em"—but as the thrills are communicated to the audience, it is evident dramatists also are not averse to using the formula.

Be assured of one thing. "In the Meantime" will not put you to sleep. And that, it seems, is not even the purpose of the Guild.

ACADEMY BURLESQUE IS 'FINE FEATHERS'

"Fine Feathers," current burlesque attraction at the Academy, has a company headed by Art Gardner, Harry Levine, comedians, and Margie Bartel, singer and dancer. Fields, Smith and Fields offer a special singing and dancing act. A group of 20 young women comprise the ensemble in dancing and singing numbers. Among the other principals are Artie Brooks, Jack Wald, Ida Shaw, Billie Goodwin and Leonora DeAlba.

Glee Club Will Sing at Avalon

The Men's Glee Club of Muskingum College, New Concord, O., will give a concert tonight in the Avalon United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. O. H. Milligan, pastor. Several North Boroughs young men are members of the club.

FIRE IN RAIDED CLUB SCANNED

Authorities today were endeavoring to learn the cause of a fire which broke out in a large two-story frame building at St. Joseph street and Otilia way, formerly the Mt. Oliver Turner Hall. The fire was discovered a half-hour after the place had been raided by prohibition agents last night.

Two alarms were sounded when the flames broke out on the second floor of the building, now used as a club, according to police. Frozen fire plugs hampered firemen, and for a time it was feared the entire building would be destroyed. The blaze, however, was confined to the upper floor.

The raiders, finding nobody in the place, forced a side door. The seizure consisted of 110 pints of whisky and 13 cases of home brew, while 80 gallons of beer mash were destroyed, agents said.

Battalion Chief Sol Klein was overcome by smoke, but was revived by Dr. D. E. Sable, chief police and fire surgeon, and returned to duty. Fire Chief Richard L. Smith estimated the damage at $2,500.

Defunct Bank Heads Enter Guilty Pleas

BRIDGETON, N. J., Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Two officials of the defunct Vineland Trust Company, J. Pierson Reed, president, and Charles A. Barraclough, treasurer, pleaded guilty to several indictments of misdemeanor in the Cumberland County court here. They will be sentenced January 2.

The secretary of the bank, Frank E. Smith, entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried. State banking commissioners closed the bank last June 11.

Quartet to Offer Selections New Here

The Yost string quartet will present two works entirely new to Pittsburgh in its second concert of the season, Sunday afternoon, January 4, in the Hotel Schenley. The works are a string quartet in F by Vittorio Rieti and a theme and variations by the Russian composer W. Pogojeff.

Anna Murdock, widow of the late Henry D. Murdock, of Wilkinsburg, was named beneficiary of one-third of an estate valued at $16,500, left by her late husband, in his will, filed for probate today. Murdock disposes of the residue to children, nieces and nephews.

Five Children Share In $11,500 Estate

An estate valued at $11,500 was bequeathed equally to his five children in the will of Harry E. Ramage, a widower of Reserve Township, filed for probate today. Louis Steckle and Edward Nungesser, sons-in-law of Ramage, were named executors.

IT IS NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS ALL WEEK IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Daddy Dumplins," a sentimental little play woven around the Yuletide season, is the current George Sharp presentation in the Pitt. It offers two Christmas Eves with every performance.

John Winthrop, in the title role, plays Santa Claus to a house full of adopted children. Where he enlisted them all, we don't know, but they're a pretty clever group.

Mr. Winthrop doesn't wear whiskers or ride a sleigh, but he has a happy smile, even when adversity pushes through his doorway. And he has a weakness for Dickens' "Christmas Carol." He begins to read it twice. But in the first act a villain interrupts him. In the third—it is the final curtain, the villain having died in Europe.

TELLS GHOST STORIES

Alice Ann Baker is prominent in a motherly housekeeper role. She has a merry time telling ghost stories to the children, counting the lumps of coal she puts in the stove and operating an old-fashioned coffee grinder.

Pauline MacLean portrays the eldest adopted daughter. You know when Leading Man Paul McGrath appears as a young attorney in the first act that he's going to get her in the last.

Hugh Banks and Mabel Kroman haven't much to do. They have minor servant roles and can go home early in the play.

ONLY AN "OBITUARY"

John Thorn makes an amusing butler and young James Karns registers well as a boy who wishes he were a man. Other juvenile parts are taken by Carmelita Jacques, Mervin Layton, Gloria De Lucca and Georgiana Edmondson.

And we mustn't forget Robert Fiske. Though he's only an "obituary" at the finale, he's quite the villain while he lives.

The play had dual authorship—George Barr McCutcheon and, yes, it says so on the program, Earl Carroll. Oh well, Mr. Carroll started out as a song writer so that accounts for the sentiment.

It is, withal, a pleasant and homely presentation. The ultra-sophisticates may sneer at it, but lesser-sophisticates will take it tolerantly for Christmas comes but once a year.

English Singers In Concert Tonight

The English Singers, of London, six vocalists, will give the third Art Society concert in Carnegie Music Hall tonight. Their program will feature Christmas carols, folk songs, madrigals and ballets.

Comedy

Mrs. Fiske, prominent among American stage comediennes, comes to the Nixon next week in "Ladies of the Jury," comedy.

Local

Shirley Hatch is among the talented Pittsburgh youngsters who will take part in the kiddie revues to feature Stanley and Enright Christmas bills, opening Friday and Thursday, respectively.

Finely Acted Comedy Seen As 'Bird in Hand' Plays in Alvin

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A large audience departed from the Alvin last night at the close of the playing of "Bird In Hand" with a happy and well satisfied feeling. There was ample reason for this general state of mind for this comedy by John Drinkwater is real comedy, warm and vital and mostly hilarious, that sticks out above the pretty romance that is the base of all the action. It is comedy that has its lesson, too, but not so obtrusively presented as to appear like sermonizing.

In analysis one is inclined to reflect that the ideals of the rugged old inn-keeper of Gloucestershire, whose opposition to his daughter's association with a scion of aristocracy provided the key to all the action, is the same that actuates all parents concerned deeply about their children. Yet parents, as well as youngsters, we assume, were glad to see him force himself into a position where he had to yield.

GRUFF BUT LOVABLE

From the yeomanry is this gruff, lovable old John Greenleaf, finely portrayed by Walter Edwin, and his inn, the "Bird In Hand," is as decent a place as he is a man, made so by generation upon generation of Greenleafs before him. He feels that he is a commoner but no fool, and holds that no good can come from romantic attachments between persons of different stations in life. So when his daughter Joan and the son of a titled neighbor propose an automobile ride he opposes it. But the girl has some of his stubbornness, too, and she goes—not furtively, but boldly.

Which is the beginning of as delicious a lot of fun as ever comes to the stage. Guests come, and the hurt old man tries vainly to obtain some sympathy from them, but his lamentations about the way modern youth carries on gain him no support in any quarter. He goes out into the night in search of her when she fails to return as soon as she should, and this leads to as fine a second act as will be one's pleasure to see in many a day.

TEARS JUST MISS

In it are comedy, drama, farce and pathos—pathos almost to the point of tears, which are just on the verge when one of those inane remarks that someone always is making crops out. It sends back the lumps in the throats that have arisen as old Greenleaf explains that he has made an off-stage scene bordering on madness because of love for his girl. And he departs for bed contrite as applause breaks forth—applause as much for the sentiment he has expressed as for the effectively pointed art of Mr. Edwin, the medium of its expression.

"Characters" abound in this play, and, while that of Greenleaf gives us one of the most excellently typed exhibitions of acting of the season, on the part of Mr. Edwin, he has excellent support, especially from Eliot Makeham, as a Mr. Blanquet, who "travels in sardines;" John Warburton, a young man interested in politics, and Frank Petley, as a barrister, three guests in the inn, who do much to aid love's young dream. Daphne Warren-Wilson and Ronald Dare play the romantic roles capably. Olga Slade, as the sympathetic mother of the girl, and Arthur Ridley, as the boy's father, round out a perfect cast.

AMUSEMENTS.

PITTSBURGHER HEADS PARADE

Mr. Denholm.

A native Pittsburgher who left here when a boy is to lead the Rose Parade in the New Year's Day Carnival of the Roses in Pasadena, Cal. He is John H. Denholm, 58, of Los Angeles, a Pittsburgher by birth and here now to visit his father, Samuel Denholm, who resides at 6513 Frankstown avenue.

Denholm left Pittsburgh when a boy and for the last 21 years has acted as herald in the Rose parade, he said. During the World War he was chief trumpeter of the 81st Field Artillery. He was a bugler in the Mexican troubles in 1916.

Wheeling to Raise $250,000 Relief Fund

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 16.—An emergency unemployment relief fund of $250,000 will be raised here as the result of a campaign launched here. I. M. Scott, former president of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, chairman of the drive, said thousands were in destitute circumstances. Every employed person is asked to give one day's wages a month for four months to the fund.

JUST WED, HITS LINDSEY VIEWS

Dr. Lewis Browne, noted Jewish writer, will lecture tonight in the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association building, Bellefield avenue. Dr. Browne arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday with his bride of a week and registered at the William Penn Hotel.

Dr. Browne believes companionate marriage as a remedy for marital problems is being rushed too fast. He said:

"Morals are so bad and marriage is given so little thought today, that remedies are bound to spring up. But these remedies are not necessarily ideals. Companionate marriage may be all right as a remedy but it is certainly not an ideal. Judge Lindsey rushes it too fast."

FOUR KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Strike seem to enjoy stories based on their thrift more heartily than the rest of us. This is probably a mark of broad-mindedness. Bills Kerr, the Scot who knows more about soccer than George Soccer himself, throws back his little head, pushes out his thin stomach and roars like Falstaff at the weakest of such stories.

William Pfarr

This particular story is interesting because it's true. A Scot who had been in this country seven years, got off a street car in the East End last week and started to walk the few remaining blocks to his home. As he passed along a dark street a thug whacked him over the head with what was undoubtedly a blunt instrument.

The Scot collapsed. The thug took his purse containing $14. As the robber prepared to leave, the Scot recovered his senses, grabbed the thug by the feet, toppled him to the ground, recovered his purse, and for good measure, took what other money the thug owned—$2.

When somebody asked the Scot why he didn't report the assault to the police, his answer was a sensible question. "Why should I?"

At this time of the year there invariably occurs a mystery which invariably we are unable to solve. We call it "The Mystery of the Traffic Cop's Smile."

If, for 11 months, the average traffic cop growls and bellows at erring or unerring motorists, comes December 1 and his scowls and frowns disappear in favor of a winning smile. What is the explanation of this dark mystery?

The most popular laugh of last week was the one Charlie Butterworth brought to town with "Sweet Adeline."

Do you have any children?" Butterworth asked friend.

"Nope!"

"That's too bad. I was just going to ask you how they were."

One day last week a jar of salad dressing was lost in a North Side street car. The next day somebody lost three sets of false teeth. A customer riding a South Side car forgot two live goldfish. More purses than ever are being lost, now that it's December.

Joe Donley, of the Pittsburgh Railways, who finds things that the passengers lose, was downcast when a car rider lost a plate of steaming hot beans on a North Side car a few weeks ago, reasoning that this set a new low for losing. But with the Christmas season on he has given way to dispair.

People lose things more readily around the Christmas holidays than they do at any other period of the year. Probably because they have more things to lose. Mr. Donley finds 15 purses returned to him from the trolleys each day as the lost loot.

Mr. Donley is betting all his friends hats these days. He is wagering that before Christmas a grey haired old lady will march into his office with a tremendous elephant and announce, "I found this on a Woods Run car."

29 Quarantine Cases Reported to City

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 10; diphtheria, 3; measles, 1; whooping cough, 2; chickenpox, 8; mumps, 1, and pneumonia, 4.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Einstein left New York flat and is headed for Hollywood. If he's got a theory that nobody knows what it is, or what it's all about, there is a half dozen companies here that will buy it and produce it along with these enigmas of our own that we put out. His theory is that "there is no space." Wait till he sees the vacant room on some of these miniature golf courses. Well, Hollywood can meet him on equal terms. We don't know what his "racket" is, and vice versa.

Yours, WILL.

'SANTA'S' BOONS RECALLED BY RECIPIENT

Mother Collects Playthings For Children of Today; Writes of Wooden Horse

Bread cast upon the waters by the Toy Mission has returned thousand-fold during the 36 years of its existence. This year there is one particularly notable instance.

Of the hundreds of thousands of needy children made happy by gifts of toys in the years George L. Bond and his workers have been engaged in the enterprise, one—a woman with a family of her own today—recalls a sad Christmas made joyous by the Toy Mission Santa.

RECALLS WOODEN HORSE

In response to Bond's appeal for help occasioned by illness this year, she writes:

"My mother was left a widow 38 years ago with four small children, and we would have known no Christmas joys if it had not been for the toys we received from the Toy Mission.

"One Christmas in particular stands out most vividly in my mind. My youngest brother received a large wooden horse from the Toy Mission. It was too large to use in our tiny home, so for years it stood like a sentinel outside our front door. Not only our boys but all the youngsters in the neighborhood played with that wooden horse."

AIDS IN WORK

This year the letter writer made the rounds of neighbors, collecting discarded toys. Her husband repaired them. She and her daughter also have been dressing dolls for the mission.

Neighborhood collections are being taken up at police and fire engine houses throughout the city, where Sun-Telegraph trucks will call for the toys. All donations must be in this week, if the children are to enjoy them on Christmas Day.

$91,000 ASKED IN 3 SUITS

Charles Ernest Guffey, who asserts he was thrown to the street when a car was started before he had alighted, has brought suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company for $25,000 damages. He says he injured an abdominal wound, having been operated on previous to the accident, which happened November 8, last, at Federal and Ohio streets.

Walter Turner and his wife, Lillian Turner, have filed suit against the Pittsburgh Transportation Company for $30,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received by Mrs. Turner December 29, last, in Grant street, when a taxicab in which she was riding collided with another car. Mrs. Turner says her back and spinal column were bruised.

Margaret A. Brown, Overbrook, who says her teeth were loosened and several broken, October 6, 1929, while riding in a bus of the Monongahela Transport Company's line, has sued that company for $25,000 damages. Her husband, Jacob I. Brown, demands $11,000.

Ben Avon Firemen Get New Apparatus

Members of the Ben Avon Volunteer Fire Department today were elated over the arrival of the new combination pumper motor apparatus which was delivered to the fire engine house ready for service yesterday. The pumper, which has the power of pumping 750 gallons a minute was ordered some time ago by borough council. W. H. Elste is chief of the department.

Claims on Freight Lowest in 5 Years

Gross claim payments in the freight department of the Central region of the Pennsylvania Railroad in November amounted to $125 950 21, it was announced. This was the lowest month in five years. Reduction in the number of errors in the handling of less-carload freight is given as an important factor in the decrease.

Evidence Lacking, U. S. Drops 29 Counts Against Man Accused in North Side Case

Charles W. Bott, former foreman of the Fort Pitt Brewing Company, described in the original North Side rum conspiracy trial and the Union Fishing Club trial, in Federal Court, as a "shooter" of beer, was cleared of an old liquor charge yesterday.

The government dropped an information with 29 counts filed February 2, 1929, charging Bott with unlawful manufacture of beer and possession and transportation of alcohol. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker nolle prossed it on motion of United States Attorney Louis E. Graham. The written motion said the action was with approval of Attorney General William Mitchell, because the government had insufficient evidence to warrant further prosecution.

Bott on May 29, 1929, pleaded no defense to the charge, and on February 14 was granted permission by the court to substitute a plea of not guilty. Bott was a defendant in both the North Side conspiracy and the Union Fishing Club cases. Many of the allegations in the information were the same as those in the North Side case, which was dismissed because the government failed to establish a general conspiracy among 44 defendants, as charged in the indictment.

In the Union Fishing Club trial Bott was convicted on one count. He was granted a new trial by Judge Nelson McVicar, but has not been re-tried.

SUES CAB FIRM FOR $25,000

Claiming to have suffered partial paralysis of her right side as a result of a taxicab accident, Julia H. Hart, of 1214 Sherman avenue, has brought suit against the Yellow Taxicab Company for $25,000 damages through her counsel, Rose & Eichenauer.

Miss Hart says she was on her way to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station where she was employed, on April 20, 1929, the date of the accident. She avers the driver handled the cab so recklessly that it struck the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Corey and Martindale streets, and she was bounced from her seat, her head striking the roof of the cab with violence, resulting in the injuries stated.

PLAN NEW DRUG STORES HERE

Plans for the opening of additional stores in the Pittsburgh district were to be discussed at a meeting of the directors of the Dow Drug Company today in Cincinnati, F. W. M. McCulloch, vice president of the Pittsburgh division of the company, left by airplane from Bettis Field to attend the meeting.

The directors also were to discuss opening other stores in Ohio territory. A second store was opened in East Liberty by the company within the last two weeks.

Suit Charges Wife Of 4 Days Departed

Navy Seeks Pay For Man's Trip On Zeppelin

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Lieut. Jack C. Richardson of the Navy went around the world with Dr. Eckener on the Graf Zeppelin last year and now Congress is asked to pay his expenses.

He was ordered to the cruise by the Navy Department, but when he submitted his expense account, Comptroller General McCarl disapproved it because the trip was not made on an American vessel.

Dyers Here Plan Holiday Dinner

2 HELD IN AUTO THEFT CASE

Charged with the larceny of an automobile, which, it was testified was stolen from East Liberty four weeks ago, Howard P. Murphy, 20, of 7617 Tioga street, today was in the county jail in default of $1,000 bail. John Lawrence, 23, of 424 Garfield street extention, was reported in jail in lieu of $500 bail on the charge of having driven an automobile in Oakmont Sunday while under the influence of liquor.

Murphy and Lawrence were arrested by Oakmont police and given hearings last night before Justice of the Peace B. L. Gunsallus, of Oakmont.

The justice also fined Blair C. Conner, 32, of 313½ Lowell street, Vandergrift, $10 and costs on a charge of interfering with Patrolman Edward Hellwig, of Oakmont. Police testified Conner attempted to assault Hellwig when he objected to being tagged for an alleged motor violation.

BEEGLE RITES TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Harper K. Beegle, assistant treasurer and director of the Edward A. Woods Company, who died Monday, at his home, Harbeth Lawn, Gibsonia.

He was connected with the Edward A. Woods Company for more than 30 years, and was a member of the Gibsonia Presbyterian Church, the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters Association, the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and the Wildwood Country Club.

He leaves his wife, Elizabeth L. Beegle; two sons, Richard E. and H. K. Beegle, Jr.; one daughter, Mrs. James McClain; two sisters, Mae Beegle and Lena Beegle, all of Pittsburgh, and one brother, Thomas P. Beegle, of Canton, O. Interment will be in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Missionary Society To Present Pageant

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, will present a pageant, "The Christmas Story," in the social rooms of the church tomorrow night. Mrs. Louise H. Reel will direct the pageant, assisted by Mrs J. E. Stewart and the Bellevue Round Table quartet. A large cast will participate.

Meet to Discuss Local B. & L. Chapter

The organization of a chapter of the American Savings, Building and Loan Institute will be discussed at a meeting of the Allegheny County League of Building and Loan Associations, January 2. The institute is the educational body of the United States Building and Loan League.

TWO WOMEN, CHILD, MAN VICTIMS

Machine Demolished When Struck by Train at Mars; Couple Run Down by Truck

Four persons, one a 5-year-old child, were dead today as a result of automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district last night. The dead child had come to Pittsburgh from her home in Ashland, Ky., Saturday to spend the Christmas holiday with her aunt, who was killed in the crash in which she was fatally injured. Their automobile was demolished when it was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train at Mars, according to a coroner's report.

The accident occurred when an automobile driven by Mrs. Bess Kramer, 36, of Valencia, stopped at the crossing and waited until an eastbound freight train had passed, deputy coroners said. Unaware that another train was approaching from the opposite direction, Mrs. Kramer started across, and drove into its path, it was reported. Mrs. Kramer and Norma Mahan, who was riding with her, died several hours later in Presbyterian Hospital.

The automobile was reported dragged 200 yards and demolished.

KILLED BY TRUCK

Mrs. Johanna Maluty, 46, of Howley plan, Mifflin Township, was killed, and her husband, Stanley, 54, seriously injured, when they were struck by a truck in Duquesne boulevard, near Duquesne Junction last night. Maluty, suffering a probable skull fracture, was in Braddock General Hospital.

The couple was walking in the boulevard when the truck, driven, according to the morgue report, by John Zeronis, of 54 South Eighteenth street, struck them. Zeronis was ordered to post bond at the coroner's office today.

John Schrecker, 42, of 931 Mellon street, a street car operator, died in West Penn Hospital early today from injuries suffered when he was run down as he alighted from a street car at Wellesley and Negley avenues at midnight. He was on his way home. Barton Schaffer, 28, of 433 Union avenue, Kittanning, alleged driver of the car, was arrested by East End police and released on $1,000 bail for the coroner.

Neville Island police today were searching for the hit-and-run driver who struck John Shipert, 54, of 79 Fleming avenue, Stowe Township, while he was en route to work on the island yesterday. Shipert was in the Ohio Valley Hospital.

CHILD INJURED

Siabelle Sevin, 2, daughter of William E. Sevin, of 2613 Mill street, New Sheffield, today was in Sewickley Valley Hospital as the result of an automobile crash at Eleventh street and Duss avenue, Ambridge, a half block away from where George Shriber and Max Dernis, Pittsburgh business men, were killed Sunday. One car was driven by Sevin, according to police, and occupied also by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Leeper, of 1808 McMinn street, Aliquippa. The driver of the other car, Chester A. Jones, of 1606 Ohioview avenue, Ambridge, was arrested on a reckless driving charge, but released under his own recognizance, police said.

Man, 50, Found Dead From Stove Fumes

Matt Sibich, 50, of 40 Fleming avenue, Stowe Township, was found dead in his room late yesterday, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, according to the coroner's report. A gas stove was found burning in the room.

Key Tossed From Window Admits Rum Raiders

Prohibition agents do not often find proprietors of clubs as accommodating as was the case Saturday night when they gained admittance to a club in Nadir way, Homewood. Testimony before the United States commissioner yesterday told the story.

When the raiding party reached the building one member called loudly to be granted admittance.

"Why don't you use your key?"

The reply was:

"I lost it."

The man in charge answered:

"All right. I will toss you one from the window."

The key was tossed out. A minute later the raiding party entered, much to the astonishment of the man who had tossed the key, and others.

It was a case of mistaken identity on the part of the key tosser. Martin J. Hoehn and William A. Loy, charged with unlawful possession of liquor, were held under bond for court.

2 CARS SEIZED WITH LIQUOR

Two liquor-laden automobiles were seized, one on the North Side and the other in Brownsville avenue, by prohibition agents last night.

Angelo Panno, of Liverpool street, was arrested in Spring Garden avenue, in an automobile which, according to the agents, contained 30 gallons of alcohol.

At Hays street and Brownsville avenue, the agents seized an automobile driven by Sidney T. Lewis, 42, of 501 Third avenue, Carnegie, when they found 10 gallons of alcohol in it, they reported. Lewis was arrested.

Truck, Tires Stolen In Manchester Plant

Thieves last night entered the plant of the Manchester Auto and Machine Company, 916 Manchester boulevard, stole a new truck valued at $2,800 and took two tires from another truck, valued at $100 each.

ELWYN VOTING ON ANNEXATION

An important feature of the special election being held today in Elwyn, in Baldwin Township, for annexation to Pittsburgh, is that if the citizens there vote to join the city, it will form the connection necessary to enable Castle Shannon to vote on annexation.

Some Castle Shannon citizens have indicated they would favor union with Pittsburgh, but the fact that no portion of the borough joined the city prevented consideration of the matter. Elwyn touches both the Pittsburgh and Castle Shannon municipal borders.

Early voting in Elwyn was light. There are more than 350 persons, 187 of them qualified voters, in the district, with a property valuation of $300,000. It adjoins Overbrook, now a part of Pittsburgh.

Jobs of Married Women to Go To Needy

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The General Electric Company soon will discharge more than 100 married women employed at its Lynn plant because officials have found their husbands receive sufficient remuneration to provide for family needs.

Frank P. Cox, manager of the West Lynn works, described the prosposed change as an effort to give employment to those who need it. The places of the married women will be filled by widows, single women or married women whose husbands are unable to properly support them.

PASTOR TAKES POST SUNDAY

The program of holiday season events in the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran Church of America will open Sunday with the installation of a new pastor at the Christ Lutheran Church, West Newton, and unveiling of a religious painting in Jacob's Lutheran Church in Smithfield, Fayette County.

The Rev. William A. Zundel will be installed in the West Newton church by the Rev. Henry H. Bagger, president of the synod, Sunday morning. In the afternoon Dr. Bagger will officiate at the unveiling of the painting in Smithfield, where the Rev. F. C. H. Scholz is pastor. The same afternoon the seventieth anniversary will be celebrated by the congregation of St. Luke's Church in Millvale.

New Year's Day the Rev. W. F. Adolphson will become pastor of Christ Church, Wilmerding, and St. John's Church, East McKeesport. He formerly was pastor of the Lutheran Church at Prospect, Butler County.

TROLLEY SPANS TERMED SAFE

Denial that tracks and trestles on the Beechview and Dormont line of the Pittsburgh Railways Company were dangerous was made by a special committee, headed by Joseph Beecher, to the Dormont Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last night. The finding was accepted by the chamber, which had appointed the committee after it had been asserted at a previous meeting that operation of one-man cars was dangerous because of speed and the alleged condition of tracks.

Fear for Funds In Closed Bank

The disappearance of Andrew J. Horvat, president of the Bank of Binghamton, Binghamton, N. Y., which closed its doors yesterday, today caused officers of the Catholic Union of Russian Brotherhoods, with headquarters at Homestead, to make a hurried trip to Binghamton. Funds of the Union were on deposit in Horvath's bank, which is said to be short $600,000 of its funds.

FOUND RIGHT COUGH REMEDY ON VISIT

REM adopted by whole family

THELMA PADDOCK

The Paddock family of 322 Glider St., Buffalo, N. Y. were visiting friends of theirs one winter when one of the children developed a bad cough, the result of a cold. Her friends suggested to Mrs, Paddock that she try REM, and that's what she did. "We got some at the drug store," says Mrs. Paddock, "and it stopped the cough right away. I was so well pleased with it that I've never been without it in the house since. It only takes a few doses of REM to check a cough and that's one of the nice things about it. Thelma and Herbert--in fact all of us--have used it at different times." Once a member of a family tries REM, it's the family cough remedy from then on, just as in this case. Be sure to get REM--the blue package with the orange circle. Every druggist has it.

CHIROPRACTOR TAKES APPEAL

An appeal to the Supreme Court to test the act of 1911 governing chiropractic, was taken today by Attorney A. G. Smith for Howard C. Long, convicted last March of practicing without a license. Long was fined $100 and the case was appealed to the Superior Court, which sustained the lower court.

Smith holds that the law of 1911 makes no provision for taking out a chiropractor license, that the State Medical Board is without legislative authority to compel licensing of chiropractors, and that the legislature cannot coerce one healing profession to accept the requirements of another.

Mothers, Daughters To Hold Reception

The senior and junior sisterhoods of the Beth Shalom congregation will hold a mothers' and daughters' reception tonight in the community building social hall. Music will be furnished by a band under the direction of Jean Wald.

EINSTEIN SAILS FOR CALIFORNIA

The liner Belgenland will take the physicist and his party to Havana on December 19, show them the Panama Canal on December 23, and leave them at Los Angeles on New Year's Day, touching San Diego, Cal., on December 31.

Dr. Einstein will pass some weeks at Pasadena, working in collaboration with Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, and visiting Mount Wilson Observatory.

The party boarded the Belgenland last night after five feverish days of activity. Contrary to his wishes, Prof. Einstein was thoroughly interviewed and photographed, delivered several addresses, twice attended the opera and kept numerous social engagements.

In parting, he left this message:

"I am leaving New York with a sense of a new spiritual and mental enrichment and with thankful appreciation for the extraordinarily friendly welcome and assistance accorded me by the officials of the city and by the many sympathetic men and women whom I had the good fortune to find here."

FRENCH HEADS BRIDGE LEAGUE

By ERNEST H. HEINRICHS,
Sun-Telegraph Bridge Editor.

The American Bridge League, which is the largest organization of bridge players in this country, conferred quite an honor upon the bridge playing fraternity of Pittsburgh by electing Capt. F. G. French as its president for the year 1931.

Capt. French, who is the managing director of the Pittsburgh Bridge Club and one of its organizers, is not only nationally known as an expert of the game, but he has also materially interested himself in making the game popular throughout the country.

As it is customary with the American Bridge League that the home city of its president will be selected for its annual meeting and tournament at some future date, it is expected that Pittsburgh will have the opportunity within a short time to entertain a larger gathering of bridge players than has ever been here at one time. Other Pittsburghers who were also selected as members of the official family of the American Bridge League are H. J. Bailey, director, and Mrs. H. K. Stahl and Miss Margaret Beech, associate directors.

Mother Dies, Child Hurt in Auto Wreck

YORK, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—A mother was killed and her 8-year-old daughter gravely injured when a Hanover-bound trolley car of the York Railways Company struck an automobile at a grade crossing at Menges Mills, late yesterday. The dead woman is Mrs. John Wolf, 34, the daughter, Ellen, lies in a critical condition at the Hanover Hospital. Another child, John, aged 5, was a passenger in the automobile, but escaped with minor injuries. The automobile was driven by Mrs. Wolf.

Prison Smoking Ban Ends on Christmas

ELMIRA, N. Y., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Santa Claus is going to bring tobacco and the right to smoke to Elmira Reformatory inmates. The order of the state commissioner of correction, Dr. Walter N. Thayer, granting permission to smoke, will become effective Christmas Day, ending a 54-year ban.

The state will furnish tobacco, but the inmates may purchase their particular brands.

Last Rites Close Pact of 2 Pastors

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, professor emeritus at Princeton, has kept an agreement made nearly half a century ago. When he and the Rev. Dr. George Alexander came to New York as youthful clergymen, they decided the survivor should help conduct funeral services for the other. Dr. Van Dyke delivered a eulogy at the First Presbyterian Church, where Dr. Alexander was pastor.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Tennis Party Latest Bud Diversion

All sorts of entertainments have been given, and will be given for the debutante set this season, but a tennis party is something refreshingly new in fêtes for the stars of the social season.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. W. Parnell Wolf, of Walnut street, will entertain at a tennis party and tea at the Pittsburgh Golf Club for the debs in honor of Kathleen Knox. Kathleen and her mother, Mrs. McCook Knox, of Washington, will arrive in town on Thursday, and stay at the Hotel Schenley. On Saturday evening Mrs. Knox will give a dinner at the Golf Club to present her daughter to Pittsburgh society. Kathleen is the granddaughter of the late Senator and Mrs. Philander Chase Knox, and of the late Gen. Anson G. McCook, of Steubenville, and is a Capital debutante.

The wintry blasts kept none of the theatergoers at home last night, for there were two star attractions, "In the Meantime," a Theater Guild production at the Nixon, and John Drinkwater's "Bird in Hand" at the Alvin.

At the Nixon the theater was thronged with colorfully gowned and velvet and fur-wrapped women. And in between exciting acts many of the younger group chatted and smoked with friends in the foyer.

Petite Frances Kier, the debutante, I noticed with her fiance, Baron Jean Pelleve, and she wore a simple gown of shell-pink satin and a finger-tip cape of white lapin. Chatting with them was Mrs. T. M. Jones III, wearing eggshell satin and smart turquoise blue costume jewelry.

* * *

Genevieve Bell wore a wrap of black velvet and ermine, and Mrs. T. Howe Nimick chose a black velvet ensemble.

Chic Fall Fabrics

Margaret Stewart was there, wearing sapphire blue chiffon, and Evelyn Evans was there, and Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, who wore deep orchid chiffon and a coat of mink. Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby chose brocaded silver cloth, and Mrs. George A. Kelly III, beige lace and a black velvet coat furred in chinchilla.

Among the late arrivals was Suzanne Trimble, wearing black lace and a white ermine wrap. Mrs. Felix B. Snowden chose black velvet; Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan, beige lace with a wrap of brown velvet; Helen Leovy, Mrs. Annan's sister, looked striking in black lace and a black velvet and ermine wrap.

Mrs. Harvey Childs, III, I had a glimpse of, too. She wore black lace, and Mrs. Jack Bissell chose a smart greenish-blue and silver cloth gown that was reminiscent of the changeable taffeta of a few decades ago. Her sleeves were short with a band of kolinsky.

* * *

I had a glimpse of Mrs. B. F. Shriver, wearing orchid chiffon and a wrap of mink, and of Mrs. J. Shirley Austin and of Mrs. Frank Adair Leovy in a black ensemble.

Luck Furs Popular

Among the first to arrive was Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., wrapped in chinchilla and black velvet. I also saw Frances Fitzgerald wearing a striking gown of gold-colored satin, fashioned with a deep decolletage in back. Her wrap was of green velvet, lined in gold. Her mother, Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, wore a black velvet ensemble. Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance was there in black velvet, and I saw Mrs. A. P. Woolfolk wearing a red velvet and sable wrap over a black velvet gown.

* * *

Discuss Comedy

* * *

Sunday I talked about ever so many girls and boys who were coming home from school, and today I want to chat about some more young folks returning for the Yuletide vacation.

Yuletide Visitors

Among those who'll come from Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., are Laura Bidwell Childs, daughter of Mrs. Clinton L. Childs; Bertha Brooks, daughter of the J. Tyng Brookses; Fredericka Holdship, daughter of Charles F. Holdship; Elizabeth Liggett, daughter of the Sidney Liggetts; Mary-Colwell Jennings, daughter of the Richard G. Jenningses; Nancy Lee Byers, daughter of the J. Frederic Byerses; Constance Drake, daughter of the J. Frank Drakes; Virginia and Betty Evans, daughters of the T. Raymond Evanses; Margaret Robinson, daughter of the William M. Robinsons; Martha Ann Burdick, daughter of the Julian Burdicks; Dorothy Blaxter, daughter of the H. V. Blaxters.

* * *

Mrs. William Marcelein Scaife, of Eldomar, Sewickley, will entertain at a luncheon on Tuesday, December 30, in her home in honor of Hester Harton Browne, debutante daughter of the Richard Hollyday Semples, of Sewickley and Louisville, Ky. Guests will include the debutante group of this season and several of those of the past winter.

Honoring Debutante

Hester is to make her formal bow on Monday evening in the Pittsburgh Club at a ball to be given by her mother and father. Friday evening the G. Harton Singers, of Morewood Heights, are to entertain in her honor with a dinner in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

* * *

Added to the list of gay entertainments for the school set is a tea dance the Bert L. Murphys, of Murray avenue, will give New Year's Day in the Pittsburgh Field Club. The guests of honor will be their daughter Betty, a Winchester girl, and their son William Murphy, a Shady Side Academy student.

Of interest here is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. James Barron Colahan, III, of "Highlawns," Chestnut Hill, of the engagement of Eleanor Ogden Colahan, to Frederick D. Lorch, of the Princeton Club, Philadelphia, son of Mrs. Althea E. Lorch, of North Negley avenue. Eleanor attended Springdale School, and is a graduate of Holton Arms School in Washington. In 1927 she made her debut. Her fiance is a graduate of the Hill School and attended Princeton.

An interesting, though small wedding will be that of Anne Douglas Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Stewart, of Solway street, and John E. McKelvy, son of Mrs. William M. McKelvy, of Fifth avenue, on January 17. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock in the Stewart home with the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten officiating. Mrs. George A. Kelly, III, will be her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Kelly will be best man. A small reception will follow the marriage.

* * *

Mrs. Mary H. Colton, of North St. Clair street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Martha Colton, to David M. Cozier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cozier, of Bates street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Betrothal Is Known

* * *

Miss Betty and Miss Helen Davison, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davison, of Beechwood boulevard, will arrive Thursday from National Park Seminary, Forest Glenn, Md., to spend the holidays with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Davison and another daughter, Miss Jean Davison, a junior at Winchester, spent Thanksgiving with their two daughters in Washington.

* * *

MISS BETTY BOVARD: A FREQUENT RIDER EVEN IN WINTER AT THE GREENSBURG HUNT

Club Women Hear Talk On Music

"Music is the organization of sound towards beauty" was the original definition given by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth when he addressed an audience of Sewickley Valley Woman's Club members and Sewickley Academy students in the academy yesterday afternoon. Dr. Spaeth was speaking on "Common Sense in Music," by which, he explained, he meant not only a sensible way of looking at music, but a sense of music common to everyone.

In an extraordinarily delightful and interesting way, and with rich humor, Dr. Spaeth discussed vibration, rhythm and melody, saying the last is the most important of the three, for it is by melody that music is remembered. It is a mistake to put music on a pedestal where everyone can't get at it, he said, for anyone can enjoy music without knowing it, although knowledge adds to the enjoyment. The only problem in popularizing good music is in making it familiar. Many people don't know what to listen for and they enjoy music in a comfortable coma or a luscious lethargy, coming out of it only to applaud. Music runs in patterns like carpets or curtains, Dr. Spaeth went on, and this, as well as his other points, he illustrated in a fascinating way at the piano, showing, for one thing, that in their rythmic patterns the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" and the Chopin "Funeral March" were the same.

Permanency is the test of music's greatness, Dr. Spaeth stated as he went on to show that Beethoven had used "blues" notes (only they were grace notes then) and that all popular music can be traced to distinguish ancestry. The old tunes, he observed, have been jazzed up a bit for the modern savages who "listen with their feet."

Dr. Spaeth concluded his talk by giving his own hilariously funny "Yankee Doodle" as the masters would have written it; then the oratorio and operatic versions of "Jack and Jill" and a little of "Old Songs for New," in the last of which he did "Yes, We Have No Bananas," singing the words of its four sources as they were "borrowed"—the "Hallelujah Chorus," "Bring Back My Bonnie," "Seeing Nelly Home" and "I Dreamt I Dwelt," from "Bohemian Girl."

Miss Elizabeth Clugston, president of the Wilson College Club, has asked Miss Mary Ziegler to act as general chairman for the club's Christmas luncheon at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association on Saturday, December 27. The Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison will be the guest speaker. There will be a musical program by Mrs. William H. Coivin, and a surprise entertainment by the undergraduates.

Wilson Luncheon

Assisting Miss Ziegler are Mrs. J. Howard Aber, Mrs. Charles E. Macfarlane, Mrs. Frank W. Kinley, Mrs. Rhys E. Wolcott and Miss Dorothy E. Glassburn.

The Christmas party which the Women's Association of the University of Pittsburgh is to give will be held on Saturday in the Heinz House. Plans for the entertainment are in charge of Mrs. M. C. Elmer and her committee and the refreshments are the responsibility of Mrs. G. B. Hatfield and her aides.

Children Guests

Each child is asked to bring an inexpensive toy—not celluloid—wrapped and ready to be taken to the Children's Hospital.

Invitations have been sent out by the Epoch Club for its guest day Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jens G. L. Schreuder, West Hutchison avenue, Edgewood. The hostess is taking responses.

* * *

Mrs. David Lewis, of Cornell avenue, West View, was hostess for the W.[illegible] Forum's Christmas party last night. Roll call was answered with short Christmas poems, a Christmas pageant was given by the music committee and the games and other entertainment were in charge of the social committee. Mrs. J. M. Myers was associate hostess.

* * *

Mrs. T. O. Morgart, of Pinehurst avenue, Dormont, will be hostess to the Pittsburgh Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta National Sorority at a Christmas party on Friday evening. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, and afterwards a social time will take the place of the regular monthly business meeting. White gifts of food will be brought for Christmas baskets. Social service work for the association is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Kelvin Burns, who is being assisted in the Christmas project by Mrs. Morgart, Miss Evelyn Cochran, Miss Florence Dunkle and Miss Lysle McMillin.

Sorority Party

At yesterday's meeting of the Carnegie Monday Club, the members responded to roll call by donating a package of food or clothing for the needy. Mrs. G. N. Riley was hostess for the meeting, which was held in the Y. W. C. A. under Mrs. F. G. Husler's leadership. Papers concerning the lives and works of Christina Rosetti, Conrad Aiken, Margaret Deland, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Willa Cather and Elizabeth Moorehead were given by Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Mrs. W. J. Connelly, Mrs. J. E. Haudenshield and Mrs. J. M. Moore. Mrs. O. S. Heck led assembly caroling.

* * *

A play written and directed by Miss Lillian O. Sprague was the chief feature of the Christmas party held yesterday in the Business Women's Club by the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club. The play was presented by a cast of members and little Marjorie Rigg, granddaughter of Mrs. J. Boyd Duff. Gifts for the Toy Mission were brought by the women and tea was served.

FROCKS OF LACE RECOMMENDED FOR DEBUTANTE AND MATRON

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The lure of lace is to be found in the variations it affords. We are not only enmeshed in the net of its charm, but are grateful for the freedom of handling which it offers us. The wearing of the frock of lace, frothy and frilly, used to be the prerogative of youth, but now owing to deft and sympathetic treatment, it can be worn by almost any woman past the first flush of youth without the wearer feeling that she is appearing at a masquerade party in the guise of her debutante daughter. Then, too, clever designers have thought up all sorts of new and lovely patterns, thus vouchsafing us a wide choice of weaves and designs, whenever we feel that lace is becoming too ordinary and we are likely to meet a model similar to the one we are wearing at almost any function. If it is possible, a lace frock, but a good one, should be a part of every wardrobe and it will quickly justify the original outlay in the service that it will offer. The inexpensive lace frock should be avoided, however persuasive the blandishments of the saleswoman. For nothing looks so pathetic and tawdry as the frock of cheap lace made on commonplace lines.

* * *

CHANEL EXCELS in the use of lace and at her showrooms one is always certain of finding a new and lovely frock of fragile lace. The model shown here is her newest essay in this field. It is of fine black lace with a tiny crows-foot design scattered all over it. Especially original and becoming is the line of the decolletage, a shallow flounce dropped off the shoulder and dipping in a point to the waistline behind. The bodice and top of the skirt are snug fitting and then comes a crisp flare of tier upon tier of tiny flounces placed over starched muslin.

* * *

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Are You Letting Jealousy Ruin Your Happiness?

Is jealousy giving you the run-around? Do you see pinwheels and taste copper filings every time another girl gives the boy friend a come-hither smile?

That's a terrible state Mary's in. Once she was just a gay, care-free kid, full of pep and wisecracks. But that was before she fell in love in a big way. And now that she has found her "bit of heaven," she's working overtime to turn it into a sizzling opposite.

Why?

Has her darling two-timed her? No, indeedy. But maybe might! And she's going to be all prepared!

Gripped by Jealousy

Does that sound plum goofy to you? It certainly does—unless you're jealous yourself. In which case, you'll recognize all the symptoms.

"Dear Sally.

"I'm coming to you for cheering up, a good scolding and some advice. I need all of it, and I need it badly.

"About two years ago I met Jack, and began to go around with him. For the first year that I knew him I was so happy! I never took anything seriously, and went about with other fellows, until Jack asked me to go steady. I never had a jealous moment then. Not until this last year. But now jealousy has such a grip on me that I'm utterly miserable.

"We started going out with a young married couple, and at first we had perfectly lovely times together. But Marie, the young wife, is very fickle, and she is awfully pretty....prettier than I am, though I'm not bad looking. And she has started a lot of trouble among young couples, both married and single, by enticing the fellows away from the girls.....and she sure can do it. I don't know how!

Becoming Irritable

"Now she's turned her eyes to my Jack. And I haven't a happy moment any more.

"Jack and I are talking about getting married soon, but oh, I don't know! Jealously has me in its grip so that I don't know what to do. We spend every week-end with this couple, and take them everywhere with us, and it's agony for me. But I dare not show it, and I dare not refuse to go, for fear Jack will find out why. I sing, dance, and try to act happy when we're together, but inside I'm miserable, and Jack says I'm somehow different from the way I used to be. I try to laugh at myself about it, even when I'm alone, but as soon as I say 'good night' to him, I go to bed and cry my eyes dry.

"I'm getting so that sometimes I can't help being irritable, and I know that some day, even though it kills me, I to do it, I'm going to be so unhappy and upset that I will say something to Jack. I can't keep still much longer.

"When we are all together, I will smoke, and I know for certain that Marie smokes, too, because, when we're alone, she beats me at it any time. But before her husband and Jack, she demurely says she doesn't.

"And she is not true to her husband. She has had about 10 different sweethearts on the side, that I know of. And I keep wondering if my Jack is one, too. I never can tell by watching them, and I'm sure I couldn't find out from him or her.

"Oh, please help me. If I did know he was, for sure, I'd break up with Jack. Oh, what shall I do?" "MARVA."

What'll you do?

Well, just off-hand, I'd advise hiring a keeper. For if I ever saw a young woman who needed a guard and a couple of straitjackets, you're it.

Here you are, with a brand new happiness and a grand young man, and the future all glinty and sweet and what are you doing . . . ? Gumming it up with your suspicions and nasty surmises.

Competition Everywhere

You make me sick!

Maybe the other lady is a bit on the loose. The world's full of ladies on the loose. If you're going to throw a fit every time one of them smiles on your hero, you're certainly in for a long, hard spell of grief.

The truth is that your conceited little soul can't stand the fact that she's pretty and charming. You're furious at the thought of competition. Well, get this straight, Sappy.

You'll always have to meet competition of some sort wherever you are . . . whatever your job . . . whether you're a sweetheart or wife, or just a steno in some office. And if you meet it with panic, you're cooked.

Expect failure, and you'll get it! Expect treachery and you'll breed it. But laugh—and trust—and love will laugh with you and stay by your side.

But snap out of it! Stop poisoning yourself with your homemade venom. If your man's in danger from a vamp, don't help her lick you! Turn off the tears—put on your prettiest hat and your peppiest smile, and vamp him your own self!

I WISH I HAD YOUR FREEDOM AND INDEPENDENCE
WHAT I NEED IS SOMEONE TO BOSS ME!
SHE COMPLAINS BECAUSE SHE HAS TOO MUCH FREEDOM AND INDEPENDENCE
FAY KING

By FAY KING

It seems everyone has some complaint with their lot in life. The girl who is reared in luxury, sent to exclusive schools and presented to society, complains because she has not the freedom and independence of the girl who works.

The wife of a rich man who showers her with jewels, cars and charge accounts in all the big stores complains because she has not enough ready cash to spend as she wishes without an accounting.

The beauty who has achieved fame and fortune complains because she cannot loaf and gorge like the girl whose success does not depend upon personal appearance.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

Dicky Has Plan to Block Phil Veritzen

Even in the stress of the moment following Philip Veritzen's telephone appeal to be, I found myself fiercely, absurdly happy because I was able to turn to my husband in comradely fashion and ask his aid in the dilemma confronting me. Too many times in our life together we had not been in the friendly accord necessary for such co-operation. But despite the contretemps of his appearance with Edith Fairfax at the dinner Philip Veritzen had staged in my honor, Dicky was in extraordinary good humor, and, though his face had been dark with anger when I turned from my telephone colloquy, it was wrath directed against Philip Veritzen and no shadow of it had fallen on me.

He patted my shoulder when I had explained to him that Mr. Veritzen was trying to see Noel and asked him what we should do.

"Do!" he echoed largely, protective masculinity vibrant in his voice. "Don't you worry your head another second about that. And Mary," he turned to his niece, who, with wide, terror-filled eyes, was tightly gripping the arms of the chair into which she had slumped when she had learned that Philip Veritzen's message was, "you can tumble into bed with your heart at ease. Dear old Dad Veritzen isn't going to interview his son tomorrow, nor the next day, nor yet any day until you people are ready for him to broadcast. I, Me, your grave and reverend, and I hope revered, uncle, tell you that."

"Oh, Uncle Dickey!" she breathed, then burst into relieved sobbing against my shoulder as I put my arms around her.

"Let her have her cry out," Dicky said, "then put her to bed. I'll go over and rustle Harry and Lil over here and we'll have a council of war. There's no particular hury. We have all night before us."

But Mary slipped out of my arms, controlling her sobs, and, dashing to her uncle's side, caught at his arm as he was turning the doorknob.

"You don't know—that—man," she gasped. "You'll have to hurry if you get ahead of him. I'm not going to bed. Nobody needs to bother about me. I won't do the baby act any more. But I'm going to stay right here while you talk. I've—just got to."

"All right, dear. Sit down over here. But you must be quiet."

"I won't speak unless you tell me to," she said childishly. And I followed Dicky hastily into the corridor. It seemed imperative to me that I forestall any possible attempt of Philip Veritzen's to telephone his son. But long experience in the little ways of my husband made me wish to have the suggestion appear to come from him.

"Dicky!" I called softly after his retreating back, and he turned with an impatient little movement. "What is it?" he asked. "Mary throwing another fit?"

"No, she is very quiet," I returned, choking back a little smile at his gibe, which I knew was caused by a petty disapproval of my support of Mary in her refusal to go to bed. "But I wanted to ask you, do you think there is any chance of Mr. Veritzen's telephoning Noel tonight. I know it's silly to think of it, but if he did get hold of the boy he might upset him terribly."

"Ten to one he doesn't try it, but we mustn't take the chance. Better get the farm right away, explain the situation to Katherine, and make sure that Noel doesn't talk to his father before coming in here. But don't say anything over the telephone you don't have to."

I nodded and went back to our apartment, with a new little fear caused by Dickey's last words. I was sure that the girl telephone operators of the hotel switchboard were unbribable, and I felt that I could depend upon Purnell's loyalty not only to the hotel, but to our frequent kindnesses to him. But the boy on switchboard now was of another type, and also knew little of us. I had a sudden unreasoning vision of Mr. Veritzen tampering with the boy and securing a promise to watch any telephone conversations from our suites and report them to him.

With my hand upon the telephone receiver, I hesitated, when the boy asked for my number, then put a quick question:

"Is Purnell anywhere around?"

"Right in the lobby, ma'am."

"Please ask him to come up here at once," I directed, "and then give me this number." I gave our Sag Harbor number and hung up the receiver with the assurance that I would be called as soon as the farmhouse answered.

It was but little over a minute—which seemed like an hour—before three distinct summonses occupied my attention at the same second. The telephone shrilled its message, Dicky entered the room with Harry and Lillian Underwood and Purnell's knock sounded upon the half-opened door.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, December 17.

The lunar configurations for this day point to a very lively and generally felicitous and prosperous state of affairs, both private and business. Personal affiliations and occurrences are under a particularly suspicious rule for bringing pleasure, progress, and the fulfillment and enhancement of the most cherished desires and ambitions. Social, romantic and domestic interests may engage the attention, but employment also brings its meed of pleasure as well as profit.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of particularly happy and prosperous conditions, with personal matters extremely felicitious, and in employment and financial emoluments.

A child born on this day should be clever, ambitious, talented, and popular in social as well as business life and employment. It should attain to high goals of prosperity and happiness.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR ROYAL S. COPELAND

Why Banish the Poor Polly?

DR COPELAND

I was amused the other day by a mother, who scolded her daughter for buying a parrot. The good woman was quite upset by the purchase of this new pet and was positive no good would come of it. It was with much surprise and perhaps with considerable skepticism that she listened to my story, expressing doubt that danger might come from possession of the bird.

Undoubtedly much unnecessary alarm has been raised in the minds of most of us in reference to parrots. This is because of the epidemic of so-called parrot disease recently observed in this country. Several cases of "psittacosis," or "parrot disease," were discovered in Baltimore and Annapolis last winter. The outbreak was traced to birds supplied by a wholesale dealer in New York City. Shortly after the facts were discovered, the diseased birds were placed under the supervision of the health officials and no more cases were reported.

It is interesting to note that this disease has been known for over 50 years. Research has shown that it is caused by the "bacillus psittacosis." This germ is carried by the diseased birds and transmitted to man.

In human beings the course of the disease is similar to that of a mild attack of typhoid fever. Headache, and a rise of fever to 102 and sometimes as high as 104, are common symptoms. The tongue appears dry and coated, and the patient complains of feeling very uncomfortable. Either diarrhoea or constipation may be present. Rose-colored spots appear on the skin, and sometimes a marked cough may be present. If no complications take place the patient recovers within 15 or 20 days.

The disease is much more serious, fatal indeed, among birds than in man. In 1892 500 parrots were shipped from South America to Paris. On the journey 200 of the birds died from this disease. Due to negligence, the remainder of the shipment was sold to various people. Shortly thereafter an epidemic of psittacosis broke out in Paris.

There have been other similar epidemics, but really never very serious. The quarantine officials of the United States as well as of other countries have now provided such methods of inspection for the discovery of this disease that undoubtedly we will rarely or never hear of it again.

Parrots which have been in this country for years are not carriers of the disease, so there is no occasion to get rid of your old pet. The problem of control relates only to recently imported animals.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Note of Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I shall be engaged next month, and, as I have very few relatives and friends, I wonder whether it would be considered "proper" were I to write each one individually of the engagement instead of sending out announcements. I have always heard of printed announcements and am therefore skeptical as to whether my way would be correct. If it is, how should I word the note? S. W.

Your way—writing notes telling your relatives and friends of your engagement—is the correct way of making this happy announcement.

It is not good form to send formal announcements of an engagement.

It would be natural for you to tell by word of mouth, your close relatives and your closest friends. Then you write notes to those who live too far away to be told, or those who are less close in friendship.

In your note tell of your engagement, and tell some charming things about your fiance. Say, too, naturally, to those friends who have not met your fiance, that you hope that they soon will meet.

Announcing the Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine came to me and asked this question: I am engaged to be married to J. Jones. Should his family or my family announce the engagement, or can we just let it be quiet? But if it should be announced, who should announce it? KITTY.

The parents of the bride-to-be announce her engagement. The best form is for the bride-to-be to write notes to her friends, or to tell them by word of mouth, if she wishes. Then, if the family wishes, it is correct and convenient for "spreading the news" for the parents of the bride-to-be to make formal announcement of the engagement in the newspapers. In the meantime, a day or two after the bride-to-be has written letters, the groom-to-be writes to his friends. The family of the groom-to-be has nothing to do with making the announcement, however, any more than they have with making the announcement of the marriage.

Household Hints

If lemons are put in a fruit jar filled with cold water as soon as purchased and the top screwed on tightly, they will not dry up and will keep for several weeks.

When cake is scorched on the top or bottom grate over it lightly with a nutmeg grater instead of using a knife. This leaves a smooth surface for frosting.

Doughnuts will not absorb fat if ¼ teaspoonful or more of ground ginger is added when making them. The spice will not be noticed. A piece of ginger root put in the hot fat also helps.

SHE'LL GET Extra GIFTS THROUGHOUT THE YEAR . . . IF YOU GIVE HER A WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATOR

There is a reason why you need feel no hesitation about including a Westinghouse Refrigerator in your Christmas plans for the wife, mother or sister who makes your house a home. For here is a new idea in Christmas gifts — a possession that, once installed, starts earning money for other possessions! It is an actual fact that a year's use of this remarkable home aid can cut 20% from the household bills of the average family—literally hand you $50-$150 extra money every year, depending on your living scale and the size of your family.

RAIL SCRAPPING OPPOSED

An abandonment application for the Washington Run Railroad, operating between Layton and Star Junction, Fayette County, was in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission following a hearing by Examiner R. B. Molster, of Washington, yesterday, in the Chamber of Commerce Building. The Perry Brick Manufacturing Company opposed the application on the grounds that abandonment would prevent that organization hauling materials to market.

An arrangement was made that if the commission recommended abandonment, the brick company would be permitted to purchase at salvage prices any portion it might need to continue its route to markets.

ASK CIVIC WORK AS JOBLESS AID

Gaining of civic improvements in public institutions and buildings through the city relief funds will be the objective of a committee of the Federation of Social Agencies scheduled to meet today with Mayor Charles H. Kline.

The committee, headed by John Elder, is expected to cite the success of the plan in other cities. Cincinnati's system was outlined yesterday at an informal meeting of civic leaders in the Civic Club of Allegheny County in the organization's headquarters in the William Penn Hotel, by Col. C. O. Sherrill, former city manager.

Citing how Cincinnati was prepared for the unemployment situation, Col. Sherrill related how a Permanent Committee on Stabilization of Employment was formed several years ago. With a central point of operation, the correct situation is always known, according to Sherrill.

Protest Stops Light-Clad Act In School Play

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 16.—After a protest from Rev. Dr. Casey S. Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Altoona, a dance act in the "Follies of 1930," presented by the Altoona High School as a benefit, was eliminated. The pastor informed school officials that patrons of show protested to him of the scantiness of dress in the number.

Vegetables, Food Tickets to Benefit

Benefit matinee performances, admission to which may be gained for from three to five potatoes, or to canned goods, will be held at the Elliott theater, Laurel avenue, Elliott, tomorrow and Thursday afternoons, Al Glazer, manager, said today. The food will be distributed to needy families, he said.

'ARMY' TO GIVE CLOTHING

Approximately 2500 children will be made happy this Christmas through the efforts of the Salvation Army, it was said at Army headquarters yesterday. The army is giving no toys, but will present each child with new wearing apparel.

Plans are for caring for 1,000 children in the city and 1,500 in the county outside the city. The distribution will be made December 24 at 2 p. m. in the headquarters building, 421 Third avenue.

Men Raise $5,000 For New Church

Men of the Catholic Church of the Assumption, Bellevue, raised $5,000 for the new church building in a special financial drive just completed. The Rev. I. J. McGovern is pastor.

TUBES CLOSED, AUTOS DETOUR

Due to the closing of the Armstrong Tunnels this morning, Hazelwood traffic will be detoured over Second avenue, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced. South Side traffic will be routed over the Boulevard of the Allies and the Brady Street Bridge. Pedestrian traffic will not be interrupted in the tubes.

The tunnels will be closed until Thursday morning while repairs are made to car tracks in Second avenue.

SECRET MOVE TO CHANGE LIVELY BALL

THOUGH THE PRESIDENT of the American League, Ernest S. Barnard, was forced to ditch his proposal for the screening of short stands at major league ball parks in order to put a stop to the home run burlesque, just as Barney Dreyfuss was unable to fund enough real baseball men in the big loop to carry his zoning idea, it is said that the magnates did not remain as inactive on the joke-homer matter as they tried to lead fandom to believe. According to rumor, steps have been taken to deaden the ball and there will be less rabbit in it next year.

E. S. Barnard

Rather than admit that a mistake had been made in the first place in allowing the ball to become so lively as to produce entirely too much slugging, the club owners let it be understood that they had found the pellet satisfactory. Then, it is reported, they proceeded quietly with arrangements to have the ball made less lively for next year, planning by that course to reduce the home-run output and keep the scores from sounding like basketball figures, without letting the public know of the change in the construction of the pill.

THE TRUTH OF the rumor is said to have been vouched for in New York by one of the men who took part in the debate at the joint meeting of the National and American Leagues last Thursday. As the story goes, it took some time for the practical baseball men to convince club owners who know little about the inside of the game that the lively ball had cheapened hitting, killed fine strategy and hurt the sport in general, but they finally carried their point.

According to Frank Graham, who has been investigating, just what will be done to the ball will not be known until the manufacturers get through tinkering with it. One possibility is that the cover will be thicker, the glue eliminated and the stitching not so tight. Another is that a different kind of yarn will be used, or if the present kind is retained, that it will be wound more loosely. In any event, there is a happy prospect that some of the bounce will be taken out of the official apple before the 1921 pennant races get started.

LLOYD YODER, former all-America tackle at Carnegie Tech, who, since his graduation, has been located on the Pacific Coast with the National Broadcasting Company, will extend his football officiating to big-time games next season, according to word received by Graduate Manager Clarence Overend.

Lloyd Yoder

Yoder is connected with the publicity department of the broadcasting company, and helped with the broadcast of the Notre Dame-Southern California game. He announced one quarter, and was on the air between halves and after the contest.

PACIFIC COAST CONFERENCE games to which Yoder has been assigned as an official next season follow: October 10, Washington-Oregon, linesman; October 31, Stanford-U. C. L. A., umpire; November 14, California-Idaho, field judge, and November 21, Idaho-U. C. L. A., umpire. Yoder also will work the Olympic Club-St. Mary game and a number of non-conference contests. The officiating he has already done in smaller games has stamped him as an uncommonly capable man, and coast critics are predicting that he will win recognition next fall as one of the best officials in the Far West.

Occasionally you hear the opinion expressed in Pittsburgh and elsewhere that boxing conditions could be improved by doing away with the judges system of determining bout winners and putting the whole thing in the hands of the referee. Cleveland is one glove center that will not go along with that theory. And Cleveland speaks as a city that has tried it; one that is still trying it, in fact.

Fans and critics are clamoring for the Cleveland Boxing Commission to drop the one-man idea and adopt the judges system. They are protesting more vigorously than ever since Patsy Haley aroused their ire again last week by giving a weird verdict in favor of Eddie Shea over Fidel La Barba. Decisions in two less important bouts also were questioned. In urging a change, it is being pointed out that an honest referee can make a mistake and is more likely to do so than two judges and a referee would be, and that whereas a dishonest referee can play ball with managers, gamblers or friends, the chances of fixing two judges and a referee are slim in comparison.

ANOTHER VETERAN CATCHER whom the Pittsburgh club might have been willing to take on to fill the vacancy in the local backstopping department was kept beyond the reach of the Pirate management because it was impossible to get him through the waiver gauntlet in the American League.

Muddy Ruel

Several American League clubs put in claims for Muddy Ruel when Washington asked waivers on him, but the Boston Red Sox, having finished in last place in 1930, had first right to his services under the rules, so the Senators have sold him to the Hubites for a cash consideration.

RUEL HAS BEEN one of the iron men of the big leagues as well as one of the smartest catchers. He took part in more than 100 games for eight consecutive years from 1921 to 1928, inclusive. In two successive world series against the Giants and Pirates in 1924 and 1925, both of which went the limit of seven games, he caught in every one of the 14 contests, missing only part of the sixth game against the Pirates, when Hank Severeid started. Muddy, who will be 35 next February, has caught for four clubs in the American League, the Browns, Yankees, Red Sox and Senators. This will be his second engagement with the Boston club.

After short tryouts with the Browns in 1915 and 916, Ruel went to Memphis, coming up to the Yankees in 1918. Following the 1920 season, the Yankees traded him to the Red Sox with Pratt, Vick and Thormahlen for Hoyt, Schang, McNally and Harper. Early in 1923 he was traded again, Boston sending him to Washington with Allan Russell for Picinich and Shanks. He has remained with the Senators ever since.

The success of Roy Spencer, former Pirate catcher, who was in 93 games for Washington last season, led to the dropping of Ruel. Spencer is to be first catcher for the Senators, aided by Bill Hargrave, former Tiger. Ruel is the second veteran receiver forced off the Washington roster by Spencer, Bennett Tate having been released to the White Sox during the 1930 season.

FORMER PIRATE STARS TO JOIN TEAM TONIGHT

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Roger Smith, defense man, and Tex White, right wing, have been purchased by the Yellow Jackets from the Philadelphia Quakers, of the National League, Roy D. Schooley, president and manager of the local ice team, announced today.

The deal was put through last night, and Smith and White will

WELL KNOWN HERE

Neither Smith nor White needs any introduction to local fans. They first achieved fame as puckmen as members of Pittsburgh's several-time national amateur champion Yellow Jackets of several seasons ago. They became National League Pirates when a franchise in hockey's major league was obtained for this city five years ago, and continued to perform here until this season, when the local National League franchise and players were transferred to Philadelphia.

Gordy Fraser, another former Pirate defense man, was purchased from the Philadelphia club about three weeks ago. His work against International League foemen has been little short of sensational, and Schooley is confident that Roger and Tex also will go over big in their new setting.

FRASER CRIPPLED

Fraser sustained a broken hand in the Detroit game last Sunday, and will be out of the lineup for at least a week. Smith will take up his duties at left defense.

In Capt. Gregg the Jackets already have an exceptionally strong right wing, and it is not likely that the purchase of White will result in a change in the starting front line combination. Tex probably will succeed McIntyre as right wing on the first reserve line.

The acquisition of the two former Pirates just about concludes Schooley's long and fruitful search for additional experienced talent, and leaves the Jackets without a weakness. With Smith available to relieve Fraser and Leo Reise on hand to relieve Berlett the defense is "set." Another experienced right wing long has been the only front line need.

WAYNESBURG WINS, 28-15

EMMITSBURG, Md., Dec. 16.—Mount St. Mary's College opened its basketball season last night by dropping the initial game to Waynesburg College, 28 to 15.

The Mountaineers managed to hold their own in the first half, which closed 11 to 10 in the Pennsylvanians' favor. Following the rest period, however, the visitors came back strong and displayed a much better brand of team and foot work around the basket for repeated goals.

Only two lettermen were in the Mountaineers' lineup, and these—Connell and Ryscavage—put up a good game. For Waynesburg, Curri and Janesik occupied the spotlight, the former scoring seven points and the latter eight. The lineup:

Waynesburg—28		St. Mary—15.
Avery	F	Chanowski
Curri	F	Bonner
Donley	C	Edeln
Patsch	G	Connell
Mancuso	G	Ryscavage

Substitutes—Waynesburg, Janesk, O'Connell; Mt. St. Mary's, Gray, Aulback, Harty, Duey, Verden. Field goals—Avery, Curri 3, O'Connell, Donley, Janesik 4, Mancuso, Bonner, Connell, Ryscavage 3. Fouls—Waynesburg 6, Mt. St. Mary's 5. Referee—Shryock.

ST. VINCENTS BEATEN

INDIANA, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Indiana Teachers' College defeated St. Vincent's College, 24 to 18, here last night in the first college game of the basketball season for both schools. The scoring was evenly divided among the players, with no outstanding stars on the floor.

PURDUE BEATS IRISH

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Big Ten hasn't been able to accomplish anything against Notre Dame in football recently, but the Conference is away to a good start against the Irish in basketball. Purdue, winner of the 1929-30 Big Ten title, accounted for the league's second triumph of the season over Notre Dame last night at Lafayette, 34 to 22. Last week Northwestern trounced the Irish, 44 to 29.

KY. WESLEYAN QUITS GRID

WINCHESTER, Ky., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Kentucky Wesleyan College has dropped football as an intercollegiate sport, giving as reasons it is too costly and "tends to create in the college an atmosphere not in harmony with the higher ideals of scholarship and character."

The change of athletic policy was announced yesterday by Dr. C. M. Dannelly, president. He said the action had the unanimous recommendation of the faculty, and had been voted by the board of managers. Dr. Dannelly said Walter Van Winkle will be retained as coach of the basketball team and other sports which the school will continue to play in intercollegiate competition. He said a program of required physical education for all students will be inaugurated.

The action of the board of managers was taken secretly last week. In the meantime Gordon Betts, Watkin G. A., N. Y., was elected captain of the 1931 football team, and Van Winkle was re-elected head coach for the fourth year.

Dr. Dannelly said football has "proved too costly, it has become a sport for entertainment of the public, rather than for development of students or for promotion of so-called 'college spirit;' it prevents this college from giving proper attention to physical training of all of its students and tends to create in the college an atmosphere not in harmony with the higher ideals of scholarship and character."

Kentucky Wesleyan won two games during the 1930 football season, lost four and tied three. The school is a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association. One of its losses this year was a 47-to-2 defeat by Army at West Point.

ROPER BIDS FAREWELL

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Football players, undergraduates, alumni and coaches bade farewell to William W. Roper, '02, retiring head coach of Princeton football, at the annual football banquet last night. Roper received two gifts, one an electric clock from the University Athletic Association, and the other a silver punch bowl from undergraduates.

WILLIAMS BEATS LEONE

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Stanley Williams, 126, Martins Ferry, O., easily gained the decision in 10 rounds over Tony Leone, 126½, Dover, O., here last night. Jackie Herman, 149, Wheeling, was outpointed in six rounds by Jimmy McGraw, 147, Yorkville, O. Bobby Brinkman, 144, Wheeling, bowed in six rounds to Freddie Boylestein, 144½, Kittanning, Pa. Pete Patch, 130, Benwood, defeated Jimmy McMahon, 130, Kittanning, Pa., in six rounds.

BUCS' OUTFIELD LOOKS GOOD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate officials expect to enter the next campaign with the best outfield in the National League; perhaps the greatest in baseball.

Manager Jewel Ens has no less than seven fascinating ball hawks, but the beauty of the situation lies in the make-up of the regular pasture patrol. Jewel feels he has three outfielders who are able to go it alone in the Waner boys and Adam Comorosky.

Adam Comorosky

Four rookies of exceptional radiance seem to be destined for bench duty or farm relief. The four young men, Jimmy Mosolf, Forrest Jensen, Augustin Dugas and Peter McClanahan form a group of highly promising boys.

Mosolf, a graduate of Wichita, was a member of the Buccaneer band of last season; Jensen and Dugas, two more Wichita marvels, were standouts in the Western League as their team rode to a pennant. Jensen led the league in batting and Dugas was not far behind him. The latter played some games with the Buccos near the close of the season and was pleasing in his actions.

McClanahan was purchased from the Shreveport club of the Texas League, where he batted and fielded like a star. He is the only righthand batter of the utility clan.

The four rookies combine a lot of class. Two of the three southpaw hitters throw with their left hands; Jensen and Dugas are in the same class as Paul Waner—they do it all the southpaw way. Mosolf, like Lloyd Waner, flings righthanded.

The fans already know a lot about Paul and Lloyd and Comorosky. The brothers and the Polish flyer not only round out a combination possessing speed, hard hitting and fielding ability—each member of the trio owns every asset mentioned in generous proportions.

In good health, Brother Lloyd has no superiors in centerfield play, and he is a teamwork bulwark. This contention was forcibly proved last season; with the little fellow in action the Buccos were a bastly different club compared with the team that played without him over a long stretch of games.

P. Waner is a good outfielder, and last year he developed into a fine baserunner. Paul's batting needs no propaganda.

O'Brien Denies Floor League Will Disband

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—John O'Brien, president of the American Professional Basketball League, today denied reports that a move was under way to disband the league.

The report was circulated here when it was announced that the Chicago Bruins, a member of the professional basketball circuit, either will withdraw from the league or be sold to other interests.

"We have applications from Dayton, O., and from Utica-Mohawk, N. Y., for admission to the league, but there will be no immediate action," O'Brien stated.

20 PANTHERS ARE AWARDED LETTERS

By JESS CARVER.

Things are looking up for the journalists. Eddie Hirshberg, of McKeesport, a junior in the school of journalism at the University of Pittsburgh, has been appointed captain of the Pitt football team for 1931. Now, if the young man becomes famous, which he has a rousing chance to do, he won't need a ghost writer.

Hirshberg's appointment was announced by Coach Jock Sutherland at the football dinner tendered the varsity squad by the athletic council at the P. A. A. last night. Eddie succeeds another lad with the same first name, Eddie Baker, who played quarterback and captained this year's Panther eleven. The new leader plays an end, prepped at McKeesport High School and played freshman ball at Ohio State before transferring to Pitt. He is an excellent student and very popular with team and classmates alike.

WAGNER SPEAKER

C. D. Wettach, chairman of the athletic council, presided at last night's affair as toastmaster. He was introduced by Norman MacLeod, prominent member of the Pitt alumni. The speakers included Dr. Rube Wagner, famous Pitt end of 1912, '13 and '14; Robert C. Clotheir, dean of men, who pinch-hit for Chancellor Bowman; Retiring Capt. Eddie Baker, Coach Sutherland and the captain-elect.

Twenty members of the varsity squad and Student Manager Walt Kearney were awarded varsity letters. The list included Capt. Baker, Ernie Lewis, Franklin Hood, Eddie Schultz, Jack Kelly, Harry (Bucky) Wagner, Charley Tully, Josh Williams, Whitey Walinchus and Al Ciper, all of whom graduate, and Jimmy Clark, Ted Daily, Warren Heller, Joe Tormey, Jess Quatse, Mike Milligan, Ralph Daugherty, Hart Morris and Hirshberg.

SUTHERLAND HOPEFUL

Coach Sutherland, who a year ago, in pre-viewing the 1930 season, predicted his team would lose two and possibly three games, refused to make any claims for 1931, except to say that he thought, and hoped, that the boys would do quite well.

Last night's dinner was more or less a closed affair, with the annual public banquet to be put on at a later date. Each member of the squad and the guests were presented a framed group picture of the varsity squad and the coaching staff.

The Tipoff

I got into somewhat of an argument with the great Harry Robb, former Penn State gridiron luminary, at the officials' banquet the other evening. We were talking about this year's Notre Dame football team (maybe you've heard of it), and I said I thought it was the greatest college team, or for that matter, the greatest football team of and description I had ever seen.

"What the heck are you talking about," the great Robb cracked back. "You saw that Canton Bulldog team of ours, didn't you?"

"Yes, Harry," I meekly answered, "but that was a pro team and this is a college club. There is a difference."

"Difference your hat!" Harry answered, throwing aside his knife and fork and turning in his chair to give me the full benefit of a scowl. "That ball club of ours would have beaten Notre Dame any day in the week. We had the greatest line ever, and what is more, we practiced as often and as long, every day, as any college team."

I'm jotting down the lineup of that Canton team, with the approximate weights and the schools from which the boys graduated. Here they are:

Carroll, Wash-Jeff, 185 pounds, and Chamberlain, Nebraska, 210, ends; Lyman, Nebraska, 210 pounds, and Henry, Wash-Jeff, 250, tackles; Taylor, Ohio State, 195 pounds, and Osborne, Penn State, 190, guards; Conover, Penn State, 200 pounds, center.

Robb, Penn State, 185, quarterback; Griggs, Texas, 185 pounds, and Jones, Grove City, 205 pounds, halfbacks, and Doc Elliott, Lafayette, 210 pounds, fullback.

"I'm telling you, Jessie my boy," Robb continued, "that line would stop any attack, and with Doc Elliott backing it up, my oh my, what a club. Doc was the best defensive fullback I ever saw, and say, you know I didn't miss many tackles from back at that safety position."

Well, Robb knows more football than I'll ever know (Ah, he admits it) but I still think Notre Dame would shake Marchy Schwartz loose plenty and that he'd outrun that secondary defense. With Savoldi in there, that line would have its mitts full all afternoon. Any afternoon.

In closing, Robb guffawed: "Har, har, what Osborn and Conover would have done to this kid Metzger would have been murder. They'd have pushed him all over the ball field. The S. P. C. F. P. (Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Football Players) would have to have been called out."

Greasy Neale Quits Clarksburg Club

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Charles Clark, of the Clarksburg team of the Middle Atlantic League, has announced that A. Earle (Greasy) Neale, who was recently appointed football coach at West Virginia University, would not return here next summer. Field work planned for the summer by H. A. Stansbury, university athletic director, will prevent his return. The local club is listing applications for a new manager.

RED SOX LEAVE FER. 19

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Shano Collins, newly-appointed manager of the Boston Red Sox, will lead his first squad of players to the training camp at Pensacola, Fla., on February 19. This vanguard will include all of the pitchers and catchers and recruits. The veterans will not report until March.

ORIOLES GET PHILS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Tripp Sigman, outfielder, and Harry Smythe, pitcher, have been released outright by the Philadelphia Nationals to the Baltimore International League Club.

WILLIAMS CAPTAIN

Louis Williams has been elected captain of the Trinity Cathedral Royals, succeeding Irwin Fassinger, who has been dropped from the team. Regis Price was named second captain. The Royals' squad has undergone a number of changes and hopes to continue on its way to a fine season's record.

ALUMNI BOOKED

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.—The Waynesburg College basketball team will open its home season on January 1, when an alumni quintet is met here.

LOCAL GOLFERS QUALIFY

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 16.—Two Pittsburgh golfers qualified in the annual season members' tournament of the Pinehurst Country Club here yesterday, Halbert J. Blue, with 42-38—80, and R. G. Morrison with 47-41—88, were the players. Lawrence Barr, of Pittsburgh, made the third division with 53-53—106.

LAUGHLIN HONORED

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 16.—Hughart R. Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, was one of the Princeton soccer players to receive his letter yesterday. More than 50 received awards.

CHRISTNER STOPS PANKA IN SIXTH ROUND

YOUNG HEAVY NO MATCH FOR VET

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

What may prove to be the swan song in the ring of George Panka, once-promising young heavyweight boxer, of Homestead, was sung last night when he suffered his second straight knockout defeat in the main bout of the benefit show in Motor Square Gardens for the relief of the city's unemployed.

Thirty-seven-year-old Meyer (K. O.) Christner, of Akron, with a bald spot on his head and a roll of fat about his waist, turned the trick. Panka is only 21. The finish came after 1 minute 44 seconds of the sixth round from a series of short, chugging uppercuts to the chin in close near Christner's corner. Panka falling back out of the exchange to take the count writhing on the floor, much after the fashion in which he took the count in his last previous bout, with Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, in the same ring. Up to the Rocco bout he never had been stopped and had been going along in fine style.

ONE-SIDED BOUT

It was a one-sided battle all of the way last night. Christner brought into play all of his experience to all but crowd his younger foe out of the ring as he forced him from rope to rope and punched away at both long and short range, never giving Panka a chance to set himself to either lead or counter. George stepped about well enough, but couldn't get his arms and fists to function and made so little effort to fight that the crowd got on him early.

Finally, in the third round, Panka uncorked one good punch, a right to the jaw that shook up Christner, but the veteran, who has met all of the leading heavies, fought him right back off his feet and bluffed him out of his temporary advantage. Shortly after this, Christner began to bleed from the nose, and this flow kept up to the end of the bout, but it did not slow down his fighting.

In the sixth round, Panka for the first time tried to meet Christner at his own game, crowding and mixing, and it brought about his Waterloo. Evidently this was just what Chris wanted him to do, for the latter simply reached out with his left glove and drew Panka into him as he retreated to the ropes, meanwhile shooting up that series of uppercuts. He kept Panka's head bobbing back until George finally quit his fighting and toppled backward out of the half-clinch for the count.

Christner weighed 199 pounds and Panka 192 at 3 p. m.

YAROSZ BEATS RUDY

Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, 146, continued his unbroken winning streak at the expense of Young Rudy, of Charleroi, 147, in the eight-round semi-final, but Rudy, whom he had beaten twice before in 10-round battles, gave him the hardest and closest fight he has had in months. Judge Frank Ferris called the bout a draw, and Judge Frank Brown and Referee Red Robinson voted for Yarosz, who scaled 146 against 147 for Rudy.

Jimmy Thomas, Negro, of the Hill, 119½, turned in an upset of the dope when he defeated Mickey Cohen, of Cleveland, 120¼, in the second bout of six rounds, setting the pace almost all of the way after the opening round. Cohen did not box at his best, but this should not detract from the fine winning battle waged by Thomas in the role of the underdog. The decision was unanimous.

Sammy O'Dell, Negro, of Akron, technically knocked out tough Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in 25 seconds of the fourth round of the opener, flooring him for a count of six with the first punch of the round, a beautiful right cross to the jaw. As Smackey arose, a similar blow sent him down again and he tried to get up at the count of one, but reeled back weakly and the count was continued until his seconds tossed in the towel to save him. Smackey also was down for no count from a right in the second round and was outboxed and outfought all of the way. It was a return bout, O'Dell having won a decision in their first meeting, a semi-final at the Meyers Boxl last summer. Both weighed 139½ pounds for last night's fight.

OFFICIALS DONATE SERVICES

The turnout was fair, considering the cold weather, and a check for $546.46, representing the net proceeds, was turned over this afternoon to John Herron, president of City Council, to be presented to the Helping Hand Association. All of the boxing commission officials and the policemen and firemen donated their service, along with the Motor Square Band, while the club gave up its share. Four referees worked, Al Grayber in the main bout, Red Robinson in the semi-final, Joe Keally in the second bout and Eddie Kennedy in the opener. A. C. Couch and Norman Borland were the timers and Harry Klaas did the announcing.

The next regular show at the Garden will be on Christmas afternoon, with Buck McTiernan and Vince Dundee boxing the main bout. Christner, as a result of his victory last night, may box Al Fay, Jack Kearns' young heavyweight, of Charleroi, in the main bout of the New Year's matinee show.

DUNDEE STOPS GOLDEN

Long's Sport Comment

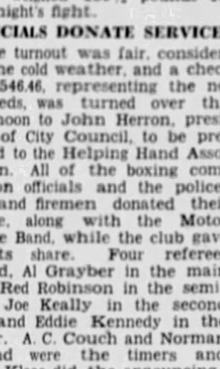
Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech, made a trip from Atlanta to Los Angeles by airplane, it is said that Rockne plans withdrawal from the quartet to do a solo turn at all-America picking, independent of Pop Warner, Tad Jones and Alexander, his present associates.

A coast critic observes that he might as well, inasmuch as there are more all-America players in South Bend annually than in any other part of the country. On that point Pop Warner airs his views in this wise: "Southern California gets the best material on the coast, but Notre Dame gets the best material in the United States." Far be it from Warner to admit that the gridiron results obtained at either school might possibly be due, at least in part, to superior coaching.



Eddie Hirshberg

The APPOINTMENT OF Eddie Hirshberg, McKeesport boy, by Coach Jock Sutherland as captain of the University of Pittsburgh football team for 1931, was rather surprising in view of the fact that Eddie had not been mentioned among the possibilities in the advance rumors, but it is none the less a popular choice. Hirshberg is well qualified for the post, possessing leadership qualities as well as rare native playing ability, though his opportunities to display the same have been limited, and there is no harder worker on the squad. In addition he is a top-grade student with a high scholastic standing. Hirshberg is a player of the type that does better when he has added responsibility to shoulder, and in exerting himself, as the holder of the captaincy, toward setting a fighting example for his mates, he is likely to rise to greater playing heights than he ever before attained. The Panther leadership is in good hands. Hirshberg, who plays end, is the seventh wingman to captain the Pitt eleven. The other terminal players to lead the Panthers were Homer Roe in 1909, Jack Lindsey in 1911, Hube Wagner in 1913, Cliff Carlson in 1917, Lloyd Jordan in 1923 and Blair McMillin in 1926. Carnegie Tech is now the only local college team that has yet to have its captain for next year named, Duquesne having preceded Pitt by electing Mike Ferrare, of Erie.

COLLEGEVILLE, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The resignation of Ronald C. Kichline as grid coach at Ursinus College has been announced. He may be persuaded to remain.

Panka's Purse Withheld After Bout

The purse of George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, was held up following his bout with K. O. Christner at Motor Square Garden last night, pending a hearing before Commissioner Havey J. Boyle, it was revealed today.

Panka's check called for $919.83. Following the bout, his manager, Bunny Buntach, assailed Referee Al Grayber for what he termed unfair discrimination against his man in the closing stages of the bout, contending Grayber should have prevented Christner from holding Panka about the head while he was delivering the uppercuts that terminated the battle.

As a result of this outburst, Commissioner Boyle ordered the club to send Panka's check to headquarters and notified Buntach and Panka to appear for a hearing. Christner received his full purse, $936.87.

It was announced that the net receipts after the boxing commission's 5 per cent state tax had been taken out were $3,679.35. All of the boxers on the card were paid for their services. With all expenses deducted, including erection of the ring and the placing of seats, $546.46 remained for charity. This will be given to the Helping Hand Association, which has been caring for the needy in its Water street building.

GRIDDERS DINE TONIGHT

South and Carrick High School's football squads will be honor guests at testimonial gridiron banquets tonight. The South Side Business Men's Association is sponsoring the banquet for the South eleven, which made a game bid for the City League grid title this fall.

Tomorrow, two championship elevens will be honored. At 1 p. m., at a student assembly, the Westinghouse High squad, which won the City League title, will be presented with letters and gold footballs, the latter a gift from the student body.

Dr. H. B. Burns, director of the physical education department, will be the speaker.

FETE FOR CHAMPIONS

In the evening, at 6:15 Monessen High's grid team will be tendered a banquet in the Junior High School cafeteria. Monessen captured the W. P. I. A. L. title last Saturday by defeating Redstone Township High on College Field, Washington, Pa., by a 12-to-6 score.

Charles H. Williams, superintendent of the American Steel and Wire Company, chairman; Thomas Preston, toastmaster; Jock Sutherland, coach University of Pittsburgh; Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; Jacob Elpern, of Greensburg, donor of the Westmoreland County trophy; Samuel Fausold, superintendent of Monessen schools; Coach Preston Ditty, of the W. P. I. A. L. champions, and Capt. Kenneth Cotton, will be the speakers. Twenty-three players will be awarded letters.

FOOTBALLS FOR SOUTH

Music and entertainment will round out the South High program, which includes addresses by Dr. James P. Kerr, John C. Grau, George J. Kambach, Alumni President R. Rhody Brenlove, Principal J. M. McLaughlin, Postmaster William D. Levis, of Beaver Falls, and Coach Grover Washabaugh.

Letters and silver-engraved football trophies will be presented to the coach and members of the South team. The alumni committee in charge of the affair includes: Paul J. Bleichner, chairman; Frank Holland, J. William Jordon, Morris Finkel, Bert D. Winters, John P. Grace, Dr. W. A. Gregory, R. Rhody Brenlove, Fred J. Breitweiser, Johnny Jones, Walter S. Gross, George J. Lacher and Walter Weber.

HUNT FOULS FAY

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Al Fay, Pittsburgh, won on a foul from Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., in the final round of their scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout here last night. It was the first fight Hunt ever lost on a foul.

McBRIDE INDOOR PRO

Tully, Pitt Tackle, To Play On North Team

Charley Tully, star tackle on this year's University of Pittsburgh varsity football eleven, will leave tomorrow night for New York, where he will join the squad of college players from northern institutions which is to meet a team of all-Southern stars in a charity football game December 27.

Tully has been a member of the varsity squad at Pitt for the past three seasons, playing a tackle position. John Karcis, fullback at Carnegie Tech, and Pete Flanagan, Tartan end, also will be members of the Northern team.

Dutch Eyth, Tech halfback, has accepted an invitation from Les Gage, of College Humor, to join a team of college baseball stars in a tour of Cuba and the West Indies. Eyth will join the party in Philadelphia Saturday, and will return January 5.

CHARITY SHOW CARDED

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.—The Drum and Bugle Corps of the Robert G. Kotouch Post of the American Legion of Greensburg will sponsor an amateur boxing show at the Coliseum rink here next month, the net proceeds of which will be given to charity.

O'KELLY GETS VERDICT

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Though he apparently outpointed Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, in nine of the 10 rounds, Al Friedman, Boston Jewish battler, lost the decision here last night when the two judges overruled Referee Johnny Martin.

AMATEURS BOX FOR NEEDY TONIGHT

Homestead tonight does its bit in a boxing way to aid the needy of the district for the second time in a little more than a month, when an amateur ring and vaudeville show will be staged in Turner Hall. As an added attraction, George Panka, professional heavyweight boxer, of Homestead, is carded to appear in a four-round exhibition.

Johnny Deuch vs. Johnny Shepler, Frankie Deal vs. Leo Moon, Walter Lease vs. Walter Conway, Donny Nuss vs. Young Zeno, Al Vangora vs. Pat Powers, John King vs. Abe Veland, Steve Smith vs. John Busch, Lou Falce vs. Kid Demattleo and George Pirrung vs. John Ochs. The first-named in each bout represents the H. T. Little Club, of Homestead. Their opponents hail from the Hogan A. C., Willow Club and Schwartz A. C.

Senator C. J. McBride, father of the state boxing law, will be one of the judges of the bouts, with Police Capt. Cup Jenkins, and Councilman Bud Conroy also acting in this capacity. Mike McDermott will serve as announcer, Hugh Manson as referee and Dutch Mortimer as timer.

Larry Kaufman, of McKeesport, boxes Arthur Neadn, of Philadelphia; Andy Tomsky, of Turtle Creek, takes on Johnny Wagner, of Clairton, and Teddy Wenk, of McKeesport, tangles with Eddie Nelson, of Pittsburgh, in three eight-round bouts featuring a show for the needy at Johnstown tonight.

Other shows listed tonight include: Primo Carnera vs. Reggie Meen, London; Ted Sandwina vs. Stanley Poreda, George Hagenti vs. Eddie Prince, Jack Portney vs. Hubert Gills and Phil Rafferty vs. Jack Schwester, St. Nicholas Arena, New York; Baby Joe Gans vs. Andy Di Vogi, Los Angeles; Pete Scalzo vs. Sam De Vito, Scranton, Pa.; Charley Boyette vs. Charley Miller, Georgia Fletcher vs. Johnny Cocarelli and Vic Burrudge vs. Charley Charnski, Armory Club, New York; Phil Stark vs. Jackie Chasin and Nat Rosen vs. Lew Fields, Brooklyn; Paulie Walker vs. Indian Jimmy Rivers, Fresno, Cal., and Del Fontaine vs. Johnny Wagner, and Red Holloway vs. Frankie Hughes, Indianapolis.

Joe Orsini, former amateur mitt star, as well as football player, of Clairton, will return to the ring after a layoff to box Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, in the opening bout on the Mosse Temple card, downtown, Friday night. Portland stopped Irving Rodgers, brother of Jackie, in his last time out. Orsini now is attending California Teachers' College and will train in California, Pa., for the bout. Terry Waner, of the North Side, and Sammy Paris, of the Hill, will box the second bout. Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, and Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, are in the windup, and Frank Novak, of the North Side, and Dan (McGraw) Gallagher, of the West End, clash again in the semi-final.

A hitch over weight is holding up the definite closing of the Buck McTiernan-Vince Dundee bout for Motor Square Garden, Christmas afternoon. Max Waxman, manager of Dundee, wants the weight set at 158 pounds, give or take a pound, at 10 a. m., while Bunny Buntach, manager of McTiernan, doesn't want any higher than 155. Matchmaker Jules Beck hopes to be able to bring the managers together on a compromise.

Fourteen four-round bouts make up a benefit card to be staged at San Francisco Friday night. In the feature events, Earl Mastro boxes Lee Domingo, Andy Di Vodi engages Doc Mannion, Speedy Dado tangles with Kid Martians, George Courtney takes on Johnny Burns and Frankie Klick is paired with Santiago Zorilla.

Charley Jones, of Louisville, and formerly of McKeesport, wants to show his Charley Baxter here as soon as possible, preferably against Battling Gilgo Baxter, who meets Carl Emerick, of Terre Haute, in the main bout of a show for a Christmas basket fund at Dayton, O., next Monday night, has lost only one fight out of 51 and that on a foul in Wheeling. He has scored 35 knockouts and is a classy bit of fighting machinery.

Rocco Scores Easy Victory Over Wine

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 16.—Frankie Wine, Butte, Mont., heavyweight, was nothing more than a punching bag for Emmett Rocco, hard-hitting Ellwood City heavy, and Rocco grabbed off the decision at the end of the 10 rounds here last night. Rocco won every round as he pleased.

LLOYD M'INTYRE

M'INTYRE ICE SURPRISE

When opportunity comes their way many gentlemen grasp it with either one or both hands, but Lloyd McIntyre has something on these orthodox opportunists in that he can get a strangle hold on opportunity with a hockey stick.

About two weeks ago McIntyre was a spare on the local Yellow Jacket hockey team, and as a spare he stood so far in the rear that he seldom had a chance to quit his bench warming and get into action.

Then Charles LaRoche, right wing on the first reserve line, was given an increase in pay. Charley found the "raise" so much to his liking that he demanded another. Roy D. Schooley, president and manager of the local club, answered LaRoche's demand with two demands. The first was that he be reasonable, and the second was that he turn in his equipment and go home.

After Charles had departed for the Far North, Schooley started checking up on his remaining right wings—and was shocked to find that he didn't have a sub for LaRoche who looked at all dependable. McIntyre appeared to be the least shaky of an uncertain duo, and he was given the call.

McIntyre signalized his debut as a member of the first reserve line by slamming home a goal. Since that time he has participated in combination plays that resulted in scores with great regularity—with such regularity, in fact, that TODAY HE LEADS THE JACKETS IN THE INDIVIDUAL SCORING RACE. A glance at the scoring records reveals that Lloyd is credited with six points, one more than Whitey Fields, who is second in line, and two more than Proudlock, McCurry, Halliday, Gregg and McGuire, who have four each.

Eastern Stars Head for Coast

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—Twenty-two Eastern and Big Ten university football stars, under the direction of Coaches Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, will leave tonight for San Francisco to meet Far Western stars in the annual shrine hospital benefit game December 27.

Twelve of the athletes are from the East, with the Big Ten supplying 10. A practice session and issuing of equipment was scheduled for Dyche Stadium at Northwestern this afternoon. The contest will be the sixth of the series in which the Far West has triumphed three times. The Eastern delegation won its victories in 1928 and 1929.

STATE MAY GET BASEBALL ON SUNDAYS

By HAROLD E. MYERS.
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—(INS.)—Will fans of the diamond witness professional Sunday baseball next season?

State Senator Lanning Harvey, of Wilkes-Barre, will introduce to the forthcoming session of the Legislature, a measure repealing the Blue Laws of 1794, and will advance a "home rule" on a tentative Sunday sports program.

Professional major and minor league baseball may be played on Sunday next season, but of course, it is problematical and depends largely upon Senator Harvey's successfully piloting the measure through the House and Senate.

LONG CONTROVERSY

For several years this subject has been a controversial topic throughout Pennsylvania. It has been discussed in and out of court and many fines have been paid for illegally playing of ball on the Sabbath.

Senator Harvey's bill would have plenty of followers, and most assuredly will bring Philadelphia legislators into the fold, because the Quaker city delegates to the legislature have pledged to a sport program, following the agitation there last season.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny County members will be interested in the measure, while practically every legislator from the anthracite region is expected to move along with Senator Harvey's bill.

MAY BE PASSED

Optimistically speaking, the measure stands a healthy chance of being given the official "OK" if it reaches the desk of Gov. Pinchot. However, the "tall forester's" attitude toward the proposed measure has not been indicated. If the bill is vetoed, it probably would be impossible to muster enough strength to pass it over the Governor's head, because of the voting strength in the agricultural district, which is always set for a strict observance of the Sabbath.

However, the path of the bill will not be strewn with roses, for it will be opposed by the Ministerial Association of Pennsylvania. The association has consistently resisted any new measures or amendments designed to liberalize the Blue Laws.

It is understood the proposed measure will not provide for a wide-open Sunday, nor will it demand as close observance as that now existing. The "home rule" feature of the measure will allow municipalities to accept a vote of the people on the bill, thus granting the towns asking a more liberal government of the day, their request.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 14.

Wiggins, of the Kansas Aggies, hoists a fellow teammate into the air near the basket and the latter receives the pass far above the heads of the Drake guards and drops the ball into the net.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules that the goal does not count, and he may call a foul on Kansas by ruling the play as having no part in the game of basketball and calling it unsportsmanlike conduct.

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Sam Greenberg

Greenberg has advanced rapidly in amateur basketball during the three years he has played on the Y. M. H. A. quintet and at the present time is one of the outstanding performers in the district.

Considerable credit for Greenberg's consistent play this season is due Meyer (Buck) Gefsky, popular coach of the Y. M. H. A. varsity and himself a former basketball player of note. Gefsky, who formerly starred for the old Coffey Club and Ameritz Club quintets, has taught Greenberg many of the fine points of the sport.

STARRED AGAINST PROS

Greenberg was one of the big factors in the defeat suffered by Pintex at the hands of the Y. M. H. A. passers. He got virtually every tipoff against Munkie Ketchel and his general all-around work was of high order.

Greenberg is not of the shooting type, but his presence in the Y. M. H. A. lineup nevertheless has made that team one of the best amateur outfits in the district.

The Pintex team will have a chance to step into undisputed possession of first place in the Allegheny County League tonight when it opposes Glassport at Columbus Temple in one of the two County League games on the card. In the other contest, the Duquesne Lafayettes will attempt to regain their winning stride at the expense of the Ellwood City Manhattans at Duquesne.

TIED FOR LEAD

In the West Penn League the South Side Falcons are the attraction of the Knickerbockers at Forresters' Hall, Lawrenceville.

BELLEVUE Y BOWS

Trinity Cathedral won handily from Bellevue Y, 32-17, in their Wagner Institutional League game on the former's court, in the most important of last night's warfare. De Salles bowed to Tarentum Elks, 37-25, in a Greater Pittsburgh League tilt.

Daro took over St. Anne, 40-23, in a Metropolitan circuit contest, while, in the Y. M. H. A. Intramural League, the Lou Littles walloped Phi Omega Theta, 20-4, and the Chesters copped from Phi Theta Delta, 22-20.

Fort Pitt tripped the Stowe Independents, 26-22; Guy Bennetts won from C. M. C., 20-16; St. Mary's Lyceum, Sharpsburg, defeated Trinity Cathedral Royals, 38-14, and the Metros beat Hilltop Y, 14-10, in independent clashes.

MIELES BEATEN

JEANNETTE, Pa., Dec. 16.—The Jeannette Felders turned back the invasion of the J. J. Mieles, of the County League, by a 26-22 score in a close, hard-fought game here last night at Delvitto Auditorium. The lineup:

Felders—26.		Mieles—22.
McCartney	F.	O'Hara
Gillespie	F.	Hoffman
Fath	C.	Twyman
Marline	G.	Delvecchio
Hervey	G.	Foley

Substitutions—Aiello, Lewis. Field goals—McCartney 2, Fath 5, Marline, Henry 2, Aiello 2, O'Hara 4, Twyman 2. Fouls—Mieles, 6 out of 8; Felders, 6 out of 12. Referee—Meyers.

Waynesburg Matmen Defeat Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The Waynesburg College wrestling team defeated Gettysburg here last night, 30 to 10. The summary:

General Motors Issue Reported Accumulated Heavily Recently.

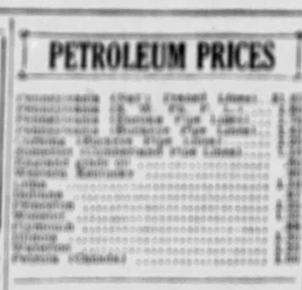
There has been evidence of a better demand in General Motors and reports circulating around the Street have been that heavy scale accumulation has been in progress in recent sessions when reactions have been general. The stock has shown more stability than many other issues. Part of the demand has been attributed to traders had been carrying a short position for a long time. General Motors this year has done better than most of its competitors. Earnings in the nine months ended September 30, last, reflecting the smaller demand, were down about 41 per cent from the 1929 period, but this compares with a drop of 79 per cent for nine other companies in that field.

Worthington Pump has been strengthening its position right along. Progress has been made in clearing up back dividends on its preferred shares. Its financial condition is strong and unfilled orders are highly satisfactory. Because of this situation, there has been comment in some quarters that the company could afford to pay a dividend on the common stock within the next 12 months or so. Interests close to the management insist that this is looking too far into the future at the moment and are not inclined to seek official comment on the matter.

Bond students report that there is a distinct similarity in the recent course of average bond prices to trend pursued in 1920. Average bond prices are less than 2 points from the low level reached last year. In 1920, when a secondary reaction in the bond market brought the average to about the same limits above the previous bottom a substantial upturn occurred subsequently. Should this precedent be repeated in the near future the influence on the stock market would be construed as favorable.

For the next few weeks much will undoubtedly be heard concerning the reinvestment of funds received by investors in the form of dividends and interest in that interval. The direction which the flow of such funds ultimately takes will provide an interesting line on the trend of thought of investors.

PETROLEUM PRICES



The remarkably favorable action of stocks yesterday considering the substantial proportions of trading and the turn for the better which followed the opening setback naturally aroused no little discussion. Some commentators expressed the belief that perhaps reinvestment funds were finding their way into stocks attracted by low levels prevailing. But others held to the view that the market was reflecting good support, scattered covering by shorts and not a little buying for a turn by speculators looking for something in the way of a rally.

Firmness in money which had been apparent in the demand loan market for several days recently, spread to time money yesterday, with a general stiffening in rates on loans for fixed maturities. Bids for 30 and 60-day loans were raised ½ of 1 per cent to a 2½-3 per cent basis, and for 90-day loans the bid was 2¼ per cent against a 2⅛ per cent market heretofore. The firmer tone was ascribed by money brokers to some improvement in demand for fixed term money accommodation. For a long period past borrowers had been inclined to ignore the time money market and provide for their requirements in the day-to-day market. Call money yesterday, however, renewed at 2½ per cent for the first time since September 16, last, indicating that the available supply of demand funds is rather light. Banks have not been anxious to put out time funds on recently ruling rates and it is indicated that it required some measure of bidding on the part of potential borrowers to procure their needs.

The profit and loss surplus of Metro-Goldwyn Pictures August 31, last, amounted to $4,989,554, against $20,582,590 a year previously. The reduction was due largely to declaration of a dividend of $25,000,000 on the common stock, all owned by Loew's. The dividend was explained as a bookkeeping transaction designed to adjust the surpluses of the two companies, as heretofore dividends declared by Loew's have been charged against Loew's surplus, although a large portion of Loew's earnings have been derived from Metro, depleting Loew's surplus without reducing the Metro surplus. The dividend is included by Metro in its separate balance sheet of August 31, last, under the item, "accounts payable to Loew's $27,009,008."

Expect Slow Recovery Next Year

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PREDICTIONS FOR 1931 almost invariably are conservative in tone but the belief is quite general that the early months of the coming year will see the start of a business recovery. Most bankers and corporation heads expect improvement to be slow. Confidence and buying power cannot be re-established over night. Progress toward a restoration of normal conditions will be slow at first but no factors are seen at present which should prolong the depression.

The closing of the Bank of the United States, rather than being regarded as a blow to confidence, is generally seen as the removal of a condition which had overhung business and the stock market for a long time. It was generally suspected that the institution was in difficulties and the possibilities of its closing its doors had kept security markets in an unsettled state for several weeks.

Now that the news is out, the last bit of doubt regarding the condition of important banks has been removed. Private advices from New York yesterday stated that there is no longer an apprehension about the position of banks, investment security houses or brokers.

Retail Sales Large

IN PITTSBURGH THE sales of retail stores have been fairly well maintained. Naturally volume is under last year but the decline has been of moderate proportions.

Conditions here have been materially helped by the employmnt policies of many of the largest industries. While the existence of a great amount of unemployment cannot be denied, it has been kept in smaller proportions than the decline in industrial production. Most companies have maintained the number of men on the payroll at a high level. Instead of laying off employes they have reduced working time. This has cut deeply into weekly earnings but has distributed the burden more evenly.

Officials of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company state that they have not discharged any married men because of curtailed demand. Reduction in employes has been confined to single men whose time of service has been short. Other companies, such as Jones & Laughlin, have put as many men on repair work and clean up jobs as possible.

Steel Output to Gain

STEEL COMPANY executives are invariably of the opinion that the first quarter of the new year will be marked by more than a normal seasonal amount of improvement in operations. They are also hopeful of maintaining prices at the newly established levels and believe that further advances may be put into effect later in the year.

While ingot production has been reduced to about 38 per cent of capacity, a marked change in this rate of output will take place after January 1, according to all expectations in the industry. Steel men point to the fact that in the past 35 years the industry has suffered from only one major depression which was of more than a year in duration.

Rubber Consumption Drops in November

November crude rubber consumption by United States manufacturers amounted to 23,479 tons, against 27,271 tons in October and 27,659 in November, 1929, the Rubber Manufacturers Association reports.

Imports in November were 31,765 tons, against 43,729 in October and 40,621 in November, 1929. Stocks November 30 totaled 189,925 tons, compared with 164,761 and 92,219, respectively.

TRADE BALANCE FAVORS U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Department of Commerce gives November merchandise exports as $289,000,000, which compare with $443,282,000 in November, 1929, and imports of $294,700,000, against $338,553,000, leaving excess of exports of $84,300,000, against excess of exports of $103,729,000 in November, 1929.

Merchandise exports for the 11 months totaled $3,568,473,000 and imports $3,853,336,000, as against $4,814,730,000 and $4,089,595,000, respectively, in the like 1929 period, leaving excess of exports of $715,137,000, against $725,135,000.

Standard of Ohio Reduces Gasoline

Standard Oil Company of Ohio has reduced gasoline throughout its territory 2 cents a gallon to 17 cents service stations and 16 cents tank wagons for "Red Crown," and 20 cents and 19 cents, respectively, for "Sohio ethyl."

OPPOSES GRAIN LIMITATION

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Peter B. Carey, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade, in a statement issued tonight, asserted that "a large volume of futures is desirable under normal conditions where there is no market manipulation by government officials."

The statement, which Mr. Carey stressed was made as an individual and not as a board official, was in reply to the report of J. W. T. Duvell, chief of the federal grain futures administration, to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, in which Duvell recommended limitation of the volume of daily transactions on grain exchanges, and of the holding of futures for speculative purposes. It was made public in Washington last night.

Carey assailed what he termed a policy of some officials to "lobby for more laws to further restrict markets, to further frighten business and to cause more thousands of hungry idle to walk the streets in blind despair."

First Mortgage Twenty Year Seven and One-Half Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds due 1942.

The plan proposed to bondholders in the Company's circular of September 22, 1930 has been modified, both as to the subordination of bonds and waiver of sinking fund, on a basis more advantageous to the bondholders than the terms originally proposed.

Unless there are sufficient additional deposits of bonds, it is not expected that the coupons which were due October 1, 1930 will be paid and the plan declared effective.

Bondholders who have not already given their consents are urged to do so promptly so that the plan may be declared effective and the October 1 interest coupons be paid in advance of December 31.

Failure to secure the necessary consents will, the Board of Directors believe, seriously jeopardize the bondholders' interests; and delay in deposit of the bonds may cause an abandonment of the Plan and compel a receivership and reorganization.

Forms of consent to be signed by the bondholders may be obtained upon request from the Company, No. 106 Wall Street, or from Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, No. 70 Broadway, New York City.

By Order of the Board of Directors,
MANUEL RIONDA, Vice President.

"Financial Secretary"
TO INDIVIDUALS AND INSTITUTIONS . . . . . .

Through an agency account or custodian account our Trust Department offers real assistance to both individuals and institutions.

In effect, you appoint us "financial secretary" to perform any designated duties in the management of your investments, business or real estate.

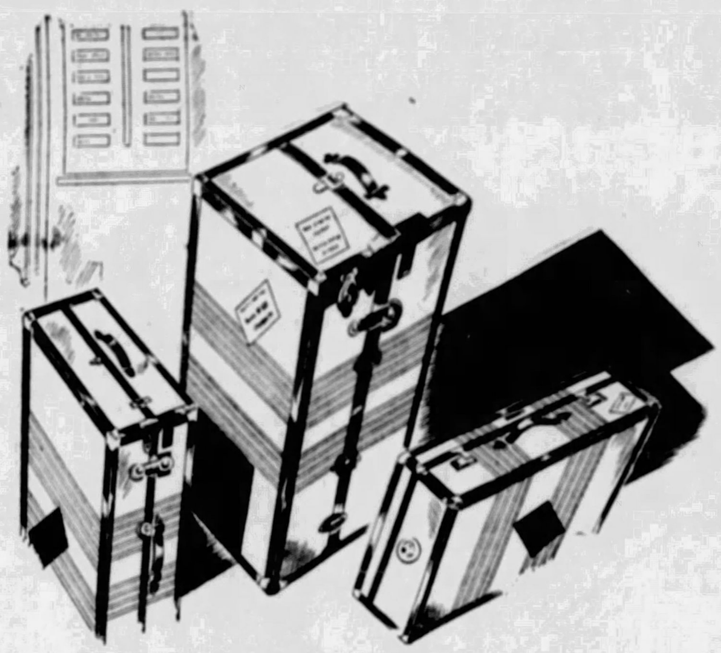
Our Trust Officers will be glad to explain the particular benefits which you may derive from this plan.

The UNION NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH



WHILE YOU ARE AWAY

Wherever you are bound for your winter vacation, you can add immeasurably to the enjoyment of the trip by leaving your financial cares in competent hands. Strolling leisurely among the palm trees of your southern retreat, or basking in the golden sunlight of some coral island, you can smile away your cares, in the realization that nothing at home requires your immediate personal attention.

You can deposit your securities safely within your own personal box in our safe deposit vault, or leave them in the care of the Bank. We will gladly collect interest, and principal when matured, and re-invest the funds collected when so instructed. Jewelry can be kept in your safe deposit box and larger articles of value in our storage vaults.

Mellon Travelers Cheques or Letters of Credit add to the pleasure of traveling, too, by providing a safe and convenient means of carrying expense money. Mellon Travelers Cheques cost you only 25 cents premium per $100. They can be cashed anywhere.

STOCKS SLIDE 2 TO 5 TO NEW LOW LEVELS

Oils and Miscellaneous Issues Soon Drag List Down; Trading Moderate

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP.)—The stock market again felt the oppressive weight of heavy commodity prices today, after showing an inclination to advance in the first hour.

Strength of pivotal industrials was soon spent, as oil and miscellaneous issues again dragged the list down, and by early afternoon many prominent issues were off 2 to 5 points to new bottom prices. Trading was in only moderate volume, diminishing substantially from the turnover of the previous session.

Copper Exporters, Inc., reduced its price ½-cent to the basis of 10½ cents a pound domestic, and some custom smelters offered the metal at 10 cents, only ½-cent above the 34-year low touched a few weeks ago.

Report that the German sugar producers had withdrawn from the conference of the Chadbourne committee in Europe were not interpreted over bearishly in local trade circles.

The market utterly ignored the increase of 5 to 10 per cent in prices quoted by American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, although in building circles this was regarded as fully as favorable an omen as the recent increase in the prices of plates, shapes and bars was regarded in the steel industry.

The monthly foreign trade figures, as expected, were not cheerful reading, although a seasonal decline was to have been expected. The November exports, totaling $289,000,000, were the smallest since July, and imports of $204,700,000, were the lowest since January of 1925.

Credit conditions were a little easier, presumably reflecting the Treasury overdraft in connection with its quarterly financing. Call money held at 2½ per cent at the loan desk, but some was available outside at 2 per cent.

TREASURY GETS $122,989,450

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Treasury has received $122,989,450 from 11 foreign governments as payment on their funded indebtedness to the United States. Of the total $30,854,052 was in payment of principal and $92,136,398 for interest. All payments were in cash.

Interest payments received yesterday were: From Belgium, $1,625,000; Esthonia, $150,000; Finland, $129,885; France, $19,325,000; Great Britain, $66,390,000; Hungary, $28,804; Italy, $1,260,625; Latvia, $50,000; Lithuania, $93,528, and Poland, $3,082,55.

Those making payments on the principal included Czechoslovakia, $1,500,000; Finland, $55,000; Great Britain, $28,000,000; Hungary, $11,755, and Poland, $1,287,297.

TRADE REPORT FOCUSSED ON UTILITIES

Holding Companies Given Attention, Especially Bond and Share Group

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The Federal Trade Commission, in its annual report, focusses attention on its investigation of public utility holding companies, especially the Electric Bond and Share group. No purpose is achieved in anticipating the ultimate outcome of the inquiry, which may be the basis for setting up better social safeguards.

Mr. Rukeyser.

Meantime, it can be said that the Electric Bond and Share group, of which Sidney Z. Mitchell has been the guiding genius, has been an enterprising pioneer in carrying the gospel of electricity to remote places, risking time and capital in long-term projects which require careful nursing. As compared with other public utility holding companies, the Electric Bond and Share group has been conservative in its bookkeeping, and investors have been inclined to believe that it was more likely to understate earnings and assets than to pad them.

Irrespective of immediate questions at issue, the Electric Bond and Share group is shrewd enough to recognize that the public will judge it chiefly by the character and price of service rendered.

ASK RATE REDUCTION

In this connection, the National Power and Light Company, one of the sub-holding companies of the group, it is understood, is negotiating for a merger, which, it is believed, will heighten operating economies. In laying out the expansion program before the directors, the management asked for authority to pass along to consumers in the form of reduced rates some of the anticipated economies.

From company sources, it was ascertained that rate reductions in companies associated with the Electric Bond and Share group in the period between June 30, 1928, and June 30, 1930, to domestic, commercial and power consumers amounted to $28,500,000.

With the purchasing power of money rising as a result of the decline of commodity prices, alert managers of public utility enterprises should build good will by voluntarily making as substantial additional cuts in rates as are feasible. There is a special obligation on the part of managers to prove that their rates to domestic users are as low as they might be.

WALL STREET INQUIRY

In preparation for his investigation of Wall street, with special reference to the use of Federal Reserve funds in speculation, which will begin after Christmas, Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who heads a Senate sub-committee, has sent out searching questionnaires.

The approaching inquiry scarcely promotes bullishness.

With the weakness in bonds running counter to economic fundamentals and being a phase of the current nervousness and the desire of banks to be ready for any calls, there is the prospect of a vigorous upturn once more in general bond prices, which may be expected to precede any lasting rally in stock prices.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Irregular price movements prevailed in the bond market today. Second grade rails and utilities showed a tendency to improve. There were some wide variations among industrials.

TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

Connie Seeks Jim's Aid to Clear Circumstances

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On the eve of her marriage to handsome Jim Tracey, vivacious Connie Calvert, rich society girl, receives a letter which causes her to leave her palatial home in Connecticut on a mysterious automobile drive to New York. Jim sees her. Connie stops at a cheap restaurant on the West Side and waits for someone. The letter threatens to expose Connie. A man approaches Connie and introduces himself as Duke Garson. He tells Connie her late father was married twice and that she has a half-sister, Kitty, living in poverty among gangsters. Connie asks to meet her. When she does, Kitty tries to blackmail her. Kitty and Garson tell Connie that they want $100,000 from her. She says she will not give it. Later Connie consents. Kitty agrees to wait for the money until after the wedding. Connie tells Kitty that she wants to be a real sister to her, inviting her to go to the Calvert home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

It was a mad suggestion, that Kitty go home with Connie immediately. But Connie's eyes were burning, and she was vibrating with a new release of emotion.

"You can just drop everything you're doing and come on home with me," Connie announced. "You haven't had a fair chance in life, and I want to see that you get it. There's no use waiting around, either. It's too important to postpone."

"There's a dozen reasons why I couldn't do that. You're talking foolishness. What would your mother say?"

The mention of her mother brought Connie up sharply. What had been in her subconscious all the time dawned with a crash. To take Kitty home and tell the whole story would be a cataclysmic shock to her mother—it would rend the whole fabric of her existence.

Thinks of Jim

At this very moment Connie was supposed to be asleep in her own bedroom at home—all of this was too bizarre to inflict upon her mother with impetuous suddenness. Kitty was right; there were reasons against this hurried, well-intentioned plan—but they could be overcome.

But the problem, immediately, was too complicated for Connie to solve alone. She needed help—wise, understanding advice.

Jim Tracy . . .

The man she was to marry came, reluctantly, into her mind. She was almost ashamed of herself that she had not thought of him sooner. It was incredible that, already, his personality had been all but obliterated by this startling revelation that had come into her life.

Conscience assailed her, and she decided instantly to reach Jim and share her problem dutifully with him.

"You're right—the situation is too difficult to solve all in a minute," she told Kitty. "If I get married tomorrow that will be about enough excitement around the house for one day."

Kitty looked at her oddly. "IF you get married! I thought that was all set."

"Oh, it is—of course. And we're leaving for a month's honeymoon in the Canadian Rockies."

"Well, you better run along and get a good night's sleep," Duke Garson said, tolerantly.

"I'll not sleep tonight," Connie declared. "I'm going to see Jim Tracy—my fiance—and put the whole thing up to him before we're married. Jim has a good head—he'll know how to work everything."

She noticed, even as she spoke, that something of the kindled light in Kitty's eyes was dying out. Again, the old surly look was creeping over the girl's face.

"Suppose he don't like the horrible confession you'll have to make?" Kitty asked.

Telephones Fiance

"Don't worry about Jim not liking you—he's wonderful," Connie told her. "He'll tell me exactly what to do and how to do it."

"Well, if you need somebody to tell you what to do, I suppose this Tracy fellow is as good as any," Kitty said. "Where is he?"

"Home, I suppose." Connie looked around the restaurant for a telephone booth. "I'll call him up right now."

Jim himself answered the long distance call when she got his house up near Stamford. Since he had seen her driving away mysteriously toward New York he had been miserable with suspense and apprehension. He had tramped to a garage and obtained gas for his own empty tank. By that time pursuit was hopeless and, highly wrought, he had driven home, where, when she called, he was pacing the floor in anguished mystification.

"Now don't get excited, dear," she said soothingly. "I'm quite all right and perfectly safe—but I'm not home. I want to see you tonight. I have something important to tell you."

She could detect the note of fear in his tone. "What's wrong? It's 1:30 in the morning and I don't even know where you are, Connie—"

"I'll be at your place within an hour or so," she said, crisply. "Meanwhile, don't worry your head. Something has come up, Jim—but it's nothing to worry us. I'll tell you everything as soon as I get there."

Attracted to Garson

"Where can I reach you tomorrow?" she asked Kitty. "I'm going back now, but I'll get in touch with you in the morning."

"Here—" Duke Garson handed Connie a card on which he had written Kitty's address and telephone number with a pencil.

"I suppose I ought to wish you a lot of luck on your marriage," Kitty said, "but you were born lucky, so I guess you don't need it."

She was now acutely conscious of him as a man; all of the harshness that had seemed so vicious in his manner had disappeared. He was handsome, ingratiating, without any of the petty tricks of chivalry. Still, she found it hard to forgive him for his previous threats, which amounted, almost, to attempted blackmail. He looked at her steadily and seemed to be reading her mind.

"Don't carry away the idea, please, Miss Calvert, that Kitty and I were trying to gyp a defenseless girl," he told her, with a half smile. "We were prejudiced against you from the start—and the under dog has the right to snarl a bit, because he is the underdog. We didn't know at first that you were as square as we do now—did we, Kitty?"

"You two," Kitty retorted, eyeing them, "certainly have lots of arguments in common. What's the good talking? Let's all tell each other goodnight and wait for the breaks."

"Won't you kiss me and wish me happiness?" Connie asked her sister awkwardly. Kitty obeyed.

But on the swift drive back to Connecticut, with the cool night air rushing past her ears, Connie was lingeringly aware of the firm, magnetic pressure of Duke Garson's farewell handshake.

DAILY TRUE STORY — Just the Type

"Nothing——"

"——today! Can't you ever hand me any other line, Bert?"

Wally Thurston looked reproachfully at Bert Simmons, casting director for the Martin Lawlor productions.

"Why should I tell you there was something when there isn't?" he demanded.

"But why isn't there something? Listen, Bert, we used to be buddies. You said you'd do anything for me, Bert, and now——"

"I'm Mister Simmons, Wally, don't forget that."

Wally Thurston stared at plump, pink-faced, over-dressed Bert Simmons, and his heart was heavy with murderous thoughts. He had toadied to Simmons, called him "Mister" and what not, solely because he hoped it would get him something.

Wally was thinking that for two pins he would grab Bert by the neck and slap his silly, ruddy face against the top of his desk until it looked like hamburger.

"I know what we want. Why do you suppose Martin Lawlor sent for me and begged me to be his casting director if it wasn't because he knew that I knew how to pick talent?"

"Lawlor didn't send for you—you were after him day and night for the job when Connors left. Don't hand me any of that tripe, Bert. I don't know why you are sore on me, unless it is because you've never paid me back for the coin I loaned you when you were on the rocks with nothing for cakes and flop. I'll tell you right now, I'm going over your damn fool fat head and see Mr. Lawlor!"

"Yeah? Go to it—maybe you'll get wise to how I stand around here. Mr. Lawlor takes my word for everything. He knows I'm the goods as a casting director, so roll your hoop, Wally, and don't take up room around here."

Fulfills Threat

Bert Simmons was not exactly dull. If he had been regular instead of just mean and crooked, he might have gone far.

He stepped in to speak to Martin Lawlor about something. Lawlor was a mighty successful producer for a man no more than 40. But he had so many interests that he had to depend on the executives he hired.

"By the way, Mr. Lawlor," Simmons said after he had discussed the first matter, "now and then we casting directors are pestered with nit-wits who think they are second Edwin Booths. There's a guy I used to know and help when he was down and out. His name's Thurston. I'd help him if I could, but he's rotten, no talent at all. He thinks I'm jealous, trying to hold him back. He told me he was going over my head to you. Sure, that's all right with me—only I ought to tip you that he's a born flop and a jinx and everything no company should have."

"Yes, plenty like that. What's his name again?"

"Thurston, Wally Thurston."

Lawlor made a note of it.

Wally did as he had threatened. Through Grierson of the Mime's Club he got to see Lawlor. As soon as he gave his name, Lawlor remembered it and Simmons' false tip.

"Not a chance, Thurston," Lawlor said. "I never use your type. Don't take up my time or Simmons' time any more."

"I may and I may not," Thurston said, rather desperately.

"You'll be tossed out on your ear," Lawlor said briskly.

Wally Thurston was a fighter, not a quitter. He got a few bits of work to do, here and there, half weeks and the like, and lived almost miserly, saving what he could.

Wally had a streak of luck, everything considered. He was helping Deighton put on some dances at the Oread Club. It promised to last indefinitely, as they changed the show weekly. It wasn't a big paying proposition (he was merely an assistant), but it would help and Wally was waiting for something to happen so that he could land with a real outfit, like one of the Martin Lawlor productions.

Sees Mrs. Lawlor

Wally did not appear at the Oread Club before the patrons. His job was watching the girls, seeing that they got out and did their work. But from his vantage point he could look out and see a large portion of the big dining room.

Now and then he saw Martin Lawlor out there, and always with the same girl, a rather over-dressed, over-painted hard-faced girl who still had plenty of good looks despite these drawbacks.

"What do you mean, his wife? That's Kitty Noxon—used to be Gambler Greig's sweetie. Lawlor took up with her after Greig was bumped. Looks to me as though she had something on him—he's not the type to fall for her kind."

A few weeks after this Wally saw Mrs. Martin Lawlor, a really handsome woman, who looked thoroughly capable of taking care of herself. From the manner in which Lawlor helped her out of the car it was evident that he still loved his wife, despite his lapses of playing about a bit.

It was months after this that Wally saw the real Mrs. Lawlor at the Oread Club.

Wally said, "Well, that's no skin off the end of my nose," but he was really very much interested.

He watched, night after night. He had never forgotten that Lawlor had said to him that he wasn't his type and that there would never be anything for him in a Martin Lawlor production.

"That won't put any dollars in my pocket, but it will give me a laugh," Wally thought.

And then he saw Martin Lawlor come in one night. The over-painted girl was with him.

Wally sneaked up to the smaller dining room above. He was not at all surprised to find Mrs. Lawlor up there with her detective. She often went to the upper room first and then came down, or changed the tactics.

Not long after this a rather good-looking woman came over to the table where Lawlor was sitting. She sat down beside the girl.

"Hello, Kitty," she said.

Kitty Noxon stared at her.

"I don't know you, do I?" she said, coldly.

"What's the big idea?" he asked.

"Your wife's upstairs—no, she's just coming in now," Lawlor was warned. "Don't jump or turn around."

Mrs. Martin Lawlor and her escort came over to the table.

"So!" she said, glaring at Lawlor's companion. Then she turned to her escort.

"See, Johnston? I want you as a witness."

Given Job

"I'm sorry, Mr. Lawlor. We carried this too far, I guess," and with that off came the wig. It wasn't a young woman at all, it was Wally Thurston. He turned to Mrs. Lawlor.

"I'm awfully sorry, Mrs. Lawlor. You see I'm going into Mr. Lawlor's new production and I was demonstrating to him that I know my stuff and can do impersonations."

"For goodness sake!" Mrs. Lawlor said, getting mighty red.

"We've fooled a lot of Mr. Lawlor's friends here for a dozen nights or so—had no idea you would happen in. Mr. Lawlor should have told you," Wally said.

He did come back.

"So I'll never be the type for any of your production, eh, Mr. Lawlor? I want to tell you something," and Wally told him the truth about Bert Simmons.

Lawlor engaged Wally right then and there.

"I'll accept with one provision, and that is that I may go in tomorrow and bounce my fist off Bert Simmons' nose."

Wally Thurston got a nice contract with Lawlor and Simmons got two things—he got fired and also got a terrible sock in the nose.

Every Man His Own Audience! Self-Service for Musicians!

A Christmas gift to humanity which will save thousands from needless annoyance is herewith announced—perfection of the Musicians' Self Service Attachment for Brass Instruments. The device consists of a funnel shaped cone, which bolts onto the most annoying part of the horn, and carries the sound right back where it started from. It is the cafeteria idea applied to harmonics. Mr. Stanley Jones, of 40 W. 11th st., is the inventor. Mr Jones believes that with very little trouble, the various state legislatures can be induced to pass humane laws making it obligatory for all sad horn-blowers to adopt his attachment. Such legislation, he believes, is in line with the popular movement to eliminate unnecessary noise, while, at the same time, it does not divorce the musician from his favorite audience.

Not So Smart

Recovery of Part of Perry State Bank Loot Brightens Prospect for Arrest of Bandits.

The recovery in a North Side rooming house yesterday of part of the plunder obtained by bandits in the holdup of the Perry State Bank Saturday is a hopeful sign.

In leaving the loot at the house, they remarked they would be back in a week. If secrecy had been observed by those who discovered the cache, the thieves might have been trapped when they returned.

No reward has been offered as yet for the apprehension of the Perry Bank robbers. Some such offer might stimulate amateur detectives. It might have led to the taking of proper precautions by those who found the plunder.

The Tri-State Bankers' Association has offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bandit who killed Charles N. McFarland, Verona bank cashier.

Since it is to the interest not only of the banks but of the public that the bandits be punished, such rewards, if necessary or desirable, might well be offered by the county.

A Job for the Schools

Study of Children's Problems by Teachers Is Suggested As a Plan for Prevention of Crime.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said in an address in the Fourth United Presbyterian Church, North Side, Sunday night, that 90 per cent of defendants charged with crimes of violence range in age from 16 to 22 years.

Park's views are in harmony with those of a writer in the December "Journal of the National Education Association," who says:

"Crime can be stopped. To do so would save enough in waste and costs to pay every teacher in the United States $10,000 a year. The method is relatively simple in principle. Have a teacher who understands sympathetically and thoroughly the growth problems in the life of the child and who is in a position to make those factors favorable. This means more teachers, perhaps one for every 10 pupils. Why not! Machines and consolidations are replacing men so rapidly that there is unemployment on almost every side. More teachers would reduce unemployment, reduce crime, and help the child."

It is not as easy as that. But teachers could undoubtedly do much, if our educational system permitted, to keep adolescents straight.

It falls to the schools to remedy the deficiencies in home training. If the methods of public instruction are not suitable for this purpose, they should be changed.

A Gratifying Success

Apple Selling Plan for Pittsburgh's Unemployed Has Proved a Happy Inspiration.

The plan to help the unemployed by letting them sell apples on street corners, free of license tax, has proved a happy inspiration.

Of the various suggestions that have been offered for meeting the situation none has had a more spectacular success than this.

Alexander Murdoch, chairman of the Pittsburgh Apple Committee, reports that the apple sellers are earning between $1,500 and $2,000 a day. On the average they are selling two boxes each daily, on which the profit is $4.

One welfare organization reports that 87 families which had been receiving help have notified officials they no longer need it, because their bread-winners are making enough money selling apples to support them.

This is all the more gratifying because the plan was not regarded favorably by the unemployed at the outset. On the day it went into effect there was only one applicant for the privilege.

The scheme has demonstrated that there is plenty of money in Pittsburgh, which the public will gladly spend if offered articles as good and as tempting as the big red apples which everyone is now eating.

New York's Smoke

The Big City's Fight Against the Nuisance Is a Reminder of the Progress Made Here.

Dr. H. B. Meller, chief of the Bureau of Smoke Regulation, suggests that Pittsburgh may benefit by passage of a smoke abatement ordinance under consideration by the New York City Board of Aldermen.

The measure would prohibit the use of ordinary bituminous coal and so, according to Dr. Meller, would increase the demand for Pittsburgh coke and the so-called "smokeless" fuels produced in Pennsylvania.

New York City used to burn anthracite. The anthracite strike and other developments led to extensive consumption of bituminous coal, with the result that the metropolis has a smoke problem as bad as ours.

Indeed, Pittsburgh is no longer deserving of the sobriquet "Smoky City," because we have made considerable progress in abating the nuisance. Measurements made of atmospheric deposits show there is not nearly as much tar, indicative of black smoke, as there was 10 or 15 years ago.

On the other hand, the smoke situation has become bad not only in New York, but in half a dozen other large cities that formerly poked fun at Pittsburgh.

When Two's a Crowd

By Nelson Harding

Two constitute a crowd when they

Result, confusion and delay
If neither rival will give way.
Both parties waste good time, because
We don't care which is Santa Claus.

Brother and Sister

He Fights, She Trains Him.

THE "BRITISH CARNERA" AND HIS 14-STONE SISTER.

This young English fighter, of skyscraper build, is called the "British Carnera," although not as tall or as heavy as Carnera, the "human alp." This Britisher weighs 17 stone, his 16-year-old sister, who helps to train him, weighs 14 stone. Translated from the British, these weights mean, respectively, 238 and 196 pounds.

A girl of this size, weighing 196 pounds and able to run hard and long enough to train a prize-fighting brother must be a considerable girl.

What he could do against a man able to hit him hard, as our modern boxers do, anywhere between the knees and the eyebrows, remains to be seen.

He seems to be a determined young man, but a little narrow in proportion to height. You will be interested in him because of his healthy, cheerful-looking sister.

If when he appears here to collect some of our American dollars this sister sits in the ring with him, she will help to draw a crowd and money.

What she would think of her American "sisters," sitting around the ring, smoking cigarets, howling and yelling at the sight of blood, with plenty of cocktails in their stomachs and plenty of crimson grease on their lips, she probably would not say.

Is Science Becoming Meaningless?

By Archibald Henderson

The alarming tendency of contemporary science, especially in the field of physics, is towards a certain incoherence which is very confusing to the average man and woman. Is science tending to return to a sort of magic hocus-pocus? Are physics reverting to mysticism, astronomy to astrology? Is Einstein a new-century re-incarnation of Friar Bacon, relatively a complicated system of higher numerology? How shall we disengage the solid, substantial truth from clouds of whirling electrons, blinding flashes of protons, the jerky energetics of quanta?

Any of the young theoretical physicists of today will tell you, says Eddington, that the basis of all the phenomena that come within their province is a scheme of symbols connected by mathematical equations. That is what the psysical boils down to when probed by the methods which a psysicist can apply—a skeleton scheme of symbols.

The old simplicities have given way to the new complexities. In the presence of physics, we may soon have to admit that physiology is beginning to approach the limit of its powers. In spite of the beauty and significance of many of the newer discoveries in science, the discouraging thought arises that perhaps, after all, nature is a mystery too deep for the comprehension of human intelligence in its present stage of development.

As the world of science confronted the universe for the past three centuries, it saw in nature an orderly picture of unity and harmony. Nature was a scheme of felicitous orderliness; effect followed cause with immitigable certainty. Nature proceeded according to a scheme of laws, accurately formulated. It was a unit, with all its parts in demonstrable relatedness. The laws of evolution, of universal gravitation, of the conservation of energy, for example, were there to resolve our doubts and clarify our difficulties.

This new world of post-Newtonian physics, according to Bridgman, calls for a new picture. We are, he says, discovering that "nature is intrinsically and in its elements neither understandable nor subject to law." This is an exaggerated and epigrammic statement of a state of affairs which is very real and not to be denied.

Perhaps we have erred too far, in one direction in assuming that nature is essentially orderly. The object of science is to classify, order, and arrange data; and to formulate the rules which govern classes of phenomena. Indeed, science has been defined as an attempt to set in order the facts of experience. But the query naturally arises, in many fields of science today, is this: Is nature herself orderly? May it not be that this is a very irregular universe?

Take, for example, the puzzling notion advanced by Heisenberg, known as the Principle of Uncertainty. It is a principle derived from equations set up by Heisenberg to describe phenomena inside atomic structure. As formulated by Bridgman: Heisenberg's principle states that the ultimately possible accuracy of our measurements is limited in a curious and unsuspected way.

There is no limit to the accuracy with which we can describe (or measure) any one quality in a physical situation, but if we elect to measure one thing accurately we pay a price in our ability to measure some other thing accurately . . . The meaning of the fact that it is impossible to measure exactly both the position and velocity of the electron may be paradoxically stated to be that an electron can not have both position and velocity.

The physicists of today are beginning to formulate such paradoxes, fascinated by the allurements of the newer puzzles which recent physical discoveries have presented to their view. The common sense answer to such a paradox is that it is, like all paradoxes, a spectacular but deceptive statement, with a certain semblance of truth. Heisenberg's formulation of the physical phenomena. The postion and velocity of the electron may simultaneously be determined when some new physicist improves upon Heisenberg's imperfect description of nature's processes.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

They found Roy Danks dead, in his beautiful studio on Sixty-seventh street. Slumped in a kitchen chair—three gas jets turned on. No one knows whether he killed himself or not, but his wife said he'd been downcast for a long time over his "inability to express himself."

I suspect it was that futile dream of self-expression that really asphyxiated poor Danks—and the gas jets just finished the job.

Self-expression—we've gone loco over it in this twentieth century. Time was when we humans did our regular chores as a matter of course. Maybe we didn't like them. Maybe we did. But there they were to be done—and we did them.

Then along came the glamorous Twentieth Century. With fortunes being made and spent in a minute. And almost everyone either a Best Seller or a Hollywood Star. Naturally, who wants to stay in a kitchen or a stock room? Nobody.

If you don't believe it, run a column like this for a couple of weeks. Scores of letters daily, and nine out of ten clamoring for "self-expression." Not just young artists. People of every age, every position. Youngsters in Hi. Graduates, drudging resentfully in some office or shop.

Stenos— clerks— business men housewives, so many housewives, all wanting to write—or act—or sing—or play in the movies. Wanting to "express themselves" . . . Do something—or Be Something Different.

And what have they to express?

The truth is, of course, that most of them have nothing to express. They're simply lazy, bored, discontented, irritable. They haven't imagination enough to see the adventure that lies in their own job—that lies in even the dullest job.

They haven't sufficient grit or patience to study. But they kid themselves by thinking what they could do If They Had A Chance. And they dramatize their lives by thinking how Tragically They've Been Frustrated.

Actually, if someone gave them a chance to express themselves, they could do nothing with it. For they have grown no selves to express. They're just yearners. And nothing but.

But their yearning is costing us plenty . . . it's sprouting a fine crop of lawlessness, suicide, misery and divorce. Because the yearners can't have the life they want, they won't have the life they can have. Their bodies may go through the motions of living those lives—go through the motions of housekeeping, typewriting, clerking, trading. But their spirits are not in it.

Does that mean that we should all spinelessly accept mediocre lives, just because we weren't born Barrymores or Bernard Shaws? Of course, it doesn't. There are great things to express, and great souls are expression. But the average yearner wouldn't recognize that sort of self-expression if he saw it.

For real self-expression means that you have something to express. And getting something to express is the loneliest, grimmest job on earth. Before you can know about life, or tell about life, you must live life.

And you can't live life or learn life by merely blatting about it. You must endure discipline and suffering and sacrifice and humiliation—until at last you grow a soul wise enough and wide enough to be worth expressing.

Text for Today For anyone who merely listens to the message without obeying it is like a man who looks in a mirror at the face that nature gave him, and then goes off and immediately forgets what he looked like.—James i:23.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—When Broadway was a real street: "Silver King," the fashion plate bartender at the Knickerbocker . . . Town sports who hung out in John McGraw's billiard parlor . . . The roaring presses in the basement of the Herald Building . . . And the blinking green-eyed owls on cornices.

"First nights" at the Empire . . . "Floradora" at the Casino. . . The frosted buckets of champagne at Martin's. . . The cartoonist table at Churchill's at 4 in the afternoon. . . George Rector in his Broadway entrance awaiting customers. . . The Battling Nelson Grill at Jack's.

Tad and Hype Igoe caroling "Frankie and Johnnie."..."Stuffy" Davis, the sweatered dramatic critic. . . Clyde Fitch and his Inverness coat. . . The midnight crowd at Kid McCoy's "Poodle Dog"... Thorley, the florist, and his lapel flower. . . The Kaiserhof . . . Paul Dresser, the song writer.

The Astor Roof on a hot summer night. . . Lillian Lorraine swinging out over the audiences on the New York roof. . . Anna Held's French accent. . . Harris Merton Lyon's table at Keene's chop house. . . The autographed wall pictures of players at Browne's. . . The Flatiron building.

Collegiate's in down-town Bustanoby's. . . The Domino Room in uptown Bustanoby's. . . The Monday afternoon crowd at Hammerstein's Victoria. . . Diamond Jim's elephant-shaped ruby studs. . . . Rennold Wolf's column in the Morning Telegraph. . . Valeska Suratt's back. . . Margaret Haweworth's night club.

* * *

Those were days when Broadway at night was released into quasi-shameless jollity, free of discipline, but rarely dangerous. East Side gorillas with sinister twists to their lips remained below 14th street and spenders who flashed rolls were not "put on the spot." Frescoed night club walls did not stress the aphrodisiac and orgiastic. There were no masters of ceremony, hostesses, cabaret floor shows featuring ker-chief-in-the-cuff lollipops or blackmailing baby talkers. Broadway was Broadway—impishly gay but arresting.

* * *

In that period of Broadway, State Senator James J. Walker was acquiring his Broadway familiarity. Where chandeliers blazed brightest he would be found, the suave and affable "Jimmy"—a fountain of bubbling wit—building political bridges that spanned, well anyway, to the City Hall.

* * *

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Your presence is most desirable, but if you can't visit the old home, at least write a Christmas letter.

If it is pleasure in the city where you are located that keeps you from going home, you are selfish and unkind.

There may be little of interest to you in the old town.

From the standpoint of social incentive there may be no satisfaction for you in the entertainment provided in the old home place.

What is giving up the social diversion of your city crowd compared with the comfort it would be to your parents and relatives to have you home?

But to be with them on Christmas Day, when their strongest thoughts are going out to you, when their greatest desire is to see you—that pays them.

Your parents look back to the past Christmases when you were a child and long to be able to give again the pleasure they once saw in your face.

Go home if you can. If not, write a letter.
